SENSATIONAL STORY IS REVEALED.

Many People Throughout Wood County Will Become Interested and Involved During the Next Eight Weeks.

If you are devoid of enthusiasm, ambition, and that quality called "pep," in the language of the "live wire," it will not be worth while for you to read any further. You might as well save your eyes. But if you are actually open to a call from opportunity, and have a fair share of ambition, then we know that you will be tremendously interested in this story.

Some wise man once said, "Important happenings occur during the blue moon season." We are not prepared to state whether this is the blue moon season or not, but we do know that one of the most important happenings is going to be "pulled off" in Wood county in one-two-three order. The fact of the matter is, you will have to watch closely for this proposition is going to be staged in the short period of eight weeks.

Don't get impatient and wonder why we are beating around the bush. We are merely trying you out. If you are a live wire you will have the patience to read still further. Anyway, it will only take you six minutes by the clock to read the entire article.

All right, if you are now in a receptive mood, listen closely: We are going to pull off the greatest contest that has ever been staged in Wood county. We are going to head off a list of prizes with that world-famous car, the Five Passenger Ford. You ought to know that the Ford has long been noted for the service it renders.

As second prize we have purchased a $100 list value diamond ring and as you know that diamonds always have a cash value any place, you will surely admit

Death of Charles Knippel

Charles Knippel, one of the old residents of this locality, died at his home in this city on Monday morning after an illness of considerable length from diabetes.

Mr. Knippel was born in Germany on the 11th of February, 1849, and was therefore 65 years old at the time of his death. After coming to this part of the country he engaged in farming in the town of Grand Rapids, where he was successful in his vocation, but in 1906 he retired from active work, residing of his farm and moving to this city to live.

He leaves to mourn his death four daughters and one son, they being Mrs. Anna Sweet, Mrs. Emma Schiller of this city, Mrs. Henry Wadell and Mrs. Frank Vanderhoof of Tommond.

The funeral will occur this afternoon from the home at 1:00 o'clock and later from the First Moravian church, Rev. C. A. Mellicke officiating.

Death of Mrs. Francis Doughty

Mrs. Francis Doughty, who made her home with her son Orloff Doughty on the west side, died on Sunday after a lingering illness, she having been an invalid for sixty years past.

Deceased was born at Liberty Falls, New York, and has been a resident of Wisconsin during the past thirty years. She is survived by five children, Orloff Doughty and Mrs. Jane Meddaugh of this city, Oscar Doughty of Milwaukee, Curtis Doughty of Curry, N. Y., and Jerry Doughty of Rudolph.

The funeral services were held Tuesday morning from the home of Orloff Doughty, Rev. H. C. Logan of the Methodist church officiating.

Couldn't Fill the Requirements

On Tuesday a young man appeared at the Tribune office and stated that he had seen that there was a schoolmarm who wanted to get married, and that he was a candidate for the position.

When asked if he had the five or six children that were required by the young lady in question, he bashfully admitted that he did not, he being a bachelor. Consequently there was nothing doing for this young man. It appears that widowers with ready-made families who wish to serve a second term are rather scarce at the present time.

Killed Six Wolves

Sol Meritt of Pittsville brought in six wolf scalps to the county clerk on Tuesday, the animals being some that he had killed in the neighborhood of his home. They being all young ones.

Mrs. J. R. Ragan and mother, who have been spending several weeks past at Hot Springs, expect to return home in the near future, the weather there being too warm for comfort at this time of the year.

Stevens Point Journal:—Mrs. David Lutz, a daughter Miss Alma; the Misses Edna, Bliss and Ella Schumann. Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Veltier, all of Grand Rapids, visited their respective friends in this city last Sunday.

The Sunday school class of Miss Elizabeth Herschleb gave an entertainment at the Methodist church on Monday evening entitled "Flora's Birthday." The little folks were attired in fancy costumes and a large crowd was out to witness the entertainment.

Miss Gertrude Johnson, who has been teaching at the state normal school at Emporia, Kansas, returned to this city last Wednesday to spend the vacation with her mother, Mrs. N. Johnson. Miss Irma Johnson, who has been attending school in the east, is also expected home this week, having finished her studies there.

NEWSPAPER MEN WILL BE HERE SOON

The Central Wisconsin Press Association will meet in this city on Friday, June 19th, to spend the afternoon and evening with us. The weather is at all favorable it is the intention to try to make the stay of the visitors pleasant enough so that they will go home and have some thing nice to say about Grand Rapids.

An effort will be made to give the visitors an automobile ride about town, so that they will have a chance to see some of the beautiful scenery along the river, and at the conclusion of this they will be taken to the pavilion over the interurban line, where there will be a short business program.

When the business session is over a supper will be served and music will be on hand so that those who desire to may dance during a part of the evening, or all of it for that matter.

It is expected that there will be a large number of newspaper men here, and the session will be mostly of a social character with the business meeting to take up only a small part of the afternoon. The newspaper men have promised to bring their wives or sweethearts with them.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT THE CONGREGATIONAL S. S.

The annual Children's Day exercises of the Congregational Sunday School will be given next Sunday evening in the church auditorium.

The parents and friends of the students are especially invited and a splendid program will be provided for their entertainment.

Crotteau-Bruderli

Miss Edna Crotteau and Mr. Albert Bruderli were married at St. Peter and Paul Catholic church in this city last Thursday morning. Rev. Riegeberger performing the ceremony that made them man and wife. They were accompanied by Miss Viola Bruderli and Mr. Lloyd Crotteau.

Both of the young people are well and favorably known in this city, the bride being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Crotteau, and a most estimable young lady, while the groom is an industrious young man who for some time past has been in the employ of the Hart Manufacturing company. Mr. and Mrs. Bruderli will make their home in this city where they have many friends who will unite with the Tribune in extending the heartiest of congratulations.

Grand Rapids Will Celebrate

A meeting of the Fourth of July Committee was held on Monday evening and it was decided to celebrate in good style this year, as they have been over the town and the people seemed to be willing to put up the cash, having subscribed quite liberally to the proposition.

The program for the event has not been prepared as yet, but it will be arranged so that there will be something doing all day. An honorary committee has been appointed from Marshfield and it is expected that the citizens up there will co-operate with us in celebrating the day.

Commencement at the Co. Normal

Next week will see the closing of the Wood County Normal. A class of twenty-nine will graduate. On Wednesday evening, June 17, the public are invited to the Class Day exercises at the Lincoln building and on Thursday evening June 18 the graduates will receive their diplomas at the eleventh annual graduation exercises. Prof. R. L. Lyman will deliver the commencement address. On Friday evening the old graduates will meet for their annual jollification reunion at their "home" the County Normal building.

Hotel Dixon Sold

A. F. Jones, who formerly operated a hotel at Baraboo, has bought the Hotel Dixon, and took charge of the place this week. Mr. Jones will be assisted by his wife in the management of the hotel, and intends to fix the place up and make it a first-class hostelry in every respect.

The Dixon Hotel has always enjoyed a good run of business and there is no reason why the present proprietor should not make good in the location.

Came Near Being Killed

While lowering a huge chunk of ice from the ice house on Tuesday E. C. Ketchum came near being crushed. The ice, which weighed about 350 pounds, broke loose from its fastenings, and Mr. Ketchum saw it in time to dodge it to a certain extent, but it struck him on the leg, tearing the flesh to a considerable extent and bruising him up badly. A surgeon dressed his wounds and it is expected that he will be about again in a few days.

Monuments Unveiled

The members of the Woodmen of the World lodge held unveiling services at the cemetery last Sunday the services being at the graves of J. Demars, J. W. Cochran and John Garlhee. About two hundred members were in line, and headed by the local band they marched to the cemetery where the services were held. There were a large number of people out to witness the ceremonies.

Rural School Exercises

The rural school graduation exercises for the south end of Wood county will be held at the Lincoln high school auditorium on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock June 17th. Those receiving diplomas and their friends and all others interested are cordially invited to be present. The spelling contest for this end of the county will be held at the close of the exercises.

Notice to Dog Owners

—Owners of dogs are hereby notified that in accordance with ordinance No. 53 the dog tax of $1.00 for males and $2.00 for females is now due and must be paid by July 15th. After that date a collection fee of 25 cents will be charged. Owners of dogs who do not pay the tax are subject to arrest and prosecution.

Entertained a Porch Party

Miss Lenore Gouger entertained a party of young people at her home on Third street Monday evening at a porch party in honor of Harland Hyer of Nekosco. The evening was spent in a most pleasant manner in music and dancing there being about twenty present.

WISCONSIN RIVER ON THE RAMPAGE

With the water touching the twelve foot mark and reports from up river to the effect that it would probably go higher, Grand Rapids people were on Saturday a trifle worried as to what the outcome would be. But outside of those who had to move out of their basements and the merchants who were put to the trouble and expense of putting their basement stocks up on the top shelf, the damage was only nominal.

Fred Stimm was compelled to discontinue the barber business for the time being, the water being up to the windows in his shop, and the place would not have been navigable even with a pair of waders.

The Chambers Grocery company also had plenty of water in their place of business to compel them to stop the wheels turning for a time, but outside of the inconvenience and loss of time, they suffered no loss.

Cohen Brothers had to move a lot of merchandise in the basement and get it up out of the wet, and the Leader office was put out of business for one day. The mill at Bron was compelled to shut down on Saturday afternoon, but by Monday morning the water had fallen sufficiently so that they were able to resume business.

At the Consolidated they took time by the forelock, and kept several teams busy hauling bags of sand and gravel to pile along the edge of their parked section, and the result was that the damage there was not nearly as bad as it would probably otherwise have been.

On the other river bank much of the filling that has been done by the park commissioners this spring was washed out, causing a considerable loss there, as the river bank presents about the same appearance that it did before the work was done.

As it was the damage all around was not particularly great, but had the rain continued for one day on Saturday night, there might have been more to tell about as the water was up around the danger mark when it commenced to recede.

University Graduates

Madison, Wis., June 3.—Caps and gowns are familiar sights on the campus of the University of Wisconsin and final examinations began June 6. Among the students the principal topic of conversation is the approaching of commencement which begins June 17. The "procession" will take place at 8:45 on that morning. Those who will take part in it include all candidates for degrees, members of the instructional force, members of the faculty of '65 and '64, the president and the regents.

Following the procession President Van Hise will deliver the commencement address in Armory hall and confer degrees. Orations will also be given by members of the graduating class.

On June 14 in Armory hall, Honorable John A. MacDonell, mayor of the Globe, Torrance, Canada, will deliver the baccalaureate address to the graduating classes of all departments.

The graduating class this year is a large one. The following are seniors from Wood county: Sylvia B. Bartmann, Karl B. Dooze, Melville; William R. Boorman, George C. Hill, Lloyd D. Miller, and Percival S. Daly, Grand Rapids.

Anniversary Services

Servises will be held at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church next Sunday to celebrate the 15th anniversary of the organization of that society. There will be three sessions during the day, the first at 9:45 in the morning when Rev. G. Baum of Menomonee, former pastor of the church will preach. In the afternoon services also commemorating the 15th anniversary of the organization of the ladies aid society will be held. Rev. R. Pautz of this city preaching. In the evening at 7:30 there will be an English sermon by Rev. H. S. Koch of Doylestown, Wis.

Drawbacks in All Localities

W. S. Gardner, who is now located in Batte, Mont., writes the Tribune that they have snow, rain, hail and sunshine all at the same time out in that country. He also stated that it costs as much for fuel there as it does in Wisconsin when mercury is forty below zero. Everything else costs in proportion, house rent being from $20 to $48 per month for furnished rooms. Carpenters get $7 per day for 8 hours work.

New Minister Installed

Rev. Pautz of the east side Lutheran church of this city was at Pittsville on Sunday, where he installed the Rev. E. Dobratz in the Lutheran church there. Rev. Albert Wahl who has had charge of the Lutheran church at Pittsville for several years past, has gone to Eau Claire. Rev. Dobratz comes from Thiensville.

Automobile Abre

The automobile belonging to D. D. Conway caught fire Monday afternoon when an effort was made to start up the machine. The fire company was called out but the fire was extinguished by the use of a pump hose before the department arrived. No damage resulted.

Home Grown Strawberries

—Anyone wishing to purchase fine strawberries who will call on Mrs. E. G. Gordon at Grand Avenue or drop a card. He commenced picking this week and expects to have several hundred cases. Don't wait to buy for canning purposes until too late but put in your order at once.

Sale and Social

—The Catholic lady Pioneers will hold an apron sale and ice cream social on Saturday, June 13th, at the old Grand Theatre, south of Hotel Witter. Sale will continue all day.

Vaudeville Saturday & Sunday

—The Vaudeville at Daly's Theatre last Saturday and Sunday was certainly out of the ordinary and pronounced by those who attended to be the best ever presented in Grand Rapids. It consisted of three well balanced acts and two reels of pictures lasting one and one-half hours. Playing two shows, 7:30 and 9 o'clock Manager Daly will play vaudeville every Saturday and Sunday. This week's program: Lou Chilla Xylophonist, Patricia & Meyers, the lovely pair, singing, talking and dancing. McConnell & Austin, a study in wheels. Three real vaudeville acts not wild-cat or caricature acts.

SYNOPSIS.

Bud Hooker and Phil De Lancey are forced, owing to the revolution in Mexico, to give up their mining claim and return to the United States. In the border town of Gadagden Hooker meets Henry Kruger, a wealthy miner, who hints of a big mining promotion in Mexico that he wants Hooker to take charge of.

"That's the rock," he said. "She runs four hundred dollars to the ton, and the ledge is eight inches wide. And 'tween the walls. Nice ore, eh? And she lays between shale and porphyry." His eyes sparkled as he carefully replaced the specimen, and then he looked up at Bud.

"I'll let you in on that," he said, "half and half—I'll pay you two hundred dollars a month and a bonus. You alone. Now how about it?"

For a moment Hooker looked at him as if to read his thoughts, then he shook his head and exhaled his smoke regretfully.

"Nope," he said. "Me and Phil are partners. We work together."

"I'll give you three hundred!" cried Kruger, half rising in his chair.

"Nope," grunted Bud, "we're partners."

"Fiddle!" snorted the mining man, and lunged away in disgust. But as he

"I'll Give You Three Hundred!" Cried Kruger.

neared the door a new thought struck him and he came as quickly back.

"You can do what you please about your partner," he said. "I'm talking to you! Now—will you think about it?"

"Sure!" returned Hooker.

"Well, then," snapped Kruger, "meet me at the Waldorf in an hour!"

CHAPTER III.

On the untrammeled frontier, where most men are willing to pass for what they want, Hooker and Phil De Lancey, as well as the general business, is transacted in the back rooms of saloons. The Waldorf was nicely furnished in this regard.

After a drink at the bar, in which De Lancey and Hooker joined, Henry Kruger led the way casually to the rear, and in a few moments they were safely closeted.

"Now," began Kruger, as he took a seat by the table and faced them with snapping eyes, "the first thing I want to make plain to you gentlemen is, if I make any deal today it's to be with Mr. Hooker. If you boys are partners you can talk it over together, but I deal with one man, and that's Hooker."

"All right," he inquired, glancing at De Lancey, and that young man nodded indifferently.

"Very well, then," resumed Kruger, "now to get down to business. This mine that I'm talking about is located down here in Sonora, within three miles of a big American camp. It isn't any old Spanish mine, or lost padre layout; it's a well-defined ledge running three or four hundred dollars to the ton—and I know right where it is, too."

"What I want to do is to establish the title to it now, while this revolution is going on, and make a bonanza out of it afterward. Of course, if you boys don't want to go back into Mexico, that settles it; but if you do, and I let you in on the deal, you've got to see it through or I'll lose the whole thing. So make up your minds, and if you say you'll go, I want you to stick to it!"

"Well, go, all right," spoke up De Lancey, "it's rich enough."

"How about you?" inquired Kruger, turning impatiently on Bud; "will you go?"

"Yes, I'll go," answered Bud sullenly. "But I ain't stuck on the job," he added. "Just about get it opened up when a bunch of rebels will jump in and take everything we've got."

"Well, you get a little to eat and pay your taxes and you can come out, then," conceded Hooker, "if I go I'll stay with it." He glanced at his partner at this, but, for one, did not seem to be worried.

"I'll try anything—once!" he observed with a slightly air, and he grinned sardonically at the well-worn phrase.

"Well," said Kruger, gazing inquiringly from one to the other, "is it a 'go'? Will you shake hands on it?"

"What's the proposition?" broke in De Lancey eagerly.

"The deal is between me and Hooker," corrected Kruger, "I'll give him three hundred a month, or an equal share in the mine, expenses to be shared between us."

"Make it equal shares," said Hooker, holding out his hand, "and I'll give half of mine to Phil."

"All right, my boy!" cried the old man, suddenly clapping him on the shoulder, "I'll go with you!"

"I'll go with you," he added significantly. Then, throwing off the air of guarded secrecy which had characterized his actions so far, he sat down and began to talk.

"Boys," he said, "I'm feeling lucky today or I'd never have closed this deal. I'm letting you in on one of the biggest things I've ever been found in."

"That's the first and last ore that's ever been shipped from the old Bagle Tail. I dug it out myself, and sacked and shipped it; and then some of the crooked Mexican officials tried to beat me out of my title and I blew up the whole works with dynamite!"

"Yes, sir, clean as a whistle! I had my powder stored away in the drift, and the minute I found out I was euchred I laid a fuse to it and brought the whole mountain down. That was ten years ago, and old Aragon and the agente mineral have had the land located ever since."

"I bet they've spent five thousand pesos trying to find that lead, but being nothing but a bunch of ignorant Mexicans, of course they never found nothing. Then Francisco Madero comes in and fires the agente mineral off his job and old Aragon lets the land keep to himself, and ever since he sent me word that the title had lapsed I've been crazy to relocate that claim."

"Well, now, that don't look so bad, does it?" he asked, beaming paternally at Bud.

"That ain't a man in town that wouldn't have jumped at it could talk about it, but that's just what I couldn't do. I had to find some stranger that wouldn't sense what mine I was talking about and then get him to go in on it blind."

"Now here's the way I'm fixed, boys," he exclaimed, brushing his unkempt beard and smiling at the Eagle Tail it was mine by rights, the best De Lancey—his the big Mexican down at old Fortuna—and Morales, the mineral agent, had bounced me out of the title."

"So, according to law, I blew up their mine, and if I ever showed up down here I reckon they'd throw me into jail. And if at any time they find out about it, working for me, why, we're ditched—that's all. They'll put you out of business. So, after we've made our agreement and I've told you what to do, I don't want to hear a word out of you—I don't want you to come near me, nor even write me a letter—just go ahead to broke."

"It ain't a hard proposition," he continued, "if you keep your mouth shut, but if they tumble, I'll be a fight to a finish. I'm not saying this for you, Hooker, because I know you're safe; I'm saying it for your partner here. You talk too much, Mr. De Lancey, he chided, giving him with suddenness a "I'm afraid of you!"

"All right," broke in Hooker good-naturedly, "I reckon we understand. Now go ahead and tell us where this mine is and who there is down there to look out for."

"The man to look out for," answered Kruger, "is the man that bilked me out of the mine once, and he'll do it again if he can. When I went down there—it was ten years and more ago—I wasn't on to those Spanish ways of his, and he was so dog-goned polite and friendly I thought I could trust him anywhere."

"He owns a big ranch and mesquite, runs cattle, works a few places, sends out pack-trains, and has every Mexican and Indian in the country in debt to him through his store, so if he happens to want any rough work done down here, he'll get it done. There's always somebody to do it."

"Well, just to noosing round those old mine workings east of Fortuna and finally I run across the ledge that I'm telling you about, not far from an abandoned shaft. But the Mexican mining laws are different from ours, and an American can't locate a mine anywhere, so I made a trade with old Aragon that he should locate the claim for me under a power of attorney. Didn't know him then like I do now. The papers had to be sent to Mexico and back, and to the city of Mexico and back, and while I was waiting for the papers to come in, I was waiting for the prettiest vein of quartz you ever saw in your life. Here's a sample of it, and it's sure rich."

He handed De Lancey the familiar piece of quartz and proceeded with his story.

"That ore looked so good to me that I couldn't wait—I shipped it before I got my title. And right there I made my mistake. When Aragon saw the gold in that rock he just quietly recorded the concession in his own name and told me to go to blazes. That's the greaser of it! So I left the title mine up and hit for the border. That's the Dutch of it, I reckon," he added grimly. "Anyway, my old man was Dutch."

He paused, smiling over the memory of his misplaced credulity, and Hooker and De Lancey joined in a hearty laugh. From the town below that he had first seen this shabby little man had changed in their eyes into what was a border Croesus, the mere recital of whose adventures conjured up in their minds visions of gold and hidden treasure.

Times, made by the manager of one of the largest hotels in London.

"The souvenir-collecting craze of American visitors to London," said the manager of another hotel which is the resort of many Americans every year, "is a weakness worthy of the proprietors."

No one thing really valuable is taken, of course, and the article taken is almost always some little thing bearing the crest or the name of the establishment. Here is a list of the things which are prized by Americans and which are regularly and with quite innocent intention—appropriated as souvenirs of a stay at a big London hotel: "Silver-plated coffee spoons, china ash trays, silver-plated pens, and forks, towels, dressing table trinkets, pin cushions and small pieces of table furniture. All these, of course, bear the name and the crest of the hotel."

Another hotel keeper told a good story of one American who took a plate bearing the name and crest of the place. "I am willing to pay for this plate," said the American, "but if you won't take my money, well, I guess," he said, "I'll take the plate all the same." He paid for it—12 cents. It appeared that he had been collecting plates from all the famous hotels in the country—not always paying for them, he admitted, and he proposed giving a dinner to his friends, and that he would have his food served on different plates collected from the famous English hotels.

"Before I consent to your engagement with my daughter, I must be sure that you are a good business man. Supposing now, a long and hard frost were to come on and you had a warehouse full of manufactured goods, what would you do with it?"—Fleming's Blatter.

The rugged face of Bud Hooker, which had been set in grim lines, relaxed as he listened, and he proceeded with his story.

And a group of others, sunning themselves against the wall, looked up at the Americans with eyes as fearless as mountain eagles.

"Yes, that's right," admitted Bud, returning their friendly greeting, "but we'll never have no trouble with them."

"Well, these Nacionales are not so bad," defended Phil, as they passed the state soldiers of Sonora on the street, "but they're just as friendly as the Yaquis."

"Sure," jeered Bud, "when they're sober. But you get a bunch of them drunk and ask 'em what they think of the gringos! No, you got to show 'em I've seen too much of 'em."

"You haven't seen as much of 'em as I have, yet," retorted De Lancey quickly. "I've been all over the republic, except right here in Sonora, and I swear these Sonorans here look good to me. There's no use holding a grudge against them. Bud—they haven't done us any dirt."

"They never had no chance," grumbled Bud, gazing grimly to the south. "But wait till the hot weather comes and the revolts come out of their holes, wait till them Chihuahuas greasers show up in the Sierras and come down to get some fresh mounts. Well, I'll tell 'em one thing, Bud, they'll never get old Copper Bottom, here—not unless they steal him at night. It's all right, though, I'll tell you, I'll keep right on the edge of the town and flanked by a segment of whitewashed wall all spattered and breached with bullet-holes."

"There were these prize Mexicans of yours pulled out of the trench in Sonora. I was over here yesterday with that old prospector and he told me that that wall is the bull-ring. After the first big fight they gathered up three hundred and fifty men, more or less, and threw 'em in the trench along with the few sticks of dynamite and let 'em pass for buried. No crosses or nothing. Excuse me, if they ever break loose, like that—they might get planted with the rest!"

"By Jove, old top," exclaimed De Lancey, laughing teasingly, "you're certainly got the blues today. Here, take something out of this bottle and see if it won't help."

He brought out a quart bottle from his saddle-bags and Bud drank, and shuddered at the bite of it.

"All right," he said, as he passed it back, "and while we're drinking, what's the matter with cutting it out on booze for this trip?"

"What are you going to drink, then?" cried De Lancey in feigned alarm, "water?"

"Well, something like that," admitted Bud. "Come on—what do you say? We might get lit up and tell something."

"I'll look here, Bud," clamored Phil, who had had a few drinks already, "you don't mean to insinuate, comes and the revolts come out of their holes, wait till them Chihuahuas greasers show up in the Sierras and come down to get some fresh mounts. Well, I'll tell 'em one thing, Bud, they'll never get old Copper Bottom, here—not unless they steal him at night. It's all right, though, I'll tell you, I'll keep right on the edge of the town and flanked by a segment of whitewashed wall all spattered and breached with bullet-holes."

A pair of tall Yaqui Indians, each decorated with a cartridge-belt about his waist, in token of his military service.

And a group of others, sunning themselves against the wall, looked up at the Americans with eyes as fearless as mountain eagles.

"Yes, that's right," admitted Bud, returning their friendly greeting, "but we'll never have no trouble with them."

"Well, these Nacionales are not so bad," defended Phil, as they passed the state soldiers of Sonora on the street, "but they're just as friendly as the Yaquis."

"Sure," jeered Bud, "when they're sober. But you get a bunch of them drunk and ask 'em what they think of the gringos! No, you got to show 'em I've seen too much of 'em."

"You haven't seen as much of 'em as I have, yet," retorted De Lancey quickly. "I've been all over the republic, except right here in Sonora, and I swear these Sonorans here look good to me. There's no use holding a grudge against them. Bud—they haven't done us any dirt."

"They never had no chance," grumbled Bud, gazing grimly to the south. "But wait till the hot weather comes and the revolts come out of their holes, wait till them Chihuahuas greasers show up in the Sierras and come down to get some fresh mounts. (Compiled by A. F. Leopold.)
It is with a little pride that the publishers of 'The Tribune' are able to present to the local public and the world at large an edition of this paper which has been made to speak so well for Grand Rapids and her many and varied interests. Even a casual perusal of this paper will convince the most skeptical stranger that our city is one of more than passing note.

With our 7,000 population and with our rapidly growing commercial trade, our productive agricultural section, our splendid transportation facilities, and our wide-awake and enterprising business men, Grand Rapids is destined within the next few years to rank higher than many cities in this state in many matters
of general public importance.

The object of this edition is to present to those who may be interested in a brief resume of the growth and prosperity of Grand Rapids, and
of the conditions which enter into that prosperity, and setting forth its advantages as a city of residences.

In connection with this is also presented brief reviews of some of the most progressive business firms and the men who furnish the brains, push energy and public spirit which enters so largely into the prosperity and growth of Grand Rapids. A city is measured very largely by the character, ability and enterprise of the men and arms which constitute its business interests, and in this respect
Grand Rapids is peculiarly fortunate.
Nowhere can a more liberal, enterprising and intelligent group of men than is found connected with the commercial and professional interests of Grand Rapids. They are conservative, yet enterprising, and every proposition having merit will meet with careful consideration, and,
if found worthy, with liberal and heartily assistance.

Grand Rapids has never been compelled to withstand the throes of a professional boom; it has slowly yet surely and steadily been building from year to year, and is today a healthy city from every point of view, commercially, socially and physically.
It has schools that are the equal of any in cities of its class; its churches include almost every denomination; its houses are substantial and in keeping with a prosperous people; its banks are sound to the core and possessed of ample capital to do double the business required of them; its streets are for the most part broad and shaded, with many miles of fine pavements; its mercantile establishments represent every line of trade and are prepared to properly cater to the wants of people of all classes.

GRAND RAPIDS.
Grand Rapids is in the heart of one of the largest cranberry regions
in the world and many other products of the soil of Wood county are comparing most favorably with the rich crops of the southern border of the state.

The city has four railroads with twenty-four trains daily, and an interurban street car line runs between Grand Rapids and Velocosa.
With an up-to-date system of electric lights and waterworks, as well as an efficient telephone company, the people may have all the modern improvements in their houses, and at moderate rates.
Five blocks in the down town district are paved, and there are about

100 acres devoted to parks.
The educational advantages of the city are excellent, there being one high school, four grade schools, a fine manual training school, six parochial schools, one business college, and a county training school. A well equipped public library benefits hundreds of readers.

In the amusement line Grand Rapids has one opera house, two smaller theatres, a good ball park, and a unimproved ball, besides a large artificial swimming pool and plenty of beautiful spots along the river
for out-of-door enjoyment. No better boating, fishing, and scenery can be found than right along the old
Wisconsin river.

In taking a bird's-eye view of the business and industry of Grand Rapids we find four banks, three newspaper establishments, two dailies and three weeklies, two box factories,
one sawmill, one large flour mill,
one hub and spoke factory, one wagon factory, one iron foundry, several machine shops, three garages, one cement block factory, brick yards, furniture factory, one steam laundry, one plant engaged in the manufacture of heating systems, one large packing plant, one brewery, and two lumber yards. Grand Rapids is the home of the Consolidated Water Power and Paper Company, one of the largest and best equipped paper mills in the country. The company owns another large mill at Biron,
four miles up the river.

The city has a good police force,
and two excellent fire departments.
The postal accommodations are as good as can be found anywhere,
there being a fine new postoffice building and mail delivery twice a day in the business section and twice a day in the residence section. The population according to the census of 1910 was 6,521, or a gain of 45
per cent since 1900.

The past few years have been years
of progress and improvement in every line. Those who left the city five years ago come back and marvel at the changes during so short a time.
Settlers who were once skeptical are now only too willing to cast their lot in Wood county, and the great majority of land success.

The title concerning Grand Rapids, the present and the future are what most vitally concern us. This edition of this paper tells a story of far more interest than a hundred pages of past events. To tell of the Grand Rapids of today, to boost the Grand Rapids of NOW is what counts.
This is a Booster Edition; its intent is to instill a spirit of confidence in the readers that Grand Rapids is really a good town in which to live and do business, in which to invite the newcomer to invest, because its growth is safe and certain. Did you ever stop to realize that the main factor in the upbuilding of a community is the outspoken confidence of its people? The great cities of Chicago, Kansas City, Denver, Memphis, Atlanta, Portland, Spokane, Seattle, Los Angeles and others of their class are splendid examples of what persistent and consistent boosting accomplish for an American city.
Each of these cities is daily growing in population and increasing its business with the outside world. None of them with the exception of Chicago and Seattle, is better located than this little city of ours, and time was not many years ago when none of them was of more consequence than Grand Rapids. But a determination to get there, to become greater than other towns by attracting people to them, to instill confidence and belief in themselves have made these cities
in the course of a few years great marts of trades and the homes of an ever-increasing population and consequent prosperity. The life of the knicker in those communities is brief.
He is a persona non grata. The only citizen in those towns who is welcome is the booster, which in plain language means the man who says "I can and will," the fellow who can grin gamely in the face of adversity and cause weaker men to knock down plucky meet conditions which would and go under.

Commence with today, let us ALL become boosters for Grand Rapids.
Let us praise our city at every opportunity and strive with real might and main for a bigger and better Grand Rapids. Let us not feel ashamed to say we live in Grand Rapids, Wisconsin, a town that is as good as any on earth.
Let us get up and do things; do things along the line of this issue of the Tribune. If every business man in Grand Rapids would put forth some one effort out of the ordinary in his line during the present year

he would have created more business
for himself, more business for Grand Rapids in general, more cause for praising and boosting his town. No matter in what line of trade you are think of something extraordinary to (do with) in the near future, something that will attract attention to you and your business; it will not only pay you, it will benefit and boost
the city. Because you cannot get out a big newspaper is no reason you cannot get up a sale big enough to bring several hundred people to town.
Whatever you do don't do nothing!
Do something. Become a booster in your own way somehow—it'll pay
you.

There are hundreds of evidences that the city is really rapidly improving and that a loyal spirit for Grand Rapids exists generally among all classes of her citizens. But we must not remain satisfied with what we have accomplished. There is room
for much more improvement.

Our city is made up of an intelligent, God-fearing, enterprising people. Her institutions, both public and private, are up-to-date in every respect. In fact Grand Rapids stands well abreast of her sister cities in Wisconsin.

THE CRANBERRY INDUSTRY.

THE CRANBERRY INDUSTRY.

One of the industries that brings in quite a bit of revenue to Grand Rapids and vicinity each year is the raising of cranberries. There is a large tract of land lying southwest of the city that is peculiarly adapted to this branch of horticulture, and the men who are engaged in it are probably as well informed in their respective business as it is possible to find a bunch of men.

In the good old days cranberries grew wild on these great marshes
and such a thing as putting any science into the raising of the crop was never thought of. Nature produced the fruit and when autumn

season came man moved to the premises and proceeded to gather the harvest. Cranberry picking time was a picnic for a large number who so shaped their work that they could be on hand to take part in the annual event. Whole families moved to the marshes and the work of picking went on during the day, and at night
there was a scene of revelry. The men gambled and fought, the young people danced, and it was one continuous round of pleasure while it lasted.

But the crop in those days was a very unceratone thing, and many a year there was great damage done
by frosts, and the result was that some seasons there was not enough
of a crop to pay to pick it.

Then science stepped in and the matter of cultivating the marshes was taken up and the result has been that now as many berries are grown on a single acre as were in those days produced on ten or more,
and the crop is also much more certain. Conditions have to be extremely unfavorable now when there is not some kind of a crop, and for a number of years past there have been very few failures.

Science has also entered into the matter of packing and shipping the berries, so that nowadays they reach the consumer in just as nice condition
as they leave the marsh where they grow. The growers have an organization by means of which the berries are distributed all over the country in an intelligent manner, so that one section is not glutted and another entirely without the fruit, as used to be the case years ago. This has resulted in growers getting better prices for the berries, as new territory is constantly being opened up, and the berries being packed in an intelligent manner, they invariably reach their destination in prime condition.

It was formerly considered that cranberries would only keep a few months at most, but now under improved condition it is possible to keep them a year without any trouble
and they come out in such fine shape
that it is hard to realize that so much time has elapsed since they were gathered from the vines.

When the cultivation of cranberries first started it was considered a very precarious proposition, but these days it has been placed on a more solid footing, and the growers now come to town in their automobiles

and the business is as reliable as any branch of farming.

MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES.

There are in Grand Rapids many splendid sites for manufacturers with ample room for development and
with advantageous track facilities.
No manufacturing institution could make an error in locating in this beautiful and healthy city. To those looking for a location to establish any form of manufacture Grand Rapids
offers the following advantages:

Low Freight Rates.
Competing Lines of Railways.
Nearness to Raw Material Supply.
Abundant Labor Market.
Unexcelled Water Transportation.
Nearness to Great Markets.
Ideal Climate Conditions.
Low Rates.
Delightful Residence Conditions.

ties, at low freight rates.
It has four sound banks.
It has a highly efficient fire department.

A WORD ABOUT OUR BIG INDUSTRY.

To some people there is nothing very attractive about a factory or manufacturing plant, but then there is another class of people who appreciate the great industries of a community and who realize that it is to them that a community owes its prosperity and progressiveness.

The big industry at Grand Rapids is that of making paper, and few people who are not right on the ground where they can watch the ceaseless grind of the wheels that turn day and night the year round realize what a great industry it is.
The mere statement that a mill produces seventy tons of print paper a day, conveys no hint of the miles and miles of paper that are manufactured each day to make up this number of tons.

But it was not for the purpose of telling about the fine points of paper making that this is being written. That is a matter that has been touched upon so often that most people pass it over with hardly a thought.
The general public does not care particularly whether it takes an acre

WHAT THE CITY OFFERS Inducements to Factories and Other Enterprises to Locate Here

Substantial inducements and encouragement will be extended to those looking for advantageous locations for manufacturing and commercial purposes. Those are offered to help Grand Rapids grow, The Tribune has done its part in these enterprises and it now undertakes a Booster Edition that the people of the country may learn what Grand Rapids has to offer, what kind of a place it is that offers it, who the men are that stand behind the enterprise.
What kind of a city Grand Rapids is for the residence of the people who might look with favor upon it. An improved municipality, an extensive system of municipal advantages; schools, churches, and stores—all are helped by the incoming population. Thousands of copies of this edition of the Tribune will go all over the country to show that Grand Rapids means business in its efforts for increased population. Grand Rapids invites you to become a resident of the finest city in Wisconsin, where every prospect is for continued growth; where every advantage is extended.

A PRETTY CITY AND A PROSPEROUS
ONE, NOT A BOOM TOWN.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OF GRAND RAPIDS

(By C. W. Schwede, Superintendent of Schools.)

The public school buildings include
the Howe School with nine rooms and seven grades, in the Second Ward;
the Lowell School with seven rooms
and seven grades, in the Seventh Ward; the Emerson School with five rooms and five grades including the Kindergarten, in the Sixth Ward;
the Irving School with four rooms and five grades including the Kindergarten, in the First Ward; the Garrison School, a one room school building with four grades, in the Eighth Ward; the Lincoln High School and the Witter Manual Training Building in the Fourth Ward. The High Grade is housed in the Lincoln Building, together with the regular high school pupils. A First Grade Room and a Kindergarten are also maintained in the high school building.

The Grand Rapids High School was organized in 1872 with Mr. J. A. Gaynor as principal. In April 1877 the high school was established as a free
high school under the laws of 1876,
and organized under the name of the
"Howe High School." On February 2, 1884, the Board resolved to have the Howe High School placed on the accredited list of the State of Wisconsin. In 1909, the City of Grand Rapids and Centralia were united, but separate high schools were maintained in both Centralia and Grand Rapids until the completion of the Lincoln High School in 1902. The Central High School had been organized in 1890 with Mr. C. W. Paulus as Principal.

The Witter Manual Training Building was erected in 1872 at a cost of $10,000. The high school courses of study include four years courses in Manual Training, Domestic Science, and Commercial work as well as the usual
and English courses.

The Manual Training, Domestic Science, Music and Art are taught in the Witter Building.

The Manual Training Course includes Wood Work, Turning, Pattern
Making, Foundry Work, Forging, Machining Shop Practice, and Mechanical Drawing.

The Domestic Science Course includes Sewing, Cooking, Household
Sanitation, Designing, Home Decoration and Art, Bacteriology, and Home Nursing.

The Commercial Course includes Stenography, Typewriting, Commercial Arithmetic, English, and Book keeping.

The enrollment in the high school for the present year is 308. In 1912
it was 289. The number of graduates this year is 46, of which twenty-three are boys and twenty-three are girls. This is the largest graduating class in the history of the schools. The total number of graduates of the Grand Rapids, Wisconsin, High School is now 506.

The teaching force of the city numbers forty-nine, of which nineteen put in either part or all of their time
in the high school.

A new ward school building to cost about $20,000, will be built this summer on the corner of 17th and Grand Avenues in the Seventh Ward. Plans are already being considered.

An Industrial and Commercial school will be conducted in conjunction with the Manual Training School
the coming year.

For cities of this population, Grand Rapids ranks second to none in the support of its public school system.

Inducements for Manufacturers.
Grand Rapids offers exceptional facilities for manufacturers of all kinds. There are four railroads to serve the public, insuring a service that cannot be secured in any other city in the state. Cheap electric power is another inducement for the small manufacturer, while the factory sites can be secured as cheaply as in any city in the country.

The city has a Commercial Club
that is always willing to correspond with those who have any sort of a proposition to offer, and any kind of information can be secured from this organization.

Grand Rapids has progressive merchants and thoroughly up-to-date stores.

OUR TRADE EMPORIUMS

Moderate and Conveniently Arranged Premises Occupied By All Lines.

The business enterprise established to meet the local demands may challenge comparison with those of any city of similar size in America. Grand Rapids has an increasing population of the culture and refinement. To meet the requirements of this population the city has a large number of excellent stores, which present every sort of retail business. Material wants in food and raiment are most effectively met, and in food supplies. Grand Rapids has markets that are stocked to repletion. Besides there lives the desire for personal adornment, the tastes for home decoration, the artistic requirements and mental wants find here the best opportunities for their satisfaction in well-stocked stores. In the lines of furniture, dry goods, boots, shoes, music and musical instruments, furnishings, hats, drugs, etc. On Grand Avenue and other retail streets those who wish to see the art shopping carried on in the best-developed perfection may be as well satisfied as in any city in the country. Goods can be bought as reasonably here as any place and there are no reasons why the people should give a visit to any other city. The store is a more favorable impression of the city than to enter our model retail establishments, whose stocks are both comprehensive and up-to-date. Here are brief sketches of the most popular retail establishments in our city.

THE REXALL STORE.

When we are well we don't give thought to much of anything except business and pleasure, but when we are sick we want a hurry call for our doctor—the druggist is usually of secondary consideration. This is all wrong, for the druggist is of equal importance to the doctor by reason of the fact that if the latter's instructions are not followed to the very letter in filling the prescription, and with fresh and pure ingredients at that, the patient must suffer the consequences, which are often dangerous, sometimes fatal. Why not then KNOW your druggist beforehand?

You have the decision well fixed in your mind which doctor in case you need one; why not, therefore, investigate the reliability of some druggist to whom you can send your prescription with a feeling of absolute safety? Find out about him, pin your faith to him and his stock and his reputation for correctly filling prescriptions and thus doubly assure yourself of the best possible results in time of sickness.

In this connection, if you fly to the old reliable Rexall Store, of which Mr. A. J. Otto, is proprietor, you can at all times feel positively certain of the correct compounding of the purest drugs obtainable anywhere. This drug store, its stock of goods and its methods in prescription work are commended by every doctor in the community, because the doctors know they are safe in doing so.

Prescriptions are a specialty here and always will be, but that does not mean it is not a complete drug store in every other respect. For Mr. Otto carries full lines of everything known to the trade, including a full and complete line of Rexall goods, toilet articles, stationery, souvenir postal cards, confectionery, cigars, garden seeds, etc. He also operates a Twentieth-Century Teleson Soda Fountain. He also has an ice cream parlor in connection where he serves ice cream, and cold refreshing drinks.

This is without doubt one of the handiest, as well as the most up-to-date drug stores in this section of the state, and you would do credit to a much larger town than ours. Pin your faith in Otto's Rexall Drug Store, which has stood the test for the past twelve years, and you will make no mistake.

KRUGER AND WARNER COMPANY

F. W. Kruger, F. C. Turbin and F. B. Warner head this corporation, and they have an up-to-date clothing and furnishing store in every sense of the word.

Their establishment, at Vine and Second Streets, is liberally patronized by our citizens who insist upon the best of everything.

Everything in clothing—they are agents for the Kappenhofmer clothing—and the highest grade furnishings are on sale there, and they are agents for the celebrated Stetson hats. They sell high grade shoes.

All their clothing is kept in cabinets, so as to keep them away from the dust, and the establishment is fitted up in an attractive manner throughout. They also carry a full line of values and other traveling goods.

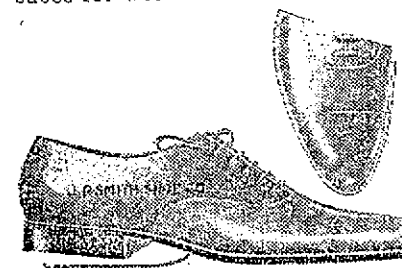

Mr. Kruger is president of the company, Mr. F. C. Turbin is Vice-President and Mr. Warner is secretary and treasurer. They are business men of progressive ideas and know how to put them into effect. Their store shows it.

They have been established twenty years and all are favorably known and considered as our most popular citizens as well as up-to-date live business men.

I. ZIMMERMAN.

At First and Grand Avenues you will find the store of Mr. Zimmerman, "The West Side Shoe Man," as he is known.

He has been fitting the people of our city ever since 1892. He is agent for J. P. Smith's and Dr. Reed's Chasidie shoes for men and The Trustessy and Woman's Health shoes for women.

A full line of men's, women's and children's shoes is handled. A specialty is made of Par Cogan & Sons shoes for youths, boys, misses and children.

This is a first class shoe store and is patronized liberally by the people of our city. High grade repair work is also done.

Mr. Zimmerman has always done his best to give to the purchasing public a shoe store worthy of their trade and that he has succeeded is shown by the large custom he enjoys.

He is a business man of the right kind and is generally liked.

MRS. F. P. DALY.

A modern house without a piano is almost unheard of. Time was when families, no member of which could play an instrument, felt that the piano in the house was useless, but the invention and perfection of the player-piano has made it possible for music to be a part of every one's home life, even though there is no musician in the household.

Mrs. Daly is a dealer in pianos and organs, the business was originally established twenty-six years ago, by her husband, who successfully conducted it till ten years ago, when he died, she then took up the reins and has been carrying on the business ever since, her trade increasing year by year.

Mrs. Daly handles the celebrated Cable, Kingsbury, Conover and Wellington pianos and Chicago Cottage organs, having sold hundreds of them all throughout this, and adjoining counties. It was only recently that she averaged the sale of one piano a day. She carries the largest and most complete line shown in Wood County, patrons having over 20 styles to select from, each and every instrument being guaranteed. She sells for cash, or on easy payment plan.

Those who buy their piano through Mrs. Daly may be sure they are getting the best at the most attractive prices. Her residence and warehouses are located at 903 Eight Ave. S.

Mrs. Daly possesses remarkably shrewd business judgment and is one of the community's most highly respected women. She conducts her business along modern lines and enjoys a large trade—and which she justly deserves.

J. A. STAUB.

Mr. Staub is proprietor of the Electric Shop, located at 127 First Street North. He is in the electrical contracting business and is a capable electrical engineer.

Of all modern things electricity is the most mysterious and, at the same time, dangerous. The greatest care must be exercised in doing electrical work, and for that reason a reliable electrician should do it.

Messrs. Link and Werle are well-known citizens, of the better kinds. They have been established ten years and in that time have made many friends among the people of our city. We herewith present an elegant picture of the interior of their sanitary market.

Messrs. Link and Werle are well-known citizens, of the better kinds. They have been established ten years and in that time have made many friends among the people of our city. We herewith present an elegant picture of the interior of their sanitary market.

Mr. Staub has been established six years and has gained a reputation for efficiency in his field. He having the exclusive electric shop in city, he does wiring and repairing and carries a full line of supplies, as well.

In his shop is a large assortment of high grade fixtures, from small brackets to expensive chandeliers. He also carries a line of auto supplies. One of his specialties is electrical cooking utensils.

By giving the public reliable goods and doing first class work Mr. Staub has gained the confidence of the public, and through his commendable methods he has made himself popular and gained the respect of the community.

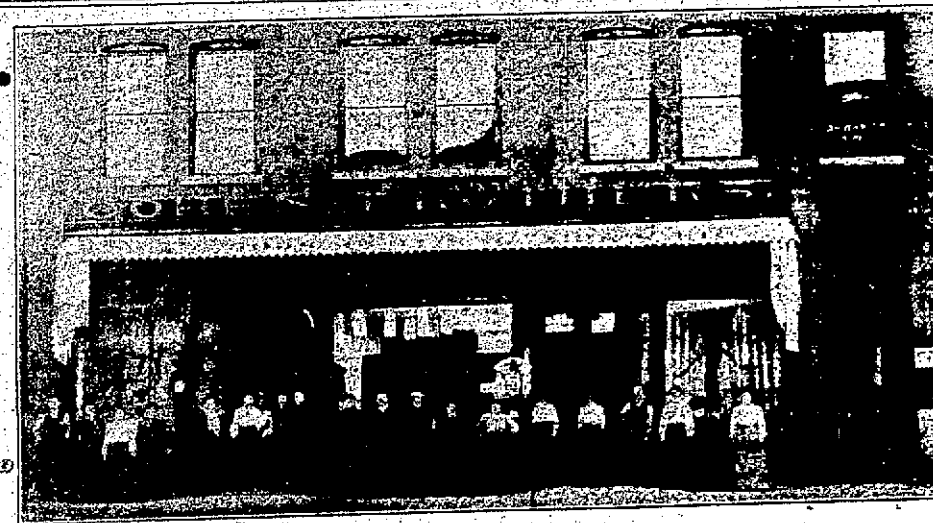

JOE WHEER, JR.

Home made candies and ice cream, when they are good, will tempt all most anyone, and that is why Joe Wheeler, Jr., is so well patronized. His place at Third and Grand Avenues is the favorite with a large portion of our folks for the reason that everything they buy there is clean and made and handled under most sanitary conditions.

He makes most of his own candies and all of his ice cream. Of the latter he has a capacity of two hundred gallons per day. He does a large local business in the cream and is a wholesaler and retailer.

He also ships to other points. He has an ice cream parlor where thousands go during the summer and partake of a dish of his delicious ice cream. High grade cigars are sold, as well as a large line of souvenir post cards.

Mr. Wheeler is known to many of our citizens and is counted among the hustling business men of Grand Rapids. He has the faculty of making himself agreeable to his patrons, and that is why they all like him.

Cohen Brothers Department Store.

COHEN BROTHERS DEPARTMENT STORE.

In no feature of progress does Grand Rapids so nearly approach a truly metropolitan aspect as in the excellence of the establishment of the Cohen Bros. Department Store, and the store is a more favorable impression of the city than to enter our model retail establishments, whose stocks are both comprehensive and up-to-date. Here are brief sketches of the most popular retail establishments in our city.

The store occupies two floors. On the first are dry goods, millinery, clothing and gents' furnishings. On the second are groceries, crockery, hardware, small hardware, etc. Each department is complete in itself. Fifteen salespeople are employed.

This business has been established twenty years, and is one of our representative department stores. It is conveniently arranged for customers to inspect goods, and everything that is new in the way of merchandise is to be found here, and all sold at the closest margin of profit.

J. A., Max and Nate Cohen comprise the firm and all are well known in Grand Rapids. In fact they are among the really popular merchants of our city.

By honorable dealings, enterprising methods, courteous treatment and giving full values, a business has been built up of very large proportions, and the patronage of the house is not only local, but is drawn from considerable surrounding territory.

Hon. J. A. Cohen (our mayor) was recently re-elected mayor of our city, to succeed himself, he is one of the most popular and public spirited men in our city, and never loses an opportunity to "boost" our city when occasion offers itself.

LOUIS REICHEL.

No matter in what city or town one goes one sees at least one up-to-date jewelry store where first class repairing, particularly of watches, is done, and our city has one of these in the establishment of Louis Reichel, on Grand Avenue.

Established seven years ago, Mr. Reichel has made an excellent reputation for himself for handling first class articles, such as watches, clocks jewelry of all kinds, cut glass, hand painted china, etc.

Some of the finest repair work in this part of the state is done by Mr. Reichel, and his engraving work compares favorably with any other to be seen. He is also a graduate optician. Eyes are tested free and if you really need glasses he will tell you; if not he will say so.

He is one of our conscientious business men who believe in the fact that a pleased and honestly treated patron will always bring more business.

JACKAN & TOMSYOK

This firm, which is composed of Joe Jackan and Nick Tomsyok, was established two and a half years ago. They handle a general line of groceries, flour and feed, and of all descriptions of provisions, and do a big trade in fruits and vegetables. They also deal in garden seeds.

Their store at 888 Grand Avenue is well patronized, for they always have a large stock from which to select and all perishable goods are fresh daily.

You can also get all the good confectionery you want as well as a good cigar there, too. The members of this firm have made themselves popular in our city by conducting an establishment where customers can be satisfied.

Both members of the firm are liked by those who deal with them, they are honorable and reliable in all their dealings.

Patronize Tribune Advertisers.

GOTTSCALK & ANDERSON

This city is served by a number of grocery stores, and none try harder to please their patrons than this one. A. F. Gottschalk and Nate Anderson started together five years ago and have built up their enterprise until they have a large patronage to-day. They handle all kinds of fancy and staple groceries, flour and feed.

Their place on Grand Avenue is known to hundreds who buy for the home.

They carry a large stock of fine fruits and vegetables, receiving consignments of the latter fresh every day. This store is well-appointed, well-stocked and is conducted on a good business basis.

They cater to some of the best class of trade in the city and by hustler and enterprise have succeeded in a most admirable manner. They are thoroughly deserving of their increasing patronage.

Interior View Link & Werle Meat Market.

LINK & WERLE.

This is the oldest meat market in the city. Located at 306 First Street North, it is one of the most attractively arranged markets in Grand Rapids.

The interior of the market is finished in white, while everything in the way of fixtures is neat and the most expensive kind. In fact money has not been taken into consideration in fitting up this establishment, with the result that the interior is very inviting.

Messrs. Link and Werle are practical butchers and wait on the trade themselves. They smoke their meats and make their own sausages. These are of the very best grades. They also carry a line of first class canned goods.

This market is patronized by a large number of the most discriminating families in Grand Rapids and deserves this select trade, for everything is done to make it high class. The strictest sanitary precautions are followed.

Messrs. Link and Werle are well-known citizens, of the better kinds. They have been established ten years and in that time have made many friends among the people of our city. We herewith present an elegant picture of the interior of their sanitary market.

KAUDY'S STUDIO.

In recent years the progress made in photography has been very rapid, completely revolutionizing the old methods and demanding for successful results ability of a pronounced order. At one time photography was purely mechanical. To-day it is quite different, those succeeding requiring a thorough knowledge of chemistry, an artistic eye, and a natural appreciation for neatness, grace and ornamentation.

Kaudy's studio, of which Mrs. Matt Kaudy is the proprietor, has been established here for the past three years. The operating rooms are splendidly equipped with all the newest appliances known necessary in conducting scenic effects that are modern and original. She is an adept in the art of posing, being in a proficient in single settings or in groups.

Mrs. Kaudy's work in both portrait and landscape photography is accurate in clear or cloudy weather and always conspicuous for the ideal finish. In fact she does any and everything in the way of photography, she being considered one of our best photographers in city.

Should you desire a likeness of yourself to send to a friend or relative that will be true to life in every respect, call at Kaudy's studio and receive the attention of an up-to-date artist.

BROCKMAN & AKEY.

This lunch room is conducted by two energetic caterers to the palate, Mrs. J. T. Brockman and Mrs. C. Akey and are located at 705 Grand Avenue.

They have been in business three years, and their place is well patronized by those who like to eat a good meal, the price of regular meals being 25 cents.

Meals are served at all hours. Mrs. Akey is an expert cook of twenty-six years' experience and has charge of the kitchen, while Mrs. Brockman has charge of the dining room.

Mrs. Brockman also looks after the soda part of the business, for they handle confectionery, cigars, souvenir post cards and a small line of canned goods and fruits.

They operate a soda fountain, too, so that it will be seen that you can refresh yourself in several different ways by going there. Everything is clean and the place is nice and neat.

The proprietors are popular with their patrons, and the latter do not forget to give due credit to the lady members of the combination for their part.

NORMINGTON BROTHERS.

This laundry of which C. A., J. E., F. N., and J. J. Normington are the proprietors, has been established here for the past six years. They do a very extensive business, catering to the highest class of work, and ever maintaining the most conspicuous standing of excellence in every branch of perfect laundry work, as done at their laundry on First Avenue, S.

Every modern and up-to-date appliance known in the business is installed, and it is in every way one of the best equipped laundries in this section. Employing a staff of 21 skilled hands they turn out work unsurpassed by any laundry anywhere, and do so promptly and without damage to the most delicate fabrics.

Gentlemen who get their shirts, collars and cuffs laundered here as well as ladies who send fine underwear, shirt waists, etc., will perceive the superiority over other laundries. Every collar is ironed smooth on the edge; no see-saw edges on collars when they leave this laundry. Special low rates are given to all family washing. They also do dry cleaning.

Besides operating a laundry here, they operate branch laundries at Marshallfield and Stevens Point. Local wagon calls at Nekosco and Port Edwards every Friday and Biran every Tuesday afternoon.

C. A. and J. E. Normington have charge of local plant, while other brothers have charge of branch laundries. All are up-to-date business men and give all their customers the very best of satisfaction.

WOOD COUNTY DRUG STORE

The up-to-date drug store is always a very important factor in a community, and that is what the Wood County Drug Store, on Vine Street, is.

The prescription department is thoroughly equipped and the greatest care is exercised in compounding physicians and other prescriptions. Mr. Coyle is an experienced and capable pharmacist and his establishment is one of the most popular in this section. A full line of druggists' sundries is carried, as well as hospital supplies, surgical instruments, etc. A full line of Nyal's remedies is carried, while trusses and stock foods are also in stock.

A fine soda fountain is another attraction in the store. Those wishing to purchase souvenir post cards, confectionery, cigars, books of fiction including the latest, office supplies can get them there.

Mr. Edward M. Coyle is proprietor. He bought out this old stand two years ago and has done much to add to the large patronage it already had.

He is an efficient druggist and is given large patronage by those who are particular about their purchases.

A. P. HIRZY.

When you want first class jewelry or wish to have good repair work done you naturally want to go to a place where you can be sure of proper treatment.

Twenty years of business experience should entitle a business man to prestige, and that is the length of time that Mr. Hirzy has been established, at 103 Vine Street.

A. P. Hirzy.

He is one of the leading jewelers in this section of the state and has an up-to-date store in all respects. He carries a fine line of watches, clocks, diamonds, silverware, cut glass, etc. He is also R. K. watch inspector for the C. & N. W. R. R. and C. & St. L. R. R.

Mr. Hirzy is a graduate optician and is an expert in this line, too. He examines eyes free, and when he fits them with glasses it is done right. He also carries a line of small musical instruments.

In the score of years that he has been active in the business life of our city Mr. Hirzy has made many friends, so that he is liked by those who know him and is one of our popular business men.

J. E. FARLEY

Modern conveniences in our houses, unless they are properly constructed, are little else than death traps because of the foul gases, including sewer gas, which they admit into our houses, thence breathed into our lungs and laying the foundation for fevers and other diseases.

But this is all useless, of course. It depends on the plumbing—and the plumber. If the one is a good and the other is honest there is no danger whatever. So look out for your plumber. Get the right kind of a man. One of the right kind in our city is J. E. Farley who does all sorts of sanitary plumbing, with shops at 185 First Street North. He is a contractor in steam and hot water heating, furnishing estimates in anything in his line of work, besides guaranteeing work and material. He carries a line of plumbing goods, bath tubs, sinks, closets, wash basins, etc. In fact he carries a full line of everything used in his line of business. Mr. Farley also makes a specialty of installing Country Water Systems, being quite an adept at it.

He has been established in business in Grand Rapids for the past nine years, and is known as an honorable and upright business man. He has broad knowledge of his business and applies it intelligently to any job that he may have on hand.

THE HOTEL WITTER.

When you arrive at the depot take the bus that goes to the Hotel Witter and you will make no mistake. It is located on the east side of the river, convenient to the business centre of the city.

This is one of our leading hotels, is operated on the American plan, and although the rates are $2 per day it equals any 2.50 per day house in the state. The service is high grade and everything for the comfort and accommodation for the traveling man is to be found.

There are sample rooms that are large and roomy. The guest rooms, numbering twenty-four, are kept in fine order and are steam heated and lighted by electricity. In the two years that Mr. Gerow has been conducting the hotel it has gained a high position among the country's hostlers.

The office, writing room and dining room are on the ground floor. This hotel is not run in connection with any other.

D. J. Gerow, is the proprietor, he has made a reputation for himself in the hotel business as an able manager and genial host and has the good will of large numbers of traveling men who visit our city.

Cranberry Picking Scenes Near Grand Rapids.

JOHN D. SMITH.

For eighteen years Mr. Smith, whose place is at 129 Second Street, has been supplying the people of Grand Rapids and surrounding towns with hardware and affiliated articles.

He owns the two-story brick building in which his store is located and occupies both floors, which are 23x 80 feet. Many people who are fond of hunting go to this store for their fishing tackle, guns, ammunition, etc.

Besides carrying a complete stock of all kinds of hardware, Mr. Smith handles buggies, paints, oils, glass, putty, etc. He has a large assortment of tinware and granite ware, too.

Mr. Smith long ago established himself as one of our reliable business men and is known to hundreds in our city and in surrounding towns.

Many farmers make all their purchases of goods in his line when in Grand Rapids, for they can depend on these and know that they are always well treated by the popular proprietor.

Mr. J. C. Smith is connected in business with his father, he having active management of same. He, like his father is most popular amongst the trade, and everybody seems to like to transact business with them.

A. ARNDT.

It is eight years since Mr. Arndt established his business, which is at 106 First Street, and he is known to hundreds of our people. His place is a popular one for light refreshments, for if you wish a nice dairy lunch you can get it there. If it is anything in the confectionery line you can get it there, and the man who enjoys a good cigar can be satisfied there, also.

There is a fine soda fountain, where the syrups are pure and everything is wholesome and refreshing. Mr. Arndt also has a fine ice cream parlor, all his ice cream is made of the purest and best ingredients.

Mr. Arndt is known to a large portion of those who like the kind of refreshments he sells, for his place is always neat and clean and the goods he sells are of the best.

He makes himself agreeable to his patrons and as a result is one of our popular business men.

W. L. LAIN.

Leather is one of the most important commodities the people have to invest in, particularly in this line, as relating to harness, etc. Consequently the question as to who handles the best goods and quotes the most reasonable prices is often suggested. We refer with pleasure to the establishment of Mr. W. L. Lain.

He conducts one of the best stocked harness shops in this section, including all grades of harness, saddles, collars, whips, blankets, robes, etc. The business has been constantly on the increase and the spacious premises are filled with everything necessary to supply the demands of a large trade.

Mr. Lain established his business seven years ago, and has been a resident of city for past twenty-five years, previous to his engaging in his present business, he was formally engaged in the furniture business in city.

Mr. Lain is one of our most honored citizens and the success of his enterprise is well merited.

JENSEN'S GARAGE.

This is an up-to-date, well equipped place where the motorist can obtain first class service and supplies and accessories that can be depended upon.

It is four years since J. C. Jensen, the proprietor established this business at 106 4th Avenue. He is agent for the well known Rex, Chevrolet and Saxon autos.

All kinds of high grade auto repair work is done, and the plant is equipped with a Bowser gasoline tank. He vulcanizes tires and does all kinds of cast iron, aluminum, brass, copper and steel welding, etc.

He makes a specialty of welding cylinders, crank cases, frames and all kinds of auto parts, mill machinery, farm engines, etc., by the Oxy-Acetylene process.

This is an up-to-date plant in every sense and is conducted by a man who knows his business. He has made himself popular with auto owners by the good work he does, the high grade articles he sells and by a desire to please all who patronize him.

The office, writing room and dining room are on the ground floor. This hotel is not run in connection with any other.

D. J. Gerow, is the proprietor, he has made a reputation for himself in the hotel business as an able manager and genial host and has the good will of large numbers of traveling men who visit our city.

BRADER BROTHERS CLOTHING SHOP.

If you want one of those well-known Russell hats or a Michaels Stern & Company Clothier's suits just go to Brader Brothers, and they will treat you well, besides.

William and Walter Brader are two hustling young business men who are typified self-made young men, for they started three years ago with very limited capital.

Today they have an up-to-date establishment on Second Street, where the clothes are kept in cabinets and are high grade in every respect. Everything else in the place is to correspond.

CLIPPING FROM THE TRIBUNE.

This place has been established one year, yet from the amount of business they do one would think they had been there a long time. It is an up-to-date store in all respects. They also carry a full line of first class values and other traveling supplies. Their gents' furnishings are second to none in our city.

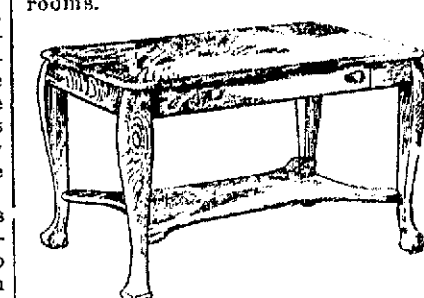

These gentlemen deserve the decided success they have made, for they are progressive and treat their patrons with the greatest courtesy.

GEORGE W. BAKER & SON

Sixty-five years ago this business was established by the late M. C. Warren, and in 1888 George W. Baker succeeded him. Eleven years ago the late Mr. Baker took his son, George W. Baker, Jr. into partnership.

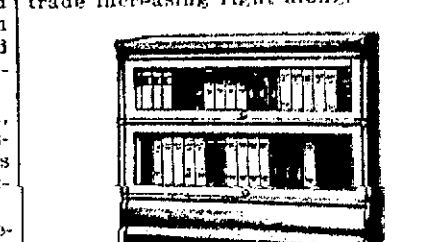

Since the death of the elder Mr. Baker, last October Mr. Baker, Jr. has been conducting this modern up-to-date furniture and undertaking establishment. It being located at 105 Second Street.

Mr. Baker is a graduate embalmer and undertaker and takes full charge of funerals, attending to all details himself. He has a splendid modern morgue in connection, as well as large superb show and trimming rooms.

Mr. Baker occupies three connecting stores, all of which he owns. One measures 30x72 feet and is one story in height, the other is 24x60 feet and is two stories high, while the third is 40x30 feet and is two stories.

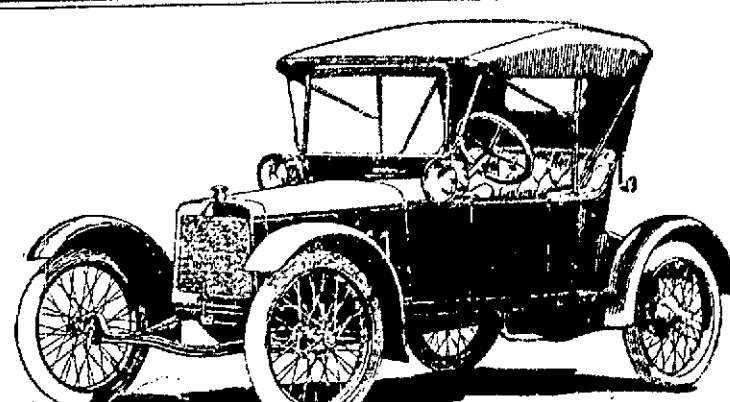

He also sells furniture for cash or on easy payments and does a large business in this line. He carries a full line of furniture and does an extensive business, not alone in city but surrounding country as well, the trade increasing right along.

Mr. Baker is one of our most popular young business men. He is thorough in what he does and has made himself well liked by the public through his affability and the fact that he always carries out his promises.

BANKS, INSURANCE AND REAL ESTATE MEN

Strong Factors in City's Growth. Real Estate Handled by Able and Honorable Men.

It is usual where men of wealth seek a city in which to invest their money that they ask to be enlightened on their banking system; also the opportunity for safe and profitable investment of their funds. They place the banks as their standard by which they gauge the worth of the city. If the great financial institutions are conservative business men they regard the city as being safe for a large investment. The banks have come as much as any other agent to make Grand Rapids an industrial and commercial center. In no other city in the country can be found a better banking system than that of Grand Rapids.

The banks are officered by keen business men and able financiers, while the directors are men who have made a success, financially, in whatever business or profession they may be engaged.

The following are brief sketches of our leading bankers, insurance, real estate men, etc.:

FRITZINGER'S INSURANCE AGENCY.

Located in the Mackinnon building (Mr. Fritzinger has one of the busiest establishments in his line on Grand Avenue.)

He handles a general real estate and insurance business. The business was originally established by the late E. B. Fritzinger thirty years ago, being conducted thus until 1902.

At this time Mr. Fritzinger passed away and his son succeeded to the business. This is the oldest agency in the city and does a large business. He handles large amounts of city and county property and handles all kinds of insurance—fire, life, accident, health, liability, steam boiler, automobile, burglar, etc. He represents some of the largest insurance companies in the world and has written up hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of business in the time he has been serving the public.

Mr. Fritzinger is considered one of our representative business men and comes of a well-known family. He is an agreeable gentleman and progressive citizen.

Good Will Come by Boosting Grand Rapids

We take pleasure today in sending broadcast over the community thousands of copies of THE GRAND RAPIDS TRIBUNE'S Booster Edition. There is no question but what Grand Rapids needs to be advertised, and this is an advanced step along these lines. THE TRIBUNE believes in Grand Rapids of the present and Grand Rapids of the future. Mechanically, this office has about double the facilities of its nearest competitors. It is, therefore, able to give such an edition without in any way interfering with the regular routine of issuing a sixteen page weekly paper and without additional charge to its subscribers. A copy will be distributed to every household in Grand Rapids and thousands of copies have been mailed right and left. We are anxious to help boost Grand Rapids and there is no man with the equal resources in Grand Rapids that will do more to help Grand Rapids advance than will the publishers of THE TRIBUNE.

We repeat, we believe in Grand Rapids of the present and the future. THE TRIBUNE has made no particular effort to publish an "edition beautiful." The paper is simply issued to show what Grand Rapids has in the way of industries, men and things—that others may see us as we do. For Grand Rapids is a sort of souvenir. We must admit that it requires effort to get the good things and after we get them it requires effort to hold them. The fruit that falls from the tree before it is ripe is either rotten at the core or has a worm in its vital regions. The fruit of greatest value is that which requires an effort to preserve it and have it ready for future use. The Lord has quit sending quail and manna to our doors and feeding the multitude from baskets. He has placed all of the good things of the earth within the reach of man, but He doesn't shovel gold into our pockets nor connect us with nursing bottles. The man who now waits for the ravens to feed him will go hungry seven days of each week. And we must not only work for what we get, but we must work together and render and receive assistance from those about us. The man who goes it alone nowadays will get nowhere and accomplish nothing. Success in any undertaking requires a common effort, and it is only through association, united action and unity of purpose that men progress.

And this is true of communities. It is true of Grand Rapids. The growth of Grand Rapids depends absolutely upon the efforts put forth by our own people. It has required effort to build our city and it will require effort to preserve it and make it grow larger. Without effort our city would soon return to primeval forest and swamps and become a hiding place for chipmunks and polecats. Whenever the citizens stop pushing, the city will stop moving, and whenever the city stops moving it will immediately become affected with dry rot. And in pushing Grand Rapids there must be unity of purpose and action. There must be team work, with every man doing his best. The old command of log-rolling day, "A long pull, a short pull and a pull together," could well be adopted as a rallying cry by our industrial captains, and made to do service in pulling Grand Rapids out of the mire. "Every fellow for himself," may look good to the old buzzard who sits around waiting for the town to die so he can devour it, but it will never lay a brick or drive a nail. It is "now or never" with the present generation of men in Grand Rapids and there has never been a time in the history of our city when there was greater need for patriotic and united effort. It requires effort to get the good things that Grand Rapids needs. So that, in expressing the hope that this edition will be accepted as an honest effort to advance the welfare of the community along all lines at a time when our prospects seem the brightest, THE TRIBUNE desires to extend its sincere thanks to the business men and others whose enterprise and public spirit have made this edition a success. Of our readers, we ask a thoughtful and careful perusal of these pages, feeling they will find therein much interesting and profitable information which should serve as an incentive for a stronger and nobler public spirit, and which, if sent to others, may induce them to come to our city and become a part and parcel of our prosperity. If you have a friend interested in Grand Rapids send him one. Send a copy to the whole-sale houses you deal with and to those that buy of you. Let the people know what and where Grand Rapids is. BOOM THE TOWN!

This edition, if carefully read, or kept, for reference, will serve as a first class guide book to all of the money saving stores of the city. Every farmer can, by the use of this paper, become familiar with the city and save himself much valuable time, thus enabling him to do more business in less time while in the city. The publishers of THE TRIBUNE sought to thoroughly cover the business and professional field of Grand Rapids. Every business interest had an invitation to come in. Everyone was asked to come in and cooperate with THE TRIBUNE in the enterprise so important to the future of the city. Those who neglected to join in the enterprise missed an opportunity to put a shoulder to the wheel of Grand Rapids' progress. It was not an expensive venture to the citizens of this community; as the burden of the cost of the enterprise falls upon the Publishers.

Several thousand copies of this edition will go into many new channels of circulation and it is believed results for good will follow. We hope the public generally will feel satisfied with the edition and that it will serve the purpose for which it was issued.

WE WANT GRAND RAPIDS TO BE ON THE MAP!

EDWARD N. POMAINVILLE.

Among business men whose dealings with the public carry a strong element of integrity and confidence the real estate broker is one of the foremost.

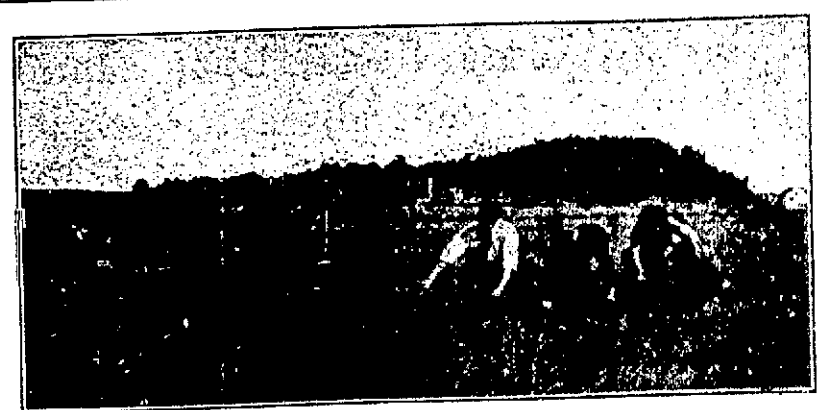

He is in a position to abuse or cement the confidence of the public, and much depends upon his honesty. In fact when handling a real estate transfer he can, if unscrupulous, decide both sides of the deal.

Edward N. Pomainville has established an excellent reputation by his conscientious handling of all deals and the completeness and dispatch with which he disposes of them.

His office is at 103 Grand Avenue. He handles both life and fire insurance, as well as loans and collections, and in the last he is very efficient.

Mr. Pomainville is a member of the B. P. O. E., Eagles, K. of C., C. O. of F. M. W. A. and has been a justice of the peace for the past five years. He was established in 1908. He is one of our popular business men and is a genial citizen.

Wood County National Bank.

WOOD COUNTY NATIONAL BANK.

Travel where you may it is difficult to say where you will find a more artistic, conveniently arranged, better equipped or more attractive banking house than that of the Wood County National Bank.

Their beautiful Bedford stone building, which cost $50,000, is one of the ornaments of our city, and the management of the institution is in keeping with the general appearance. The entire first floor of the two-story structure is occupied by the banking rooms.

The floor is of tile, while the wainscoting is of Italian and Belgian marble, and the fixtures are of bronze, the whole giving a very artistic effect. There is a fine ladies' parlor, a large reception room and a directors' room. The whole building is served with air that is washed by the most approved system, insuring absolutely pure air.

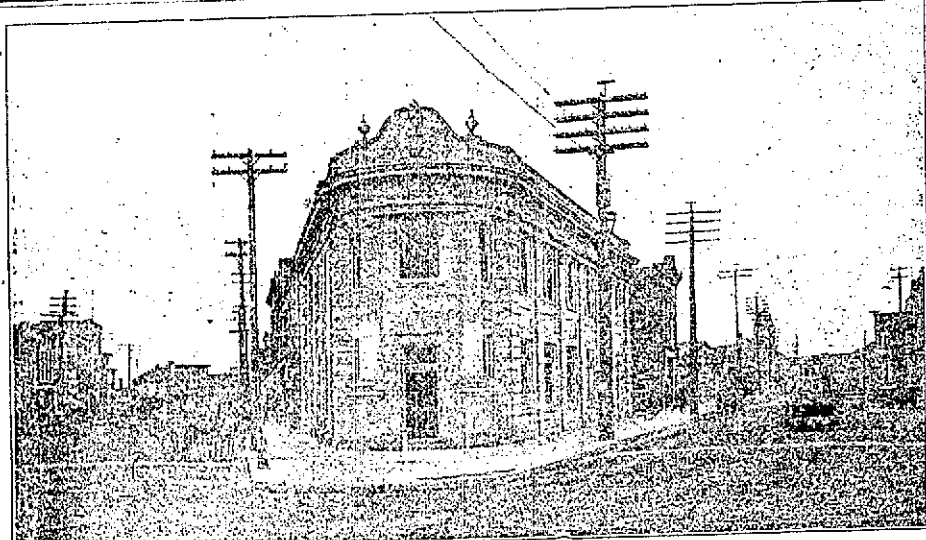

A general banking business is conducted and this is one of the really solid banks of the country. Capitalized at $100,000 and with surplus of an equal amount, they also have more than one million dollars in deposits, their total assets totaling more than $1,450,000. The most conservative and safe banking methods protect the interests of depositors.

Besides their checking department and their savings department where 3 per cent interest is paid semi-annually, they have a modern safety deposit department, where they have 350 boxes protected by a chrome steel vault, its massive door weighing thirteen tons and being operated by a time lock. The bank has a total of five fire and burglar proof vaults. In fact no bank in the large cities are better protected in this way than the Wood County National Bank.

P. J. Wood is president, L. M. Alexander is cashier, and Warren G. Fisher is assistant cashier. In addition to the first three gentlemen the directors include A. E. Bennett, T. E. Mullen, L. E. Nash, E. Roenius, Judson G. Rosebush. It will be seen that those controlling the destiny of this bank are men of affairs, most of whom, at least, being thoroughly trained in business and each of them successful in his particular line.

All stand high in the community, and their reputations, together with the high grade administration of the bank's affairs, places the Wood County National Bank in a position where it has the confidence of all.

First National Bank Building.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

Sixty thoroughly responsible stockholders own the stock of this institution, which is comfortably housed in its own beautiful two-story white granite front building.

Practically all of these stockholders live in our community and take an active part—and have taken for a long time—in the development of the resources of the locality and advancement of industry and commerce. Since 1872 the First National Bank has been one of the pillars of our city's progress.

The capital is $100,000 and the surplus is $50,000. Progressive methods and clean, conservative banking policies have brought their total assets from $399,156.60 on January 13, 1906 to $1,323,640.43 at the close of business March 4, of the present year. This substantial growth has been brought about by personal interest in their depositors and high grade business.

The building of this bank is in conformity with the character of the institution itself, for their home is one of the most beautiful in the state of Wisconsin, an artistic production of the architect's pen and an achievement of credit to a metropolitan city bank, the beautiful marble wainscoting and bronze fixtures, together with other features forming a combination pleasing to the eye.

The business methods of the bank are equally pleasing to depositors, for courtesy and every means of convenient co-operation are afforded them. All branches of banking are covered thoroughly, so that the same service that is obtainable in the large cities can be had there. All kinds of fire and life insurance is handled. They pay 3 per cent interest on savings accounts. They also transact a large business in loans on real estate.

George W. Mead is president, Earle Pease is vice-president, A. G. Miller is cashier, and H. C. Demitz is assistant cashier. The directors include the Messrs. Mead and Pease, W. J. Conway, E. W. Ellis, Dr. J. J. Looze, Edward Lynch, and Isaac P. Witter.

This list of gentlemen should be a sufficient guarantee to the public as to the general personnel of the bank's sponsors and the fact that only the highest grade service is given. They are all highly respected in our community and are men of the clean-cut type.

BANK OF GRAND RAPIDS.

This is the second oldest bank in the city and was established in 1888. It is conducted on a conservative, safe basis by men of experience.

This bank has served the local community in an able and satisfactory manner ever since its advent and is a sound institution in every sense of the word.

A general banking business is done, with affiliations that are of the best for the protection of depositors, and everything for furnishing complete co-operation with depositors is at the latter's disposal.

There is a savings department, where 3 per cent is paid annually on deposits; a checking department, where the merchant or private individual is afforded all the accommodations of such.

The bank is capitalized at $50,000, with a surplus of $10,000. Those having charge of the affairs of this bank are experienced business and financial men who have held the confidence of the public through serving them in the proper manner.

Isaac P. Witter is president, George W. Mead is vice-president, E. B. Redford is cashier and W. G. Schroedel is assistant cashier. These gentlemen are widely known in this part of the state and, through their commendable business methods, have kept their bank to the forefront.

CITIZENS' NATIONAL BANK.

Although our youngest bank, this institution has made decided strides in progress and has taken its place among the substantial financial concerns of our state. Capitalized at $100,000, with surplus of $10,000, the Citizens' National bank has excellent affiliations and is in a position to transact a general banking business.

They threw open their doors for business March 29, 1913, and the business of the following fourteen months has surpassed their most sanguine expectations, showing conclusively that the high standing of those behind the enterprise established prestige for the bank from the start.

Courteous treatment of depositors, co-operation with them and promptness in all transactions have all combined to gain the favor of the public, and conservative methods have gained the co-operation and respect of the banking fraternity at large. All facilities found in the well-directed and properly-equipped national bank are at the disposal of their patrons.

Mayor J. A. Cohen is president, C. W. Paulus is vice-president, and D. B. Phillos is cashier. These gentlemen, with A. P. Hirzy, William H. Peters, Jacob Lutz, Nate Anderson, Charles E. Briere and Peter Reiland compose the directors. A glance at this list will convince the business man or private individual as to the general character of those directing the affairs of the Citizens' National Bank.

PROSPEROUS AND BUSY INDUSTRIES

A Few of Grand Rapids Busy Manufacturing Industries That are Helping to Give it a World-Wide Reputation.

The manufacturers of Grand Rapids are of unsurpassed importance. They are not only vast, but varied, and every year adds extensively to the manufacturing interests of the city. Many new industrial enterprises have had inception here within a few years while old plants were re-modeled and their producing capacity increased. Grand Rapids offers to manufacturers, capitalists and investors such facilities of accommodation, transit, light and power as can not be obtained anywhere and men of means and foresight are eagerly grasping the opportunities it would be impossible to present anything like a proper estimate of the extent, value and variety of the manufacturing of this city at the present day without an elaborate compilation of statistics and figures which could scarcely be presented here. The following sketches are a brief synopsis of some of our leading manufacturing, wholesale and jobbing houses, and while every line is represented in a creditable manner, there is still plenty room for others to come here and locate, and every inducement will be offered to those seeking a new location, or a place to establish a branch house. Come here and see the many advantages Grand Rapids has over other cities.

E. W. ELLIS LUMBER CO.

This is one of Grand Rapids' big enterprises in the industrial line. They manufacture box shooks, sash, etc., and are extensive handlers of lumber of all kinds.

They do a wholesale business only and ship in carload lots to all parts of Wisconsin and Illinois. They also ship sash in carload lots to Chicago and St. Louis.

They employ 185 hands and have five teams for local use. They have a large business in wood, both wholesale and retail. Their yards and mills cover 30 acres. They operate a thoroughly up-to-date plant.

The factory and warehouse are in sawmill, dry kilns, factory, and have separate buildings. The plant is served by the C. M. & St. P. Railroad and they are in a position to fill all orders, whether large or small, promptly.

Much credit must be given Mr. E. W. Ellis, who gives his personal attention to the operation of this enterprise. He is a shrewd business man and knows the lumber and mill business thoroughly.

He is a business man of the clean cut type and the excellent condition of his business shows that he knows how to hold his trade by satisfying them.

Our city can well be proud of this thriving industry. Grand Rapids' prosperity is due largely to the vast operations of the E. W. Ellis Lumber Company, recalling to many of our people the famous reply of Daniel Webster to Hayne of South Carolina, after the latter had made a stirring attack upon Massachusetts.

Massachusetts! She needs no eulogium from me. There she stands! Look at her!

So might we say, dwelling upon the magnificent dimensions of the E. W. Ellis Lumber Company, "There she stands! Look at her!"

REILAND PACKING COMPANY.

Covering ten acres of ground with their yards and plant, doing all their own slaughtering, this firm's "Banner Brand" goods are produced under the most approved sanitary conditions and are known throughout the country.

They have their own modern ice plant, which produces 35 tons of pure ice per day. Their packing plant is complete throughout, with all the latest methods and appliances in use.

To show to what extent their business goes, we might state that in 1911 they slaughtered 17,000 hogs and in the same time slaughtered 1,000 head of cattle, converting all of these into high grade products that were put on the market under the "Banner Brand".

Their plant is served by the St. Paul, North-Western and Soo Lines, so that their distribution facilities are fine. In addition to hogs and cattle they also slaughter sheep, calves, etc. They do a large local business and have three salesmen on the road, covering Wisconsin and Michigan. Their sausages are delicious.

The firm was incorporated in 1907. N. Reiland is president and manager, Dr. J. J. Looze is vice-president, P. Reiland is secretary and H. B. Weiland is treasurer, while these gentlemen and J. B. Arpla compose the board of directors. The growth of this firm has been steady and is only the natural outcome of progressive, up-to-date methods and prompt and fair treatment of patrons.

Their business is one of the important industries of Wood County, and they are another concern who do much to keep the name of Grand Rapids before the public. The quality of their products is maintained on a high plane and it is such firms as this that uphold the prestige of any community.

Inducements for Manufacturers. Grand Rapids offers exceptional facilities for manufacturers of all kinds. There are four railroads to serve the public, insuring a service that cannot be secured in any other city in the state. Cheap electric power is another inducement for the small manufacturer, while factory sites can be secured as cheaply as in any city in the country.

The city has a Commercial Club that is always willing to correspond with those who have any sort of a proposition to offer, and any kind of information can be secured from this organization.

Grand Rapids has progressive merchants and thoroughly up-to-date stores.

CAREY CONCRETE COMPANY.

The use of concrete building blocks instead of the natural stone has been more and more in evidence during the past few years, and in many cases the artificial article is superior to the natural.

The concrete block does away with the quarrying, cutting and trimming and is handled much more easily, at the same time giving a structure free from dampness, at the same time retaining the strength that stone has.

Furthermore concrete blocks are hollow, thus giving a dead air space, which is a non-conductor of heat and cold and are much lighter in weight than stone. In using the Carey Concrete Company's "Waterproof cast building stone," these and other advantages are gained.

Besides their "cast" building blocks, they turn out power pressed cement brick, window sills, caps, lintels, chimney tops and caps, burial vaults, lawn vases and benches, posts of various kinds and, in fact, all kinds of concrete specialties. Their cement porch columns, steps, water tables, watering troughs and similar articles are as good as the solid stone, are lighter in weight and much less costly, while serving the same purpose.

W. H. Carey is president and general manager of the company; H. S. Boles is vice-president, F. J. Wood is treasurer and R. L. Nash is secretary. All are prominent among our business element, and a great credit to Mr. Carey for his good management and the fine plant under his direction.

The Carey Concrete Company is commencing the manufacture of a new brick. This new building material is known as a waterproof poured concrete brick and is the same size as a standard building brick, is light gray in color and is a trifle heavier than the ordinary clay brick. This brick is absolutely waterproof. This may sound odd to people outside the building trades, but most bricks soak up a certain amount of moisture. The brick is made with a one side countersunk so that there is absolutely no floating of the brick. This feature alone will appeal strongly to the builders, as it will enable them to make faster progress in constructive work.

The new Elks club house in this city will be constructed of concrete blocks, and then coated with white stucco. The Carey Concrete Company has also secured the contract for supplying the blocks for the new Masonic temple at Mauston.

The high-grade of the products put out by this company are bringing lasting fame to the company and to the city where they are manufactured.

This firm has attained a permanent position among our high grade enterprises. They not only do a large local business but ship their products within a radius of 150 miles from here. Their plant is located on Seventh Avenue and their office at 348 Grand Avenue.

DON'T BE A KNOCKER, BE A BOOSTER.

—Legal blanks for sale at this office.

GRAND RAPIDS MILLING COMPANY.

"Be a booster and buy flour made in Grand Rapids" should be the slogan of every resident, since flour made by the Grand Rapids Milling Company is as good as any made anywhere in the entire country.

The mill are grinders of feed, bran, middlings, rye flour, etc., and their leading brand of wheat flour is "Victoria," made from Northwest-ern wheat. The capacity of mill is 250 barrels of flour every day. Their elevator has a storage capacity of 27,000 bushels.

It has been the constant aim of the management to always pay the very highest prices for grain consistent with good business judgment and make and give to the trade the very best flour that is possible for modern machinery and experienced men to make out of wheat. The plant is strictly modern and up-to-date in every respect.

Besides doing a large local trade they have quite an extensive trade outside of city, shipping to Chicago and eastern points regularly.

The business was incorporated in 1898. The officers are I. P. Witter, president, G. W. Mead, vice president, and J. P. Horton, secretary, treasurer and manager.

Much credit is due the officers of this concern for the success they have made of the business. Mr. Horton, specially, has shown that he knows his business, and by his high-class business policies has made many substantial friends for his firm.

C. W. ROOD CONSTRUCTION CO.

This company whose offices are over the Bank of Grand Rapids, operates all over the United States. They specialize in drainage and irrigation ditches and levee building and in all their work operate the well-known Rood Excavators.

The firm was incorporated in 1910 and has grown to immense proportions and are constantly extending their operations. At present they are doing some big contract work in Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The officers of the company include C. W. Rood, who is president, C. G. Ekkelund, vice president, and G. M. Hill, secretary and treasurer. They are the same officers as the Rood Manufacturing company.

They have the big advantage of using exclusively the Rood Excavators, which do the work efficiently and quickly, and, as a matter of fact, the quick way in which they carry out their contracts with these Rood Machines has had much to do with inducing other contracting firms to use them.

KELOGG BROTHERS LUMBER COMPANY.

This concern is one of the largest of its kind in this part of the state. Established twenty-one years ago they have spread out until now they have branches in Almond, Brookings, Endeavor, Nekoma, Oxford, Packwaukee, Wild Rose and Westfield.

Their yards are served by the St. Paul road and they have one of the largest retail lumber trades in this part of the state. They have a three-deck, electric lighted storage shed 25x134 feet, with two tracks running through its length.

During the building season they keep several teams busy in local deliveries. They receive their lumber in carload lots from California, Oregon, Washington, Louisiana, Arkansas as well as from parts of this state.

An extra large stock in each line is carried. Roofing and all kinds of builders' supplies are also to be had. The firm are the largest dealers in cement in this part of the state.

W. P. Kellogg is president of the firm, C. F. Kellogg is vice-president and treasurer, and E. C. Kellogg, whose home is in Nekoma, and has charge of the plant there, is secretary, and is a son of C. F. Kellogg.

These gentlemen are among the best known business men of this part of the state and are certainly entitled to mention in the "Booster Edition," of the Tribune. They are live and progressive citizens and are always interested in all enterprises gotten up for the betterment of this city and section.

ROOD MANUFACTURING CO.

Grand Rapids is the home of a number of enterprises that have gained prominence, and one that has become known extensively in the states that are still developing is the Rood Manufacturing Company.

The office of this firm is over the Bank of Grand Rapids and they are manufacturers of the well-known Rood Excavator, one of the best on the market to-day for excavating ditches where sloped sides are required.

They turn out a high grade, powerful excavator for dry land ditches for drainage and irrigation purposes. These are used extensively in Wisconsin and Northern Minnesota.

They are used to a great extent in reclaiming swamp lands and for ditch work in connection with state rural highway work. Several of the most important contractors for this kind of work in the country use these.

The excavators they manufacture are of different dipper capacities, ranging from one-half to three-fourths and one cubic yard. They also manufacture a machine known as the cleaner, for deepening and widening ditches, which have been dug by other types of machines.

C. W. Rood, president, C. G. Ekkelund, vice-president, and G. M. Hill, secretary and treasurer, who are the officers of the firm, are also proprietors of the C. W. Rood Construction Company. The company was incorporated in 1914.

The members of this firm are progressive business men who have built up a big enterprise on merit. They are among our substantial men of affairs and all are prominent socially as well as in business.

F. MacKINNON MANUFACTURING COMPANY.

Imagine turning out 100,000 sets of hubs and 2000 wagons. That is the annual capacity of this firm, and their business is still growing. Their products go to all parts of the United States and Canada over the St. Paul, Northwestern and Soo lines.

This is one of the best equipped plants in this portion of Wisconsin and the firm is one of the large ones of our community. They build farm and freight wagons as one of their specialties, and these are known,

every where, through their good construction and service.

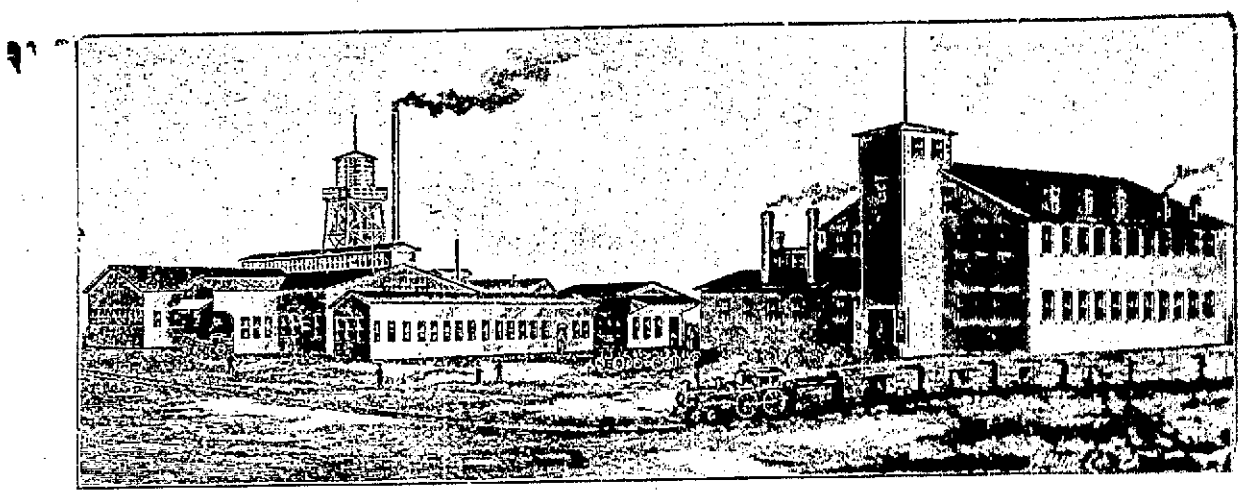

This firm started in a modest way in 1879 and has grown steadily until to-day it has a reputation covering the American continent. Their goods are known everywhere, as we have stated. They always put the best material into their hubs and wagons, these being closely inspected before shipment.

Their main office is at 717 Grand Avenue and this is an incorporation. F. MacKinnon is president, John Schnabel, Sr., is vice-president and general manager, and George W.

Mead is treasurer. These gentlemen are directors, as well as I. P. Witter, L. M. Alexander and F. M. Schnabel, who is also secretary of the company.

The typical American spirit of "the better" has characterized the conduct of this business always, and the policy of giving the goods for the money has not only augmented the sales department but has held the trade, prompt shipments putting finishing touch to the whole system.

The men behind this enterprise are business men of the highest character.

Plant F. MacKinnon Manufacturing Co.

GRAND RAPIDS BREWING CO.

The purest milk is harmful if its use is abused, and the same is true of beer. As a matter of fact beer is often prescribed by physicians as a mild tonic, and if it is used moderately and is bought PURE it is healthful.

That is probably why so many people like to drink the Grand Rapids Brewing Company's product. The firm sells thousands of bottles of their "Grand Rapids Special" bottled beer every week. They also sell large quantities barreled.

Their big auto trucks can be seen daily delivering their goods. Practically every bar in the city sells their beer. Indeed this beer has a smaller percentage of alcohol in it than cider, and it is vastly more pure, for defective apples are often used in making cider, while only carefully selected and inspected ingredients enter into Grand Rapids beer.

They have one of the best brewmasters in the state, and their plant covers two acres of ground. Their brewery is up-to-date in every respect, and they have an annual capacity of 16,000 barrels, while 20 skilled men are employed. They use pure spring water only. They also manufacture soft drinks and carbonated waters.

The business was incorporated in 1904. The officers of the company include Mayor J. A. Cohen, who is president; H. A. Sampson, vice-president; F. L. Rourke, secretary, N. Reiland, president of the Reiland Lacking Co. who is treasurer and Jacob Lutz is manager. The progress and excellent standing of this firm shows that the public regard this as one of the leading firms of our city as well as one conducted on the basis of integrity.

The Grand Rapids Brewing Company is a good example of the firm that operates on a good business basis with a determination to give the public pure goods.

WEEKS AND WEEKS.

There is no spot on earth more sacred to man, whatever his civilization, than that which shelters the dust of those who are dear through kin or friendship, and here is found the reason why so much attention and such vast sums are expended in beautifying and rendering attractive our cities of the dead. It is safe to assert that few branches of industrial art, while exacting so many rare qualifications from its followers, has greater or more substantial rewards in store for them than that of the monumental sculptor, or the dealer in these ornate structures.

Among the most favorably known in this section of the state, is Weeks and Weeks, of which Mr. R. A. Weeks is sole proprietor, he is a producer of high grade artistic cemetery memorials, and building work, as well as all manner of monuments, markers, tablets, headstones, the range of styles including work of every description, plain and ornamental.

Some of the very finest work in his line in the city and throughout surrounding country bears evidence of his neat handwork and clever ideas in manipulation.

His shop is equipped with pneumatic tools and all up-to-date appliances, which insures work of the most artistic character and enduring quality. Mr. Weeks not only does a large local business, but his products are shipped to many other states well.

Mr. Weeks is an enterprising man and is highly esteemed by all citizens in the community.

KAYE CARVING CO.

Three years ago Gus Kaye established this business on Second Street and he has done much better than expected.

His plant is well-equipped with all up-to-date machinery and he has all kinds of fancy carving and work. Besides this he manufactures some of the most beautiful carvings in the country.

In this line, he has been established for such an extent that he has a sale of his goods in all parts of the country. His facilities for fine work are practically unlimited and he has a large business in this part of Wisconsin in particular.

Mr. Kaye has established an excellent reputation among local business men not only for his skill but on account of his excellent dealing with patrons and promptness with which he delivers orders. He is an energetic and a spirited citizen.

SENSATIONAL STORY IS REVEALED. NEWSPAPER MEN WILL BE HERE SOON

Many People Throughout Wood County Will Become Interested and Involved During the Next Eight Weeks.

If you are devoid of enthusiasm, ambition, and that quality called "pep" in the language of the "live wire," it will not be worth while for you to read any further. But if you are actually open to a call from opportunity, and have a fair share of ambition, then we know that you will be tremendously interested in this story.

Some wise man once said, "Important happenings occur during the blue moon season." We are not prepared to state whether this is the blue moon season or not, but we do know that one of the most important happenings is going to be "pulled off" in Wood county in one-two-three order. The fact of the matter is, you will have to watch closely for this proposition is going to be staged in the short period of eight weeks.

Don't get impatient and wonder why we are beating around the bush. We are merely trying you out. If you are a live wire you will have the patience to read still further. Anyway, it will only take you six minutes by the clock to read the entire article.

Al right, if you are now in a receptive mood, listen closely: We are going to pull off the greatest contest that has ever been staged in Wood county. We are going to head our list of prizes with that world-famous car, the Five Passenger Ford. You ought to know that the Ford has long been noted for the service it renders.

As second prize we have purchased a $100 list value diamond ring and as you know that diamonds always have a cash value any place, you will surely admit

The Central Wisconsin Press Association will meet in this city on Friday, June 19th, to spend the afternoon and evening with us, and if the weather is at all favorable it is the intention to try to make the stay of the visitors pleasant enough so that they will go home and have some thing nice to say about Grand Rapids.

An effort will be made to give the visitors an automobile ride about town, so that they will have a chance to see some of the beautiful scenery along the river, and at the conclusion of this they will be taken to the pavilion over the interurban line, where there will be a short business program.

When the business session is over a supper will be served and music will be on hand so that those who desire to may dance during a part of the evening, or all of it for that matter.

It is expected that there will be a neighborhood of seventy-five or eighty people here, and the session will be mostly of a social character. A small part of the afternoon, the newspaper men have promised to bring their wives or sweethearts with them.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT THE CONGREGATIONAL S. S.

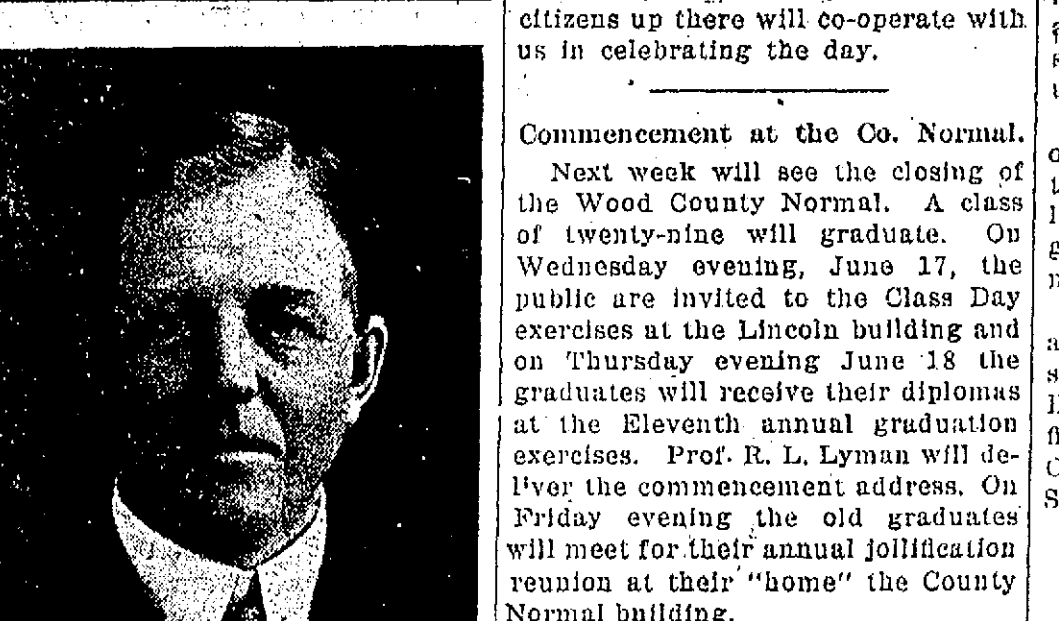

The annual Children's Day exercises of the Congregational Sunday School will be given next Sunday evening in the church auditorium.

The parents and friends of the students are especially invited and a splendid program will be provided for their entertainment.

Crotteau-Bruderli.

Miss Edna Crotteau and Mr. Al. Bruderli were married at St. Peter and Paul Catholic church in this city last Thursday morning. Rev. Riegelsperger performing the ceremony which made them man and wife. They were accompanied by Miss Viola Bruderli and Mr. Lloyd Crotteau.

Both of the young people are well and favorably known in this city, the bride being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Crotteau, and a most estimable young lady, while the groom is an industrious young man who for some time past has been in the employ of the Hart Manufacturing company. Mr. and Mrs. Bruderli will make their home in this city where they have many friends who will unite with the Tribune in extending the heartiest of congratulations.

—Otto R. Roehius.

Elected president of the Wisconsin B. P. O. Elks Reunion Association by a unanimous vote at this forenoon's session of the meeting at Wausau, Wis.

Wesenberg-Frank.

Miss Alice Wesenberg and Mr. August Frank are to be married today at the west side Lutheran church at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Wm. Nommensen to perform the ceremony. They will be accompanied by Misses Anna Bieler, Viola Frank and Sarah Steinke and Messrs. Frank Wesenberg, Wm. Putzier and Edward Frank.

A wedding supper will be served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Steinke, parents of the bride, after the ceremony, and the young people will make their home in this city. Both of the contracting parties have many friends in this city to wish them success on their journey thru life.

A Suffrage Party.

A Suffrage Garden Party will be held at the home of Mrs. Falkland Mackinnon Tuesday July 14th.

The program for the afternoon will consist of music and an address on Woman's Suffrage by Mrs. I. P. Witter.

Light refreshments will be served by the committee.

The consolidated auto bus will carry passengers from the First National bank to the Mackinnon home from 2:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

Return trips made from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m. All ladies interested are urged to be present.

Sunday Train Service.

A Sunday train will be run over the Northwestern balance of this season, the train arriving from Chicago at 1:30, and will leave again at 3:05. Commencing the same day a parlor car will be put onto the evening train and also on the morning train.

Entertained a Porch Party.

Miss Lenore Gouger entertained a party of young people at her home on Third street Monday evening at a porch party in honor of Harland Hyer of Nekoosa. The evening was spent in a most pleasant manner in music and dancing, there being about twenty present.

WISCONSIN RIVER ON THE RAMPA

With the water touching the twelve foot mark and reports from up river to the effect that it would probably go higher, Grand Rapids people were on Saturday a trifle worried as to what the outcome would be. But outside of those who had to move out of their basements and the merchants who were put to the trouble and expense of putting their basement stocks up on the top shelf, the damage was only nominal.

Fred Stamm was compelled to discontinue the barber business for the time being, the water being up to the windows in his shop, and the place would not have been navigable even with a pair of waders.

The Chambers Creamery company also had plenty of water in their place of business to compel them to stop the wheels turning for a time, but outside of the inconvenience and loss of time, they suffered no loss.

Cohen Brothers had to move a lot of merchandise in the basement and get it up out of the wet, and the Leader office was put out of business for one day. The pill at Birou was compelled to shut down on Saturday afternoon, but by Monday morning the water had fallen sufficiently so that they were able to resume business.

At the Consolidated they took time for the forelock, and kept several teams busy hauling bags of sand and gravel to pile along the edge of their parking action, and the result was that the damage there was not near as bad as it would probably otherwise have been.

On the east river bank much of the filling that has been done by the park commissioners this spring was washed out, causing a considerable loss there, as the river bank presents about the same appearance that it did before the work was done.

As it was the damage all around was not particularly great, but had the rain continued for one day more there might have been much more to tell about, as the water was up around the danger mark when it commenced to recede.

University Graduates.

Madison, Wis., June 9.—Caps and gowns are familiar sights on the campus of the University of Wisconsin and final examinations began June 6. Among the students the principal topic of conversation is the approaching commencement which begins June 17. The "procession" will take place at 8:30 on that morning. Those who will take part in it include all candidates for degrees, members of the instructional force, members of the classes of '63 and '64, the president and the regents.

Following the procession President Van Hise will deliver the commencement address in Armory hall and confer degrees. Orations will also be given by members of the graduating class.

On June 14 in Armory hall, Honorable John A. MacDonald, editor of the Globe, Toronto, Canada, will deliver the baccalaureate address to the graduating classes of all departments.

The graduating class this year is a large one. The following are seniors from Wood county: Selma H. Barthmann, Karl H. Joerge, Marshall; William R. Boorman, George C. Hill, Lloyd D. Miller, and Percifer S. Daly, Grand Rapids.

Anniversary Services.

Services will be held at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church next Sunday to celebrate the 15th anniversary of the organization of that society. There will be three sessions during the day, the first at 9:45 in the morning when Rev. G. Baum of Menomonee, former pastor of the church will preach. In the afternoon services also commemorating the 15th anniversary of the organization of the ladies aid society will be held. Rev. R. Pautz of this city preaching. In the evening at 7:30 there will be an English sermon by Rev. H. S. Koch of Doylestown, Wis.

Drawbacks in All Localities.

W. S. Gardner, who is now located in Butte, Mont., writes the Tribune that they have snow, rain, hail and sunshine all at the same time out in that country. He also stated that it costs as much for fuel there as it does in Wisconsin when mercury is forty below zero. Everything else costs in proportion, house rent being from $20 to $48 a month for furnished rooms. Carpenters get $7 per day for 8 hours work.

New Minister Installed.

Rev. Pautz of the east side Lutheran church of this city was at Pittsville on Sunday where he installed the Rev. E. Dobratz in the Lutheran church there. Rev. Albert Wahl who has had charge of the Lutheran church at Pittsville for several years past, has gone to Eau Claire. Rev. Dobratz comes from Thiensville.

Automobile Affair.

The automobile belonging to D. D. Coway caught fire Monday afternoon when an effort was made to start up the machine. The fire company was called out but the fire was extinguished before the use of a garden hose before the department arrived. No damage resulted.

Home Grown Strawberries.

—Anyone wishing to purchase fine strawberries will do well to call on Will George on Grand Avenue or drop a card. He commenced picking this week and expects to have several hundred cases. Don't wait to buy for canning purposes until too late but put in your order at once.

Sale and Social.

—The Catholic lady Posters will hold an apron sale and ice cream social on Saturday, June 13th, at the old Grand Theatre south of Hotel Witter. Sale will continue all day.

—Vaudeville Saturday & Sunday.

W. H. BARNES.

Oh, Barnes' Chocolate Candy, Cries down the street, isn't it a dandy! Each kid we meet: Ain't it sweet? It can't be beat! So good to eat! It's quite a treat.

Is Barnes' Chocolate Candy, Candy? Harmful? Rubbish. It is such a thing. Sugar is one of the most wholesome articles of food one can put into one's stomach. It is quite possible that there is something injurious in some of the coloring matter used to tempt the children, or adulterations can be injurious in candy as in any food that is consumed.

Pure candy is never injurious. Penurious folks and stingy mothers trump up stories about candy being injurious so that they must not have to buy any of it for their children. So much said, we pass to the next lesson and that is, that, if you want the very best grade of chocolate made, call on Mr. Barnes at 111 Second Street South.

He only carries the purest and best on the market, and made under the United States pure food laws, he handles no cheap truck, his products being all high grade, his motto is: "Not how cheap, but how good."

In addition to his line of candies he operates an ice cream parlor in connection, where he serves the best of creams, made by himself on the premises. He also has a soda fountain where he serves all kinds of cold and refreshing drinks. He also carries a stock of souvenir postal cards, as well as a nice line of the standard brands of cigars.

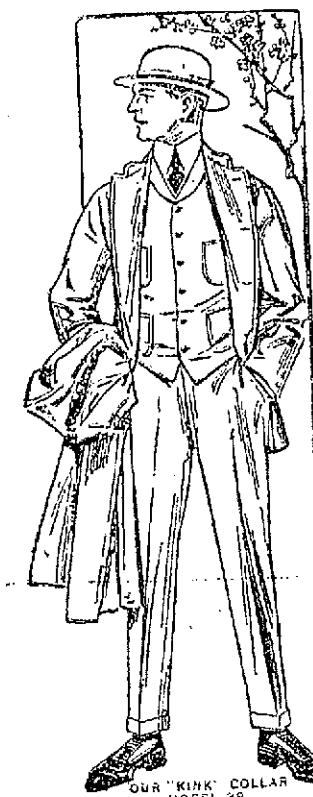

Mr. Barnes established the business seventeen years ago, his establishment being known to nearly every resident in city.

ABEL & PODAWILTZ CO.

Within four years this firm has become one of our most up-to-date establishments of the kind. They have one of the most conveniently and attractively arranged places in Grand Rapids.

They handle the well-known Hirsch-Wickwire Company Suits and Sincerely brand clothing and these are always kept in neat cabinets that are dust proof.

This store, which is on Second Street, has one of the finest lines of clothing and gents' furnishings in our city, with everything of the best quality and in great variety.

F. D. Abel is president of the company and H. A. Sampson, Jr. is vice-president and treasurer and M. Friedman is secretary. Messrs. Abel and Friedman have active charge of the business and deserve much credit for the manner in which they have developed their establishment into one of our representative stores.

Courteous treatment and fair dealing have been potent factors in the success and upbuilding of this business.

MRS. E. M. ALLERTON.

That the wants of the gentler sex in our city have been fully studied, and the requirements quite as fully met, is demonstrated by the existence of the many houses which cater only to that class of trade.

A lady who stands in the front rank in the millinery line, and one who commands a large and constantly increasing trade, is Mrs. E. M. Allerton, whose place is at 139 Second Street N. The store she occupies is nicely appointed, and contains a choice stock of millinery goods, hair goods, and toilet articles. The latest and most correct styles of all kinds of hats are to be found in this up-to-date shop, while her prices are within the reach of all.

Mrs. Allerton is a practical milliner, with twenty-one years experience back of her, she conducts the oldest millinery establishment in city, she has no rivals who still trade with her, who were customers with her when she first started.

H. F. GAULKE

Located on Second Street, and also conveniently situated for the residents in the eastern part of city, is the grocery store of Mr. H. F. Gaulke, one of the most reliable exponents of the trade in Grand Rapids. This store is admirably arranged and shows the careful manner of the proprietor in its neat and inviting condition, and is constantly the headquarters for the best line of groceries, flour, feed, crockery and glassware that can be obtained.

A well-assorted stock of fine staple and fancy groceries including the best grades of flour, etc., is always kept in abundance, and the lines of fruits and vegetables and general provisions are always fresh and in the best of condition.

This business was established seven years ago, and has always enjoyed the best patronage and good will of the community. Mr. Gaulke has by fair dealing and honest methods, and selling only fresh and pure goods, won for himself a very enviable patronage and many friends.

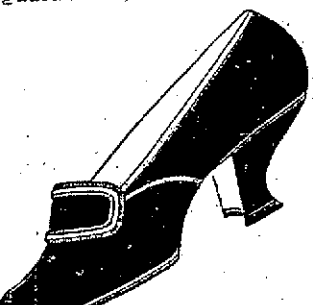

Advertising in The Tribune is an investment, not an experiment.

GLEUE BROTHERS.

Good shoes are almost as essential as good food for the feet are not properly cared for they will affect the whole body.

You can take it for granted that the fellow you saw yesterday going along in squeaky, badly-fitting shoes did not get them from Gleue Brothers.

This firm, which was incorporated in 1911, has one store in this city, at 102 Second Street South, and another at La Valle, Wis. They handle their own brand of shoes, every pair being guaranteed, and do a big trade.

They carry a large stock in both stores and have a modern repair department in which the genuine Good-year welt repair system is used, all work being of the highest class.

Henry Gleue is president of the company, F. Netzow is vice-president, and William F. Gleue is secretary and treasurer. The directors include William F. Gleue, George P. Hambrecht, Henry Gleue, Guy O. Babcock and Fred Netzow. All are well known throughout this community as sterling business men.

HOWARD'S VARIETY STORE.

This establishment is well known to our citizens as one where you can get a thousand and one things at reasonable prices.

Located on Second Street South, it is patronized by a large number of people who like to go there because they are sure to get what they want.

S. W. Howard is proprietor. There are 5 and 10 cent counters, which are his specialty, he also sells a great variety of higher priced goods.

Mr. Howard took possession of this business, which is an old stand, one year ago. He has built it up so that he has many departments. All sorts of articles in the way are sold. Full lines of crockery, glassware, tinware, gruitware, notions and jewelry are carried, as well as many other articles. The store is conveniently arranged for purchasers and courteous treatment is accorded all who go there.

Mr. Howard maintains a large mail store at Janesville, carrying similar lines to store here, he never-the-less makes Grand Rapids his home. He has had 15 years experience in his present line of business and is considered by jobbers as a shrewd buyer.

THE BOSSERT COAL COMPANY.

One of the important things in our everyday life is the matter of fuel, and in purchasing coal and wood the consumer naturally wants the very best.

In the game way those who buy hay or use cement wish to obtain these where they know they can get the best grades.

That is why Fred Bossert has such a large trade throughout our city in coal, wood, cement and hay. And that is why it takes three teams to handle his deliveries throughout the city.

Mr. Bossert has been established twelve years. He has built up quite a large business in cement sidewalk construction and masonry work. His place is on Second Street South.

Mr. Bossert is one of our progressive business men who consider their reputation and service to patrons above personal gain. He has always followed out this spirit and as a result is one of our really popular business men.

POTTER'S CITY LUNCH ROOM.

When you have that "vacant feeling" you naturally want some good place where you can drive away this uncomfortable companion.

You don't need to ask too many people where a good place is, for the first one will probably tell you to go to Potter's City Lunch Room at 347 Grand Avenue. He has been established three years.

E. S. Potter is responsible for this "hunger-chasing" place, and he is ready to do it at any hour you may wish to place. You always find everything clean and wholesome, too.

There are tables, if you have some of the lady folks along or prefer a table yourself, and if you are in a hurry and like to sit at the counter it's there. Short orders are a specialty.

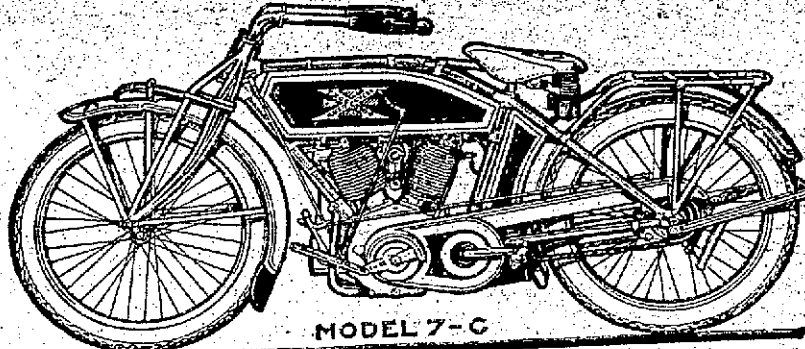

Mr. Potter knows how to cater to the public and is liked very much by his many patrons. He is courteous, pleasant and affable, gives best care and attention to his many patrons, and allows none to leave his place dissatisfied.

A. BANKERT.

The well and tasty dressed man always commands respect, and many a man of mediocre ability has curved his way to success by a neat appearance. The perfect fitting clothes, and that cannot be obtained from other than a first-class merchant tailor, in this connection we wish to give prominent mention to Mr. Bankert, located at 339 Grand Avenue. His well equipped establishment is stocked with a fine line of imported and domestic goods, in the very highest grades manufactured, and in all the latest styles designs and colors of the season, and his prices on all work ordered are the very lowest in accordance with the high class workmanship. He also does cleaning and repairing.

Mr. Bankert does all his own designing, cutting and fitting, and in fact, completes the garment from start to finish. He has been established in business here for the past twenty-eight years, and has worked at the trade for the past forty-five years, every garment leaving his place is guaranteed as to price, workmanship and fit.

MODEL 7-C

Excelsior Autocycle, Eugene Miller, Agent.

EUGENE MILLER.

Go to 180 First Street when you want some good repair work done on that bicycle or motorcycle, or if you are thinking of buying a new one of either.

Eugene Miller is proprietor of the establishment at that address, and he has a fully-equipped plant for all kinds of work.

Mr. Miller carries the largest stock of auto supplies, in the city and operates a Bowser sidewalk gasoline pump, and this is always ready for business.

This business has been established for fifteen years and Mr. Miller has resided here since he was two years old. He has built up a large repair business and agency business as well.

While he does a big jobbing trade in bicycle tires he carries all standard makes of cycles and is agent for the Dudley cycle car, Case automobile and Excelsior and Pope motorcycles.

Mr. Miller is popular with hundreds in our city, for he is a genial business man who "delivers the goods" and makes himself agreeable to all.

EMMETT T. MCCARTHY.

Few lines of industry in which skilled manual labor is indispensable, have been more widely effected by surgical and medical science than horse-shoeing, indeed the term scientific horse-shoeing, owes its origin to this fact. Every man who undertakes to shoe a horse properly must know something about its physical construction, so as to be able to understand the needs of animals with ailments, requiring special care, when their feet are being shod.

In this respect Mr. Emmett T. McCarthy is a thoroughly scientific horse-shoeer and expert in the treatment and care of horses' feet. He knows his business thoroughly and can be depended upon at all times to do the best work known to the trade. He has been established here for the past twenty years, during which time he has acquired a most available reputation, as well as a large and satisfactory patronage.

His shop is located corner Oak and Third Street, it being fully equipped with all modern appliances known to the trade. He owns the handsome brick barn adjoining his shop proper. He also does horse-clipping in a neat and scientific manner.

Being a man of large experience in his line, Mr. McCarthy is naturally successful and has a large and constantly growing trade among the most desirable classes throughout the city and surrounding territory of the third ward, serving with honor to himself, as well as to his constituents.

CITY LIVERY STABLE.

For twenty years, A. J. Hasbrouck, proprietor of this establishment has been catering to the public of our city. That he has satisfied this is evident from the large patronage he enjoys. This is a strictly sanitary stable, where the horses are kept in fine condition and all rigs are made to look like private property.

Mr. Hasbrouck owns the two-story frame building he occupies, at 161 First Street, North, and within its walls can be found fine hacks, buggies, surreys, wagons, etc.

First class funeral equipment is a feature of the business, and experienced drivers are employed. The rigs are rented to private individuals as fashionable and well kept.

Mr. Hasbrouck also conducts an auto livery for private or party use and it is on the same order. He is one of the most reliable liverymen in this part of the state.

Through his conscientious treatment of those who patronize him he has made many friends and is very popular throughout city, as well as county.

GEORGE FRECHETTE.

Everybody knows George Frechette, and the kind of a place he keeps. He has been in the saloon business long enough to establish the fact that he is absolutely fair and loyal to his patrons. He is one of our most popular dispensers of fine wines and liquors here, and carries an excellent line of all kinds at his elegantly appointed sample room, No. 106 Second Street South.

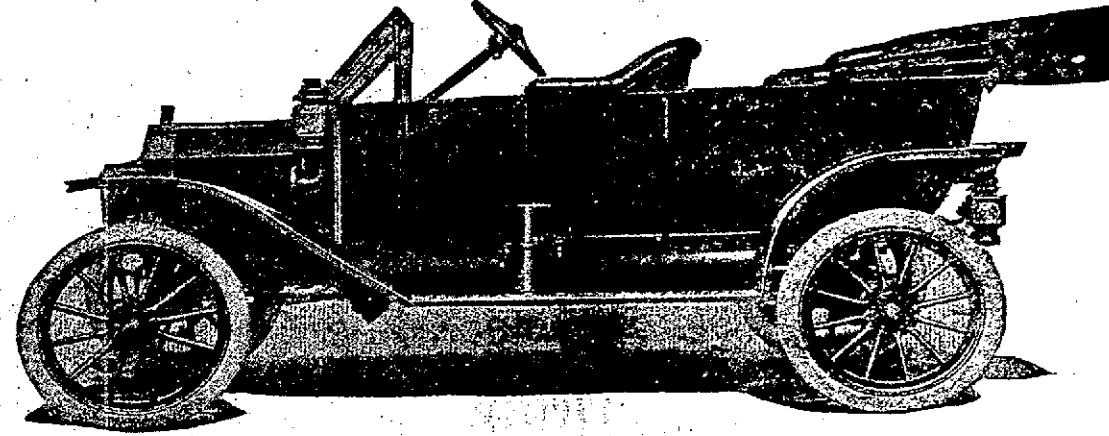

Mr. Frechette caters to some of the best trade in the city, and as a consequence his stock is the finest and most complete to be found in the market. He takes great pride in the fact that he never offers stuff that is not strictly first-class, the best being none too good for his high class trade.

In addition to the large stock of the best whiskies, brandies, wines, ales and beers, Mr. Frechette carries at all times a full line of cigars of the choicest brands.

It is always easy to find his place! The man who has once been in George Frechette's sample room, is guided by a sort of instinct to turn his footsteps in the same direction again.

This is one of the handsomest furnished sample rooms in this section of the state, the woodwork being all of antique oak, while the furnishings are the finest and best money can buy.

Grand Rapids' public schools are thorough in every department.

The Ford Car, D. M. Huntington, Agent.

MCCAMLEY & POMAINVILLE HARDWARE COMPANY.

Two years ago this firm started in business, and their place at 121 First Street, North, is known to thousands of our readers.

K. P. McCamley and E. N. Pomainville have developed their enterprise into a large one and have established a reputation for reliability in the hardware line.

They occupy two floors and carry a large stock of all kinds of hardware, including shelf and heavy hardware, stoves and ranges, tinware, cutlery, and sporting goods. They carry a full line of granite-ware and fishing tackle, etc.

In fact everything that is found in an up-to-date hardware store is to be had there, and if there is any standard article, no matter how hard to find, you can get it there.

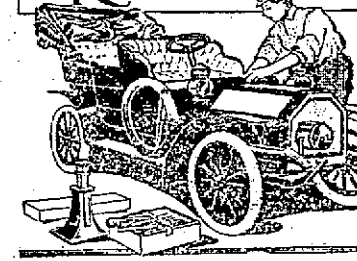

Mr. McCamley has charge of the business, while Mr. Pomainville has a large real estate business that takes up practically all of his time. Both are energetic business men of the clean-cut type and have the respect of the entire community.

CITY GARAGE.

The up-to-date garage is a necessity of every city and town of the country, now, for the universal use of the automobile has made it as necessary as a hotel.

Naturally the garage that is conducted on the latest plans and is equipped for first class service in every respect is the one that is patronized.

AUTOMOBILES REPAIRED

That is why the City Garage, of which E. C. Jacobson and V. L. Holliday are proprietors, is serving so many of our citizens and visiting motorists.

The City Garage, on Vine Street, has been established one year, yet in that time they have built up a large business.

They carry a full line of auto supplies and are agents for the Buick Auto here.

The proprietors of this garage have made themselves popular by their willingness to serve the public and by the excellence of the goods they sell. Both are popular in our city.

GRIEBBACH AND KEIP.

Any one who has a good horse—and is a good man himself—takes pride in his horse, and wishes him to have the best treatment possible, that he may make the best appearance, and do the best work that is in him, as well as make a good display of his qualities. Bad shoeing by a bungling blacksmith is the cause of a great deal of the bad traveling and ungraceful carriage of a horse. If such qualities are manifest, and good shoeing will cure it; where either bad quality is displayed.

This is rightly claimed to be so by Messrs. Griebbach & Keip, who are located on Jackson Street, where they do practical horse-shoeing and general blacksmithing, and do all their work in these lines well. The firm has been established in business here for the past four years, the members of the firm being E. W. Griebbach and C. F. Keip, and they have been known by means of the careful and effective work done in the way of shoeing the horses of our best people.

It is claimed by them that proper horse-shoeing will stop knee banging, interfering, forging, and stumbling, and also cure lameness caused by previous bad shoeing, and surely good shoeing as well as general blacksmithing is always done here in a scientific manner. All work being guaranteed.

They occupy their own two story modern brick building, it being one of the best equipped shops of its kind in this section of state.

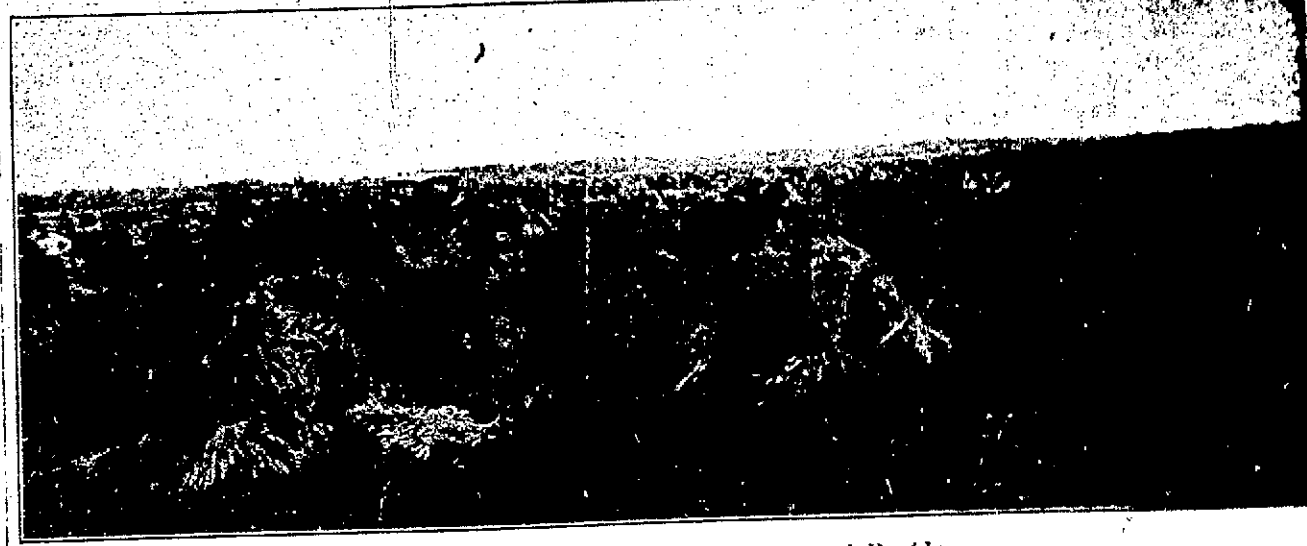

"It is no use advertising unless you have the goods; but it is no use having the goods unless you advertise."

H. F. LOOCK.

Conspicuous among the numerous groceries of our city, and one which is well known to the local trade, is the grocery store of Mr. H. F. Loock, South. It was one and one-half years ago that he established the business, and from the beginning it has gained popularity and prestige for quality goods, large variety and general excellence.

The premises are neat and the stock is large, consisting of everything pertaining to a first-class grocery. His stock consists of staple and fancy groceries, flour and feed, fruits and vegetables, confectionery and cigars, garden seeds, etc. All patrons are waited upon promptly and in a polite manner and orders are delivered to any part of the city.

Mr. Loock is thoroughly posted as to the requirements of the trade, which he carries out with success. His meeting with success is made evident by the large patronage enjoyed. He is a hustling and capable business man, has one of the leading stores in the city and holds the esteem of all.

Farming On Drained Marshes near Grand Rapids.

GRAND RAPIDS BAKERY.

"Everything good in baked goods" is their motto, and when you buy from them you see why they say it. J. J. Coates, and F. C. Williams are the proprietors they took over this old stand March 16, 1914.

They conduct a wholesale and retail business and their plant, which is modern and operated under the strictest sanitary conditions, the bakery has a capacity of three thousand loaves of wholesome bread daily.

Their place at 334 Grand Avenue is patronized by many of our most discriminating people, because they know that the best pies, cakes, bread and other bakery goods are produced there. Everything is nice, clean, and sanitary in the bake rooms, and their big oven is up-to-date in every respect.

Mr. Coates, the manager, has had sixteen years of practical experience and is a first class baker, and the goods they offer the public show it, too. Both gentlemen are liked by their many patrons, and their trade is increasing day by day.

NATWICK ELECTRIC CO.

Two years ago F. J. Natwick established the Natwick Electric Company and since that time has built up a large business through doing good work.

He is an electrical contractor, doing installation work, wiring, repairing and carries a large line of electrical supplies of all kinds, his store is located at 342 Grand Avenue.

He also carries a fine variety of electrical fixtures, for the store, office and home and does a big contracting business not only here but in the surrounding country.

If you want a dependable generator, motor or spark coil, this firm has it, and everything in the way of batteries, bells and spark plugs is also carried in stock.

Two branch stores are operated, one at Stevens Point and the other at Marshfield, where the same high grade stock and excellent services prevail. Mr. Natwick is an energetic business man and first class practical electrician in all branches and can be depended upon no matter what the work is.

An Ad in the Tribune is a message to every man who has something to sell. Those who send the most messages get most answers.

PEOPLES' TAILORING CO.

One price to all is a trade-builder, as is shown by the large patronage of this concern, located at 105 Grand Avenue.

Their standard price for suits and overcoats is $16.50—no more, no less, and their goods are made on the premises.

A large line of piece goods is carried, from which customers may select, so that the latter can see just what they are getting for their money. C. R. Matthews is the popular manager of the enterprise.

They also carry a full line of gents' furnishings of standard makes at attractive prices. These are in style and of the best materials.

The work done by this firm, which has been established in Grand Rapids for two years, has made an excellent reputation for them.

Mr. Matthews is entitled to much credit for his able management of the business. He is full of real energy and makes himself agreeable to patrons, so that they like to deal with him.

PAUL, THE FLORIST.

The love of flowers and plants shows that the one with those qualities possesses refinement far above that of the mere cold who seems worth in nothing but the coarse and entirely practical. But, as to that, the love of flowers has a practical side, when turned to the cultivation of the beautiful blooms for a monetary consideration. Hence this cultivation in turn encourages the love of the beautiful and the accompanying refinement of the hearts of those—those homes with the floral exhibits.

At the greenhouses of Paul Beasa, 465-407 Saratoga Street, in the rear of the Methodist church, there is always to be found a fine display of cut flowers, plants, funeral and wedding designs, as well as special collections and arrangements for parties and smaller gatherings, not to speak of the dinner tables and the home gatherings are always popular, and all his work is original and up-to-date, his fine designing being a specialty and very artistic.

Mr. Beasa has three greenhouses, with seven thousand square feet of glass in them. He also raises early vegetables. He has been engaged in his present line of business for the past two years, each year becoming more popular.

He is enjoying a practice that only comes by giving the highest work.

DR. J. S. SAYLES.

The care of the teeth is a duty that everyone owes themselves, and only the highest class work should be done at any time. The tooth forms such an important function in the general health that it is hard to understand why any one should be guilty of neglecting them, but on the contrary there is no part of the human anatomy that should receive more careful attention. Teeth should be regularly examined by a skilled dental surgeon, and when the slightest defect is discovered it should be immediately attended to.

A dentist whose work is unexcelled in this city is Dr. J. S. Sayles. His office is located in the Cohen Building, and is equipped with all the most modern instruments and appliances known to the profession. Dr. Sayles has been practicing his profession here for the past six years. He undertakes all classes of dental work and carries it through with the greatest ability, while he is a specialist in crown and bridge work, on difficult dental operations, the preservation of the natural teeth, in fact he does anything and everything in modern dentistry, guaranteeing all his work.

HOTEL JULIEN.

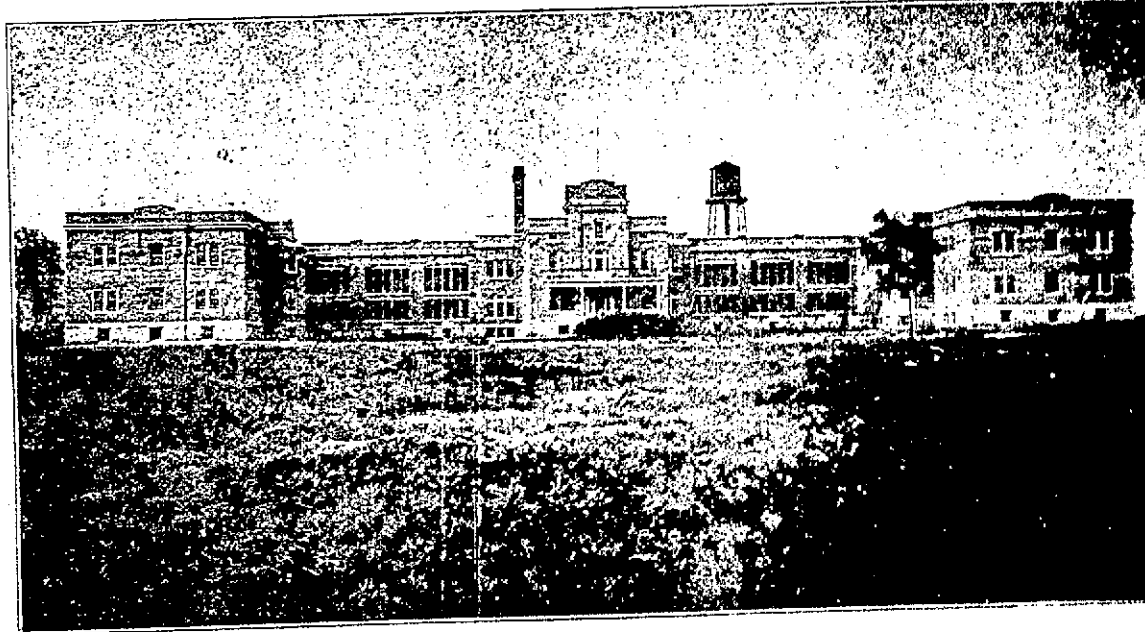

Located in the heart of the city, opposite the Chicago & North-Western depot, at Grand and Fourth Avenues, this hotel was built in 1894. G. J. Hayes took possession of it four years ago.

The building is three stories in height built of brick and is fully equipped for first class hotel service, and the guests of this house get it. The hotel is run on the American plan, the rates being $2 per day. The building is heated by steam and lighted by electricity and both systems are always kept up to the standard.

There are spacious sample rooms. The office, writing room and dining room are on the ground floor, and a first class buffet is operated in connection.

Mr. Hayes is a thoroughly experienced hotel man. Before taking possession of this hotel he conducted the Great Western Hotel, at Dubuque, Iowa.

He is a man who looks to the welfare and comfort of his guests and is quite popular among the traveling public.

Wood County Insane Asylum.

JOHN NILES.

The farmers and horse owners generally, appreciate a good harness shop, and when they find one it usually holds their trade. Such has been the good fortune of the house operated by Mr. John Niles at 339 Grand Avenue. Mr. Niles has been located here in business for the past four years, and has worked at the trade for the past twenty-five years, and being a practical man of great ability has met with most pronounced success. He appreciates the fact that the people want the best goods at the most reasonable prices, and being a keen business man he gave them what they wanted, and in every case guaranteed satisfaction.

Mr. Niles is a manufacturer and dealer in harness, whips, and saddlery of all kinds, he also does repairing in a most skillful manner. He carries large and complete lines in each department.

He does a large local business, but his trade extends to all parts of the county.

Mr. Niles is a conscientious business man, and has the respect of all, and is a worthy citizen.

IN PRINTING, LIKE EVERYTHING ELSE, YOU WANT THE BEST. THE TRIBUNE IS THE PAPER.

This issue of the Tribune is representative of the varied interests of Grand Rapids. Thousands of these copies will be circulated throughout the country and to foreign places. It is a credit to the city and to those who have helped to make it such.

"A man once said: 'It pays to advertise most business, but none is different.' The sheriff sold him out and now he works for his successor, who does advertise."

REILAND & PIERRODIN

"If anything should be wrong with this purchase return to us at once and we will cheerfully rectify the same."

This is the way in which this progressive firm does business. They do a large business in fresh, salt and smoked meats, they are located at 125 First Street North.

They have been established four years and in that space of time have made themselves known all over our city owing to the quality of their goods and their courteous treatment of patrons. They control a large trade.

They make their own sausages and smoke their own meats and conduct a strictly sanitary market. Both members of the firm are affable and know how to treat their customers and, as a result, are popular.

D. Reiland and A. F. Pierroodin are popular citizens, and as business men rank high in the commercial world.

R. F. MATTHEWS.

The tailor-made man can always be distinguished from others. The quality, the hang and the fit as well as the style of his clothes does the trick.

In the Old Wood County Bank building is the establishment of R. F. Matthews, one of Grand Rapids' leading tailors, who dresses some of our most prominent business and professional men.

Mr. Matthews has been established four years. He is a ladies' tailor as well as a draper of men. He is an expert designer and cutter as well as a fitter, doing all this kind of work himself.

All goods are made on the premises and Mr. Matthews employs four to five hands. A large stock of piece goods is carried, including the weaves of some of the best-known producers.

Mr. Matthews is conscientious in all that he does and as a result has the respect of those who patronize him. He is affable and accommodating and is liked.

The Land of Broken Promises

A Stirring Story of the Mexican Revolution

SYNOPSIS.

Bud Hooker and Phil De Lancy are forced, owing to the revolution in Mexico, to give up their mining claim and return to the United States. In the border town of Ciudad Juarez, they meet Henry Kruger, a wealthy miner, who hints of a big mining proposition in Mexico that he wants Hooker to take charge of.

"That's the rock," he said. "She runs four hundred dollars to the ton, and the ledge is eight inches wide between the walls. Nice ore, eh? And she lays between shale and porphyry." His eyes sparkled as he carefully replaced the specimen, and then he looked up at Bud.

"I'll let you in on that," he said, "half and half—or I'll pay two hundred dollars a month and a bonus. You alone. Now how about it?"

For a moment Hooker looked at him as if to read his thoughts, then he shook his head and exhaling his smoke regretfully.

"Nope," he said. "Me and Phil are partners. We work together."

"I'll give you three hundred!" cried Kruger, half rising in his chair.

"Nope," grunted Bud, "we're partners."

"Hu!" snorted the mining man, and lunged away in disgust. But as he neared the door a new thought struck him and he came as quickly back.

"You can do what you please about your partner," he said. "I'm talking to you! Now—will you think about it?"

"Sure!" returned Hooker.

"Well, then," snapped Kruger, "meet me at the Waldorf in an hour!"

CHAPTER III.

On the untrammeled frontier, where most men are willing to pass for what they are without keeping up any "front," much of the private business, as well as the general devilment, is transacted in the back rooms of saloons. The Waldorf was nicely furnished in this regard.

After a drink at the bar, in which De Lancy and Hooker joined, Henry Kruger led the way casually to the rear, and in a few moments they were safely closed.

"Now," began Kruger, as he took a seat by the table and faced them with snapping eyes, "the first thing I want to make plain to you gentlemen is, if I make any deal today it's to be with Mr. Hooker. If you boys are partners you can talk it over together, but I deal with one man, and that's Hooker."

"All right," he inquired, glancing at De Lancy, and that young man nodded indifferently.

"Very well, then," resumed Kruger. "Now to get down to business. This mine that I'm talking about is located down here in Sonora within three hours' ride of a big American camp. It isn't any old Spanish mine, or lost padre layout; it's a well-defined ledge running three or four hundred dollars to the ton—and I know right where it is, too."

"What I want to do is to establish the title to it now, while the revolution is going on, and make a bonanza out of it afterward. Of course, if you boys don't want to go back into Mexico, that settles it; but if you do go, and I let you in on the deal, you've got to see it through or I'll lose the whole thing. So make up your minds, and if you say you'll go, I want you to stick to it!"

"We'll go, all right," spoke up De Lancy, "if it's rich enough."

"How about you?" inquired Kruger, turning impatiently on Bud; "will you go?"

"Yes, I'll go," answered Bud sullenly. "But I ain't stuck on the job," he added. "Just about get it opened up when a bunch of rebels will jump in and take everything we've got."

"Well, you get a title to it and pay your taxes and you can come out, then," conceded Henry Kruger.

"No," grumbled Hooker, "if I'll stay with it. He glances at his partner at this, but he, for one, did not seem to be worried."

"I'll try anything—once!" he observed with a sprightly air, and Bud grinned sardonically at the well-worn phrase.

"Well," said Kruger, gazing inquiringly from one to the other, "is it a go? Will you shake hands on it?"

"What's the proposition?" broke in De Lancy eagerly.

"The deal is between me and Hooker," corrected Kruger. "I'll give him three hundred a month, or an equal share in the mine, expenses to be shared between us," said Hooker, holding out his hand, "and I'll give half of mine to Phil."

"All right, my boy!" cried the old man, suddenly clapping him on the shoulder, "I'll go you—and you'll never regret it," he added significantly. Then, throwing off the air of guarded secrecy which had characterized his actions so far, he sat down and began to talk.

"Boys," he said, "I'm feeling lucky today or I'd never have closed this deal. I'm letting you in on one of the biggest things that's ever been found in Sonora. Just to show you how good it is, here's my smaller receipts for eight hundred pounds of picked ore—one thousand and twenty-two dollars!"

"That's the first and last ore that's ever been shipped from the old Eagle Tail. I dug it out myself, and sacked it, and shipped it; and then some of those crooked Mexican officials tried to beat me out of my title and I blew up the whole works with dynamite!"

"Yes, sir, clean as a whistle! I had my powder stored away in the drift, and the minute I found out I was caught I laid a fuse to it and brought the whole mountain down. That was ten years ago, and old Aragon and the agents mine have had the land located ever since."

"I bet they've spent five thousand pesos trying to find that lead, but being nothing but a bunch of ignorant Mexicans, of course they never found nothing. Then Francisco Madros comes in and dros the agents mine off his job and old Aragon lets the land revert for taxes. I've got a Mexican that keeps me posted, and ever since he sent me word that the title had landed I've been crazy to relocate that claim."

"Well, now, that don't look so bad, does it?" he asked, beaming paternally at Bud. "There ain't a man in town that wouldn't have jumped at the chance, if I was where I could talk about it, but that's just what I couldn't do. I had to find some stranger that wouldn't sense what mine I was talking about and then get him to go in on it blind."

"Now here's the way I'm fixed, boys," he exclaimed, brushing his unkempt beard and smiling craftily. "When I dynamited the Eagle Tail it was mine by rights, but Cipriano Aragon—he's the big Mexican down at old Fortuna—and Morales, the mineral agent, had bunched me out of the title."

"So, according to law, I blew up your mine, and if I ever showed up down there I reckon they'd throw me into jail. And if at any time they did out that you're working for me, why, out you'd be—there's all. They'll put you out of business. So after we've made an agreement and I've told you what to do, I don't want to hear a word out of you—I don't want you to come near me, nor even write me a letter—just go ahead the best you can until you win out or go broke."

"It ain't a hard proposition," he continued, "if you keep your mouth shut, but if they tumble, it'll be right to a finish. I'm not saying this for you, Hooker, because I know you're safe. I'm saying it for your partner here. You talk too much, Mr. De Lancy."

"He chuckled, eying him with sudden severity. "I'm afraid of you!"

"All right," broke in Hooker good-naturedly, "I reckon we understand. Now go ahead and tell us where this mine is and who there is down there to look out for."

"The man to look out for," answered Kruger with venom, "is Cipriano Aragon. He's the man that bit me out of the mine, and he'll do it again. You talk too much, Mr. De Lancy. I wasn't on to those Spanish ways of his, and he was so dog-gone polite and friendly I thought I could trust him any more."

"He owns a big ranch and mesquite still, runs cattle, works a few places, sends out pack-trains, and has every Mexican and Indian in the country in debt to him through his store. So if he happens to want a rough work done there, just say somebody to do it."

"Well, just to show you how he did me, I got to nosing round those old Spanish workings east of Fortuna and finally I run across the ledge that I'm telling you about, not far from an abandoned shaft. But the Mexican mining laws are different from ours, and an American has lots of trouble, so I made a trade with old Aragon that he should locate the claim for me under a power of attorney. I know him then like I do now. The papers had to be sent to Moctezuma and Hermosillo, and to the City of Mexico and back, and while I was waiting around I dug in on this lead and opened up the prettiest vein of quartz you ever saw in your life. Here's a sample of it, and it's sure rich."

He handed De Lancy the familiar piece of quartz and proceeded with his story.

"That ore looked so good to me that I couldn't wait—I shipped it before I got my title. And right there I made my mistake. When Aragon saw the gold in that rock he just quietly recorded the concession in his own name and told me to go to blazes. That's the greaser of it! So I blew the whole mine up and hit for the border. That's the Dutch of it, I reckon," he added grimly. "Anyway, my old man was Dutch."

He paused, smiling over the memory of his misadventure, and then Hooker and De Lancy joined in a hearty laugh. From the town him that he had first seemed this shabby little man had changed in their eyes until now he was a border Cossack, the mere recital of whose adventures conjured up in their minds visions of gold and hidden treasure.

"Well," said Kruger, gazing inquiringly from one to the other, "is it a go? Will you shake hands on it?"

"What's the proposition?" broke in De Lancy eagerly.

But the Mexican mining laws are different from ours, and an American has lots of trouble, so I made a trade with old Aragon that he should locate the claim for me under a power of attorney. I know him then like I do now. The papers had to be sent to Moctezuma and Hermosillo, and to the City of Mexico and back, and while I was waiting around I dug in on this lead and opened up the prettiest vein of quartz you ever saw in your life. Here's a sample of it, and it's sure rich."

He handed De Lancy the familiar piece of quartz and proceeded with his story.

"That ore looked so good to me that I couldn't wait—I shipped it before I got my title. And right there I made my mistake. When Aragon saw the gold in that rock he just quietly recorded the concession in his own name and told me to go to blazes. That's the greaser of it! So I blew the whole mine up and hit for the border. That's the Dutch of it, I reckon," he added grimly. "Anyway, my old man was Dutch."

He paused, smiling over the memory of his misadventure, and then Hooker and De Lancy joined in a hearty laugh. From the town him that he had first seemed this shabby little man had changed in their eyes until now he was a border Cossack, the mere recital of whose adventures conjured up in their minds visions of gold and hidden treasure.

"Well," said Kruger, gazing inquiringly from one to the other, "is it a go? Will you shake hands on it?"

"What's the proposition?" broke in De Lancy eagerly.

"The deal is between me and Hooker," corrected Kruger. "I'll give him three hundred a month, or an equal share in the mine, expenses to be shared between us," said Hooker, holding out his hand, "and I'll give half of mine to Phil."

"All right, my boy!" cried the old man, suddenly clapping him on the shoulder, "I'll go you—and you'll never regret it," he added significantly. Then, throwing off the air of guarded secrecy which had characterized his actions so far, he sat down and began to talk.

"Boys," he said, "I'm feeling lucky today or I'd never have closed this deal. I'm letting you in on one of the biggest things that's ever been found in Sonora. Just to show you how good it is, here's my smaller receipts for eight hundred pounds of picked ore—one thousand and twenty-two dollars!"

"That's the first and last ore that's ever been shipped from the old Eagle Tail. I dug it out myself, and sacked it, and shipped it; and then some of those crooked Mexican officials tried to beat me out of my title and I blew up the whole works with dynamite!"

"Yes, sir, clean as a whistle! I had my powder stored away in the drift, and the minute I found out I was caught I laid a fuse to it and brought the whole mountain down. That was ten years ago, and old Aragon and the agents mine have had the land located ever since."

"I bet they've spent five thousand pesos trying to find that lead, but being nothing but a bunch of ignorant Mexicans, of course they never found nothing. Then Francisco Madros comes in and dros the agents mine off his job and old Aragon lets the land revert for taxes. I've got a Mexican that keeps me posted, and ever since he sent me word that the title had landed I've been crazy to relocate that claim."

"Well, now, that don't look so bad, does it?" he asked, beaming paternally at Bud. "There ain't a man in town that wouldn't have jumped at the chance, if I was where I could talk about it, but that's just what I couldn't do. I had to find some stranger that wouldn't sense what mine I was talking about and then get him to go in on it blind."

"Now here's the way I'm fixed, boys," he exclaimed, brushing his unkempt beard and smiling craftily. "When I dynamited the Eagle Tail it was mine by rights, but Cipriano Aragon—he's the big Mexican down at old Fortuna—and Morales, the mineral agent, had bunched me out of the title."

"So, according to law, I blew up your mine, and if I ever showed up down there I reckon they'd throw me into jail. And if at any time they did out that you're working for me, why, out you'd be—there's all. They'll put you out of business. So after we've made an agreement and I've told you what to do, I don't want to hear a word out of you—I don't want you to come near me, nor even write me a letter—just go ahead the best you can until you win out or go broke."

"He owns a big ranch and mesquite still, runs cattle, works a few places, sends out pack-trains, and has every Mexican and Indian in the country in debt to him through his store. So if he happens to want a rough work done there, just say somebody to do it."

"Well, just to show you how he did me, I got to nosing round those old Spanish workings east of Fortuna and finally I run across the ledge that I'm telling you about, not far from an abandoned shaft. But the Mexican mining laws are different from ours, and an American has lots of trouble, so I made a trade with old Aragon that he should locate the claim for me under a power of attorney. I know him then like I do now. The papers had to be sent to Moctezuma and Hermosillo, and to the City of Mexico and back, and while I was waiting around I dug in on this lead and opened up the prettiest vein of quartz you ever saw in your life. TRADE WITH HOME DEALERS

Every reader of The Tribune is urged to give his or her patronage to local merchants, regardless of inducements offered by mail order houses and organizations. When a proposition is made to you by outside houses or other representatives carefully weigh it and before making a move that binds you to the payment of a single penny, submit it to your dealer and ask him if he cannot meet it. Almost any local merchant will gladly undersell mail order houses on large quantities, and quality considered, sells you regularly just as cheap as do the outside houses.

Self interest as well as your pride in your home town indicates that you do not buy from mail order houses. The dollar spent at home may come back to you; the dollar sent away will never reach you again. Remember this when you get an alluring circular from the "mail order man." The mail order house wants your dollars at once, your home merchant wants your good will and your continued trade. Give it to him—he deserves it.

Don't be misled by any such proposition; buy of your local merchant, whom you know and can trust. Let the mail order houses do business where they pay taxes.

There are also a few things the home merchant should remember. Who stands by you through thick and thin? Who brags on your stock? Who makes it plain to the people that it is to their interest as well as their duty to trade with the home merchant? Is it Sparks & Sport, or is it your home paper? When a new enterprise is to be put on foot who do you ask to whom it up, some cheap print shop, or your home paper? When the schools are to be praised, when good streets and sidewalks are to be advocated, when the advantages of the town are to be held up as a market center and trading point; when the fertility of the soil and the opportunities offered by the city are to be heralded to the world, who is expected to do it? Is it the outside printer, or your home paper?

It is the home paper every time, and let it be remembered that the home paper is entitled to the patronage of the home merchants over outside printing firms, just as much as the home merchant is entitled to the business over mail order houses.

O. P. MENZEL

O. P. Menzel is the oldest photographer in the city in time of service, he having been established nineteen years ago. He is a most popular and reliable artist, and lives up to his well earned reputation for doing all kinds of photographic work in a thoroughly artistic way, at always being high-grade work, special attention being paid by him to fine portraits. He has built up a substantial patronage among the better class of our people, and making particular effort always to please his patrons.

He is not only a thoroughly competent and high-class artist in his chosen profession, but is also an up-to-date business man also—a combination of the practical and the ideal that is seldom united in this world.

His studio is over Steib's drug store, and is filled with the portraits, cabinets and enlarged sizes, of some of the most prominent business and society people of our city and county—a collection well worth seeing, and which frequently takes the old-timer back to the early days.

Mr. Menzel is well and favorably known to most of our citizens, as an upright business man and citizen.

TWIN CITY DYEING & CLEANING PLANT.

An indispensable necessity in any community is the man who does the dyeing and cleaning, and in summing up the resources of Grand Rapids in the industrial line one cannot overlook the above named establishment, as adding to an old stand, the present proprietor only took possession one year ago, and since has gained a large patronage, from the thorough character of the work done, with the result that the premises occupied on Second Street S., are equipped with all appliances known to the trade, in order to do that kind of work.

Here are cleaned by the new French process, as well as pressed, dyed, and repaired, party dresses, organdies, silks, velvets, laces, and ladies' and gentlemen's goods of every description.

B. J. Hager, the proprietor of the place, is a man who is well and favorably known to the community, where his standing as a business man and as a citizen is too well known to need any corroboration from The Tribune.

GEORGE T. ROWLAND & SONS.

A well-appointed department store with courteous employees is always sure of good patronage, and George T. Rowland & Sons' store comes within this class.

It is located at First, Baker and Second Streets, and since the establishment of the business in 1898 has grown steadily in popularity among our citizens and visitors from surrounding towns.

The firm occupy two floors, the second being occupied principally for storing their surplus stock. They own the building they occupy.

There are complete grocery, dry goods, flour and feed departments as well as one for a general line of gentlemen's furnishings and shoes.

George T. Rowland and his sons, R. G. and W. A. compose the firm. These gentlemen have established themselves as reliable business men of integrity, and they are liked by all who come in contact with them, being affable and attentive to the welfare of their patrons.

In every house there is a discarded article of furniture that can be sold through The Tribune want ads.

ANDERSON BAKERY AND LUNCH ROOM.

Two years ago A. J. Anderson started Anderson's Bakery and Lunch Room at 313 Grand Avenue, and since then he has fed a large number of our citizens and pleased them.

He is a wholesale and retail baker too, and is patronized by many of our families and retailers who use and handle first class bakery products.

Mr. Anderson is a practical baker and his goods are known far beyond the confines of Grand Rapids, for he ships large quantities to nearby towns.

The strictest sanitary rules govern the operation of the bakery and that of the lunch room, where only dairy lunches are served.

The quality of the goods produced in this establishment is guaranteed by the fact that Mr. Anderson does all his own baking, in which he is an expert.

He is a progressive young man and not afraid to work and knows how to please his patrons.

VETERINARY

DR. V. P. NORTON, D. V. S. M. S. GRADUATE VETERINARIAN.

The horse, which is now considered man's most valued servant, has not failed to receive the attention his importance demands, and able minds have devoted themselves to the field of scientific research that he may receive all the benefits of man's wisdom.

The veterinary surgeon of days gone by was a mere caricature of modern professors. Schools now science them in the manifold operation of veterinary surgery, and they perform their duties with the utmost skill and care.

The most able exponent of this profession in our city is Dr. V. P. Norton, whose office and hospital is located on Market Square. The Doctor has had an extensive experience as a veterinarian, surgeon, and a superior education in his chosen profession.

He is not only skilled in the treatment of the diseases of the horse, but is also thoroughly familiar with complications of all domestic animals.

Dr. Norton is proprietor of the Grand Rapids Veterinary Infirmary, it being the best equipped institution of its kind in central Wisconsin. He makes a specialty of surgical operations, having a special equipment for this class of work, having received private instructions from the leading veterinary surgeons of this country, along these special lines. Anesthetics are used in all operations.

Dr. Norton is most thoroughly proficient in his line, and during his eighteen years practice here has demonstrated his ability by some very successful cures. The Tribune takes pleasure in recommending Dr. Norton to their many readers as one of Wood County's ablest veterinary surgeons.

J. A. Weigen, D. V. M., who has just completed a three years course at the Chicago Veterinary College, while there was an assistant of Dr. E. L. Quitman, professor of Materia Medica and Therapeutics, thereby receiving a special instruction in the practice of veterinary medicine, although a recent graduate, he is fully equipped with the knowledge to treat domesticated animals scientifically, and comes with the best of recommendations in his chosen profession, and has located with Dr. V. P. Norton permanently.

WHAT A NEWSPAPER DOES FOR A TOWN.

The value of a live, energetic newspaper to any town or city is absolutely impossible of estimation. There are so many ways that the good newspaper promotes the interest of the city and the individual citizens where it is published that it would be like trying to number the sands of the sea to enumerate them. It is the true friend of the city or town and every citizen, and battles even of individual citizens in a way that no other agency has either the nerve or the courage to do. It stands as a great bulwark of defense for the city and for the people.

But this is only one feature. There is another that is seldom given much thought and that is that the newspapers of any town or city are a paying investment for such place as industrial institutions. People well known with open arms and loud acclaim any factory costing a few thousand dollars and they think the town is wonderfully fortunate in securing a plant that will give employment to a number of people. Sometimes they even put up a bonus to secure such a plant. There are many newspapers which give employment to a number of people, and nothing is thought of it. The money that comes to the paper is spent in the town or city where it is published. None of it goes away except for ink and paper and some other small supplies that cannot be bought at home. The newspaper is essentially a home institution.

It works day and night to build up its home town and state, and spends its money freely with home people. It is published on a strict business principle these days, and that is the reason for the growth and prosperity that has come to any papers during the past few years.

As a business enterprise, a good newspaper is about the best industry that any town has, and its publishers ask nothing but a square deal.

JOHNSON & HILL CO.

Since 1887 this establishment has been catering to the people of Grand Rapids, and the big success with which they have met shows that they know how to meet the requirements of our public.

Their building, 132 feet square, occupying three stories and employing from 90 to 100 people, is complete in every detail, and is a wholesale and retail business.

On the first floor are dry goods, men's furnishings, shoes, groceries and drugs. On the second are the offices and crockery; on the third floor are cloaks and suits, millinery, carpets, wall paper and paints.

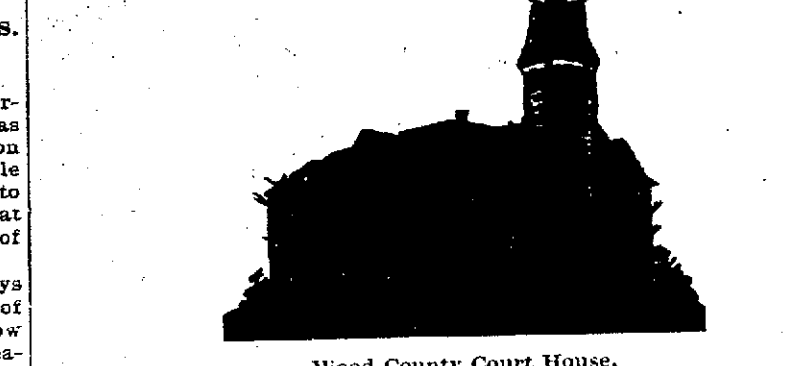

The hardware department and farm machinery which is large and complete, is in the basement. They do an immense business in flour and feed, and these departments are in a separate three-story building in the rear of the main building.

They operate an up-to-date lunch room on the second floor, where everything is clean and cooked in the best manner—an excellent place for the shopper to rest and have lunch.

In the rear of the building is also an immense feed barn, for the accommodation of farmers, and where a large head of horses can be handled. This is free of charge. They do a big mail order business, issuing their catalog three times a year. The entire building is equipped with automatic fire sprinklers.

G. M. Hill is president of the company, Mrs. N. Johnson is treasurer, C. F. Kruger is secretary and A. M. Wilson is general manager.

OFFICIALS

SHERIFF A. J. COWELL

No office under the gift of the people of a county requires more personal attention or the exercise of more vigilance than that of the sheriff. A man to occupy the position must be a man of honor, as well as one possessed of coolness and determination. In Sheriff Cowell our community possesses a sheriff who is unfaltering in his duty, brave in his performance, and never afraid to bring the guilty to justice or protect the weak. Duty with him is paramount—that is his watchword and thoroughly he holds to it.

A. J. Cowell.

Since his election to office in 1912, he has fulfilled his duties in a most admirable manner, giving great promise that he will at the end of his term with the name of being the most conscientious, honorable, and capable sheriff who ever filled that office. Of one thing we are assured that he will not let personal considerations serve him from the most difficult and disagreeable tasks, and will show partiality to none, but accord justice to all.

As a citizen Sheriff Cowell enjoys the esteem and confidence of the people, as an official of the city and county, he has won distinction, and as sheriff he fills the position with credit and honor.

REGISTER OF DEEDS E. E. AMES

No office in the gift of the people is of such importance and responsibility as that of Register of Deeds, as in his manifold duties he has to keep in touch with all classes of citizens, as well as aid efficiently in the work of civic government. We do not hesitate to say that the office is filled to the satisfaction and approval of all citizens of Wood County by Mr. E. E. Ames, and who is now serving his third term in his present capacity. Mr. Ames possesses every qualification necessary to discharge the duties efficiently, adding to a general and courteous manner a sound business training, and is recognized as being well posted on every phase and feature of civic government.

He is thoroughly upright and honorable, seeking only in the carrying out of his duties the true interests of the people which is logically "the greatest good to the greatest possible number." The Tribune gladly places on record its belief that the office was never as competently or more satisfactorily filled than at present.

FOR SALE

Farms and Unimproved Land.—One farm consists of 401 acres with good buildings, 130 acres of which is under the plow, mostly hard maple, and the balance of land is pasture and brush land. All of the land is slightly rolling and there is no waste land on any part of the 401 acres.

The farm can be easily subdivided into 2 or 3 separate farms. There is a cheese and butter factory within one mile from the house, and the house is three miles from Sherry station, on the Soo Railway.

I also have a large amount of land which is known as "cut over" land and will be sold in large or small tracts to suit the purchaser. These lands are situated in Wood and Marathon counties.

CLERK OF COURTS A. B. BEVER.

The right man in the right place is the unanimous verdict of all who have witnessed the career of A. B. Bever in the above named office. He is making a record which will be good capital for him when he shall be inclined to seek the suffrage of his fellow citizens at some future day.

The relations which the clerk of courts holds to the community at large is a most important one. There are kept the records of cases which have been disposed of dating back as far as when the state was incorporated, such as judgments, divorce decrees and civil cases. That these should be kept and cared for correctly, a competent man should be secured, and such a man has been secured in the person of A. B. Bever, who was elected to that most important office in 1912.

Wood County is proud of the office of the Clerk of Courts as it is managed, and it may challenge comparison in all respect with that of any office.

COUNTY CLERK F. H. EBERHARDT

One of the highest important positions in the transaction of the business of a county is that of County Clerk, to fill which properly requires a man of wide experience in addition to being honorable and an upright citizen. It is quite safe to say that no man in Wood County probably was better qualified to execute the duties of this office than F. H. Eberhardt, who is now serving his third term in office. He is a commendable official, and deserves the thanks of the community for the successful manner in which he has fulfilled the duties of that important office. His sound training and experience has been invaluable to the county while his urbane and genial manner in carrying out his duties has been greatly appreciated and has been greatly commented upon by all who have been brought into contact with him.

He is one of our ablest county officials, he is also public-spirited, as well as one of our most progressive citizens, who has legions of friends throughout the county.

How Empress Punished.

"The first person I saw punished in the palace at Peking was a servant girl; she had made a mistake about her master's socks and had brought two which were not mates. Her majesty finding that out, ordered another servant girl to slap her face ten times on each cheek. This girl did not slap hard enough so her majesty told the one who had been slapped to slap the other. I thought that was too funny for anything and wanted to laugh the worst way, but did not dare."—Two Years in the Forbidden City, by the Princess Der Ling.

House Boss in Egypt.

Old Mr. Egyptian carried a stick or a small club about the house with him and laid it upon his woman like a thousand of brick whenever they disobeyed or displeased him. In the graves the mummies show that nearly every woman had a forearm fracture. When Mr. Egyptian came home in a bad humor he would sail into her with a stiff stick, and as the arm was thrown to protect the face it was generally broken while warding off the blow.

COUNTY TREASURER NATE ANDERSON.

Nate Anderson was elected to the important office of County Treasurer in November 1912, and the choice of the county seems to have been a good one, as no public official in Wood County is filling his office with more general satisfaction than he is. He is one of our best known and most public-spirited citizens, progressive to the degree called for today.

These qualities are qualifications for the duties, as every one must acknowledge, and Mr. Anderson is making success with the details of his management. In addition to being thoroughly efficient in the performance of his duties, he is affable and polite, courteous and courteous to all who have official business with him, besides possessing the confidence of the most important interests of the community, which gives him the inside track in the performance of the outside duties of his office.

Mr. Anderson has given evidence as to his ability in office of County Treasurer and is to be congratulated.

NEWSPAPER DON'TS.

Don't take your home paper. It is the most active and powerful factor in building up your town, and to support it would involve you in the work.

Don't pay for it if you take it. Newspapers are run on a business basis and the editor wouldn't take the money anyway. He'd most likely pay it on his bill.

Don't fail to tell the editor how to run the paper. He has nothing to do but to listen and keep his temper sweet.

Don't put your name to what you want published. It's the editor's business to expose unpopular causes and take your chestnuts out of the fire. What hurts your business might also hurt his—but that's different.

Don't notify the editor when you change your postoffice address. He may lose track of you and you will escape paying the last two or three years of your subscription.

THE EMPIRE BUFFET.

This business house conducted by Messrs. Andrews & Bodette, at 107 First Street, North, and known as The Empire Buffet, is one of the most popular and at the same time most popular buffets in the city. In the first place the furnishings and general air are inviting to patrons; its goods are of the most desirable character, including just the very choicest of fine wines, ales and brandies, both foreign and domestic, the best known brands of bonded whiskies, to say nothing of good beers and a line of cigars that is fully up to the requirements of the most particular. In a word, this is one of the really worth while places of its kind in the city, and is conducted in such a manner as to reflect such credit upon its proprietors.

It naturally follows, therefore, that its patrons include the better class of men, men who believe themselves entitled to the best they can buy as well as a service of the surroundings that are in these things fitting to gentlemen. It is these things that have made the Empire Buffet so popular and brought to Andrews & Bodette their present prosperous and growing business.

PRINTED STATIONERY

NECESSARY TO FARMERS

Every farmer who owns fifty or more acres of land ought to have printed stationery, with his name and the name of his farm and postoffice address properly given. The printed heading should also give the names of whatever crops he specializes in and of what varieties of seed or whatever he keeps. Printed stationery for a farm is a dignity place insuring that your name and address will always be given properly and in full.

The Tribune makes a specialty of stationery printing. We have type and paper styles to please any taste and guarantee you satisfactory work at right prices.

Let us assist you in preparing copy for a neat job.

Men Need Help—Not Charity.

There is a higher duty than to hand out alms to the poor, and that is to save them from being degraded to the blighting influence of an almshouse. Man has a right to something more than bread to keep him from starving. He has a right to the alms and encouragements and culture, by which he may fulfill the destiny of a man, and until society is brought to recognize and reverence this it will continue to groan under its present miseries.—Chaning.

M. PHILIPP

Of all the mediums for expressing the highest sentiments of admiration or sorrow flowers have since the beginning of time held first place.

The poets have considered flowers so highly and laid so much stress upon them that they have attached to each flower that we see in the modern conservatory a certain meaning, especially in matters of love.

He who understands flowers is closest to nature, and he who loves them has a soul. The production of fine flowers takes work, close application and scientific knowledge of floriculture.

Opposite the First National Bank, on First Street, North, is the branch store of M. Philipp, of Wausau, where Mrs. K. J. Philipp is manager. They sell all kinds of fine, healthy potted plants and high grade cut flowers. They also make elegant floral designs.

Mr. Philipp's has nine greenhouses in Wausau, the local store being a branch established four years ago. They do a large business. Much credit should be given to Mrs. Philipp for the courteous manner in which she treats her patrons and the nice trade she has built up. And the firm is entitled to praise for their excellent products.

Mrs. Philipp has been a resident of Grand Rapids ever since 1886, she is as active and spry as many a young lady in her teens.

THE MANDARIN CAFE.

Eight weeks ago the Mandarin Cafe was opened at Vine and Second Streets, and already it has become popular with most of our people who like good cooking.

They make American and Chinese dishes of all kinds and they are delicious. Regular meals are served at twenty-five cents. Short orders are to be had at all hours of the day or night.

They make a specialty of that popular dish, chop suey and serve hundreds of dishes every week. Their kitchen is sanitary in every sense and cleanliness governs everything.

This is a genuine Chinese restaurant of the better kind. The service is good and the cooking is appetizing. The decorations are typical of the orient and the place is not only attractive but comfortable as well.

They make a specialty of serving late evening suppers for parties, etc., as well as for auto parties. Everything in the line of delicacies is served at this up-to-date Cafe.

The scenic beauties of Wood county excite the admiration of all visitors to this community. The drives are beautifully shaded, leading over hill and throughout dale, offering an entrancing variety for the pleasure.

To get that tailor-made suit go to H. Leloff, 332 Grand Avenue. He'll measure you, cut them himself, fit you and see that they are made properly and send you on your way rejoicing.

Don't mind it if you are a little too short or too long, whether the shoulder is a little higher than the other, owing to the way you walk. He'll-drape you properly.

You can get a good suit for $25 up, out and made right in his tailor shop by experts under Mr. Leloff's eye. Best of all, everything is guaranteed.

Besides this he does his own purchasing of goods; so that in every respect weaves are up to the minute and are high grade. Many samples are on display all the time.

High grade cleaning, pressing and repairing is done, also. This work, too, is supervised by him. As for the clothes he makes, "Every piece of work is done under his personal supervision—that's why Leloff clothes fit."

There are thousands of readers of The Tribune who want your goods. Why don't you tell them what you have.

GRAND RAPIDS PLUMBING & HEATING CO.

High grade plumbing is one of the vital things about any building, whether private dwelling or public edifice, so that it is of utmost importance that a high grade plumber is secured to do this kind of work.

The wise individual will not have any old Tom, Dick or Harry do his plumbing work, he will go where he KNOWS it will be done right, and that it will be done by one of our city go to above firm.

William Rogers is manager, and he is an expert plumber, holding a certificate from the City of Chicago, dated September, 1899, as a master plumber, and another from the State of Illinois, dated July 1896.

He stands at the head of his business and has headquarters at 304 North First Street. He has been established six years and does all kinds of modern sanitary plumbing, steam and hot water heating, etc.

From four to six skilled hands are employed, and they are under Mr. Rogers' personal supervision, with his 26 years of experience back of him. A large line of plumbing, and bath room supplies is also carried.

Mr. Rogers is a high grade business man who is well liked and is conscientious in all he does. He is one of our most popular business men.

If you desire to establish a home in the neighborhood of good schools are come to Grand Rapids. There are great and growing business interests here, but these are not allowed to eclipse educational matters.

J. W. NATWICK.

"The Booster Edition" of The Tribune would not be complete without mention of J. W. Natwick, whose establishment is located at 342 Grand Avenue.

Established in 1886, he has built up a large business and is patronized by many of our people who know where to go when they want good furniture, bedding, sewing machines, etc.

Mr. Natwick is agent for the New Home and Free Sewing machines and has a large trade in these alone. He has a big business and sells for cash and easy payments.

Few, if any, of our business men are better known than is Mr. Natwick. He served as city clerk for three years; city treasurer for one year; was assistant postmaster for four years and then became postmaster, which he was for four years.

He is popular and well liked by all who come in contact with him.

TO OUR READERS.

The Tribune is being sent out this week to a large number of people who are not regular readers of the paper. We want you to look the paper over and if you like it, let us know.

The Tribune is always looking for new subscribers and if you care to take a Grand Rapids paper we should be pleased to number you among our list of readers. The subscription is only $1.50 a year, not enough to break a man if he has any sort of an income. We will be pleased to send you a sample copy of the paper at any time. Drop us a line if there is anything in our line that you need.

LEWIS J. ERON.

The whole history of modern sanitary progress is written in plumbing. Compare the work done now with that of 25 years ago; you will say the modern is the better of the two.

Taking large contracts is easily within the resources of the workshop and store room of Mr. Lewis J. Eron on Third Avenue South near Grand Avenue. For many miles around you will not find another plumbing plant with such facilities as he can put at your command. He has expert knowledge, long experience and modern tools, enabling him to do all kinds of practical plumbing, steam fitting, sewerage and venting at it should be done—economically and well. Mr. Eron is a licensed master and contractor, and furnished estimates in anything in his line. He makes repairing a specialty.

He carries a line of bath tubs, water closets, steam fixtures, etc. Mr. Eron has successfully conducted this business for two years, if you take

APPOINTMENTS BY U. OF W. REGENTS

Act Favorably on Recommendations of Van Hise.

RESIGNATIONS ARE ACCEPTED

Norman Foerster, English instructor, will leave State Institution—Professor Jones Granted Leave of Absence.

Madison.—The following appointments were made by the executive committee of the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin, in session at Madison, in accordance with recommendations made by President C. R. Van Hise.

John Swenbach of Jordan, Minn., county agricultural representative; George P. Wolf, State School of Science of Walpole, North Dakota, assistant in soils for the months of July, August and September; Oyvind J. Noor, assistant in the state soils laboratory for the months of May and June; C. J. Chapman, half time assistant in the state soils laboratory for the months of May and June; Earl Aumen, pasturizer in the dairy department; Horace A. Gould, temporary scientific assistant in veterinary science; John A. James, assistant professor of agricultural education; Ellis both A. Kelley, now superintendent of the women's work in agricultural extension at the University of Louisiana, assistant professor of home economics; W. H. Bentley, assistant in agricultural chemistry, in place of A. R. Lamb, resigned; George B. Mortimer, instructor in agronomy; Arnt Ludwik Jakobsen, scholar in structural engineering; Guy Everett Whitman of the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, scholar in hydraulic engineering; George J. Davis, Jr., research assistant in hydraulic engineering for two and one-half months; C. R. Wilder, research assistant in hydraulic engineering for two months; H. G. McMillan of Madison, instructor in steam and gas engineering; L. L. Garner, instructor in hydraulic engineering; Martin Payton, instructor in foundry practice; Mrs. Edith E. Hoyt, instructor in education, extension division; Bettina Jackson of Madison, half time assistant in the department of debating and public discussion; Miss Jennie B. Sherrill of Whitewater, half time assistant in the office of the dean of women; Fern Condon, temporary library assistant; George S. Ryan, instructor in botany; L. P. Mohlig, teaching assistant in botany; Wirt G. Alvint, student assistant in English; Elveth H. Kessler, assistant in journalism; George P. Paine, fellow in mathematics; Elvin E. Sage, temporary clerk and stenographer in the pharmaceutical experiment station; Clark L. Hull, assistant in psychology; Montford Jones, fellow in political economy; A. W. Ashby, honorary fellow in political economy; C. Franklin Zoak, Jr., instructor in romance languages; Gus E. Schulz of Oshkosh, industrial scholar in the course for the training of teachers; Marjorie Bennett, Carroll college scholar; Lath; Edward K. Hirsch, instructor in anatomy; N. G. Monroe of Spooner, Wis., student assistant in anatomy.

Resignations were accepted from: Mrs. J. Vandervoort, mistress of Barnard hall; Norman Foerster, instructor in England; W. H. Tuft, field and laboratory assistant in the pharmaceutical experiment station; Sybil B. Swagman, instructor in anatomy; Edna Dyer, student assistant in anatomy; I. S. Lewis, assistant professor of botany.

Prof. L. P. Jones was granted leave of absence from May 20 to the end of the semester; also to Prof. W. A. Scott for the second semester of the year 1914-15; to Miss Alice Hopkins of the physical education department from June 6 to the end of the semester; to Prof. C. E. Mondenhall for the first semester of 1914-15; J. W. Mayor, instructor in zoology, from May 20 to the end of the semester.

Must Be Full Weight.

"In my opinion one who sells or offers for sale as a pound of cheese, and under such circumstances as to cause the purchaser to believe that it is a pound of cheese, a package which does not contain a pound of cheese, not weight, violates this law."

Such is the opinion of Attorney General Owen, given to Dairy and Food Commissioner Emery, who asked for a construction of the law which forbids any person to sell or offer for sale or keep for the purpose of sale any product of less weight or measure than the quantity represented.

But the attorney general holds that the statute in question does not require that any commodity be sold or offered for sale in any particular quantity.

Fishing Is Good.

The open season for game fish of all kinds began Saturday, May 30. Non-residents of the state over fifteen years of age, and excepting women, must pay a license fee of one dollar.

"From our reports," said State Game Warden John A. Sholtz, "there appears to be an abundance of all kinds of game fish in the streams of the state."

"My advice to all prospective fishers is: 'Obey the game laws.' Do not catch any unauthorized muskellunge and do not exceed the limit in the number of bass."

New Incorporations.

Articles of incorporation were filed in the office of the secretary of state as follows:

The Multi Manufacturing company, Milwaukee; Capital, $25,000; Incorporators, J. H. Lytle, Charles A. Klawitter, Armin G. Kritch and Ernest A. Baker.

The United Canvas Glove Workers of America, Manfield; no capital stock. Incorporators, Frank Butler, Belle Bonlieu, Mary Wolf and David A. Furstenborg.

The Craftman Construction company, Milwaukee; capital, $10,000; incorporators, Armond Rupenthal, P. H. Jentges and C. Roger Grauman.

The Kinzel Lumber company, Merrill; capital, $105,000; incorporators, C. H. Stango, F. W. King and C. J. Kinzel.

The Goodwin corporation, a Virginia company, with $75,000 capital and $5,888.10 invested in property in Wisconsin, filed a statement to do business in Wisconsin in W. G. Fleischman of this state; its representative in Milwaukee.

R. R. Taxes Are $200,852 Higher.

Madison.—Final valuations and assessment of the property of street railway companies and light, heat and power companies operated in connection with same was made by the tax commission and entered upon the roll as constituting the assessment for the year 1914. The result is that the amount of taxes levied against these companies for the present year is $210,852 greater than for the year 1913, the valuations being increased $6,000,000 and the rate of assessment increased from .118243701 to .01387403469. The total assessment for the present year is $58,390,000, as compared with $51,490,000 in 1913. The total amount of taxes levied is $10,104, as compared with $9,893 for the year 1913.

The tax resulting from this assessment will be divided so that 15 per cent will be retained by the state and 85 per cent distributed through the municipalities in which the utilities assessed are located. This division gives the state $1,515 and turns over to the towns, cities and villages affected $88,589.

The largest assessment is that made against the Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light company, the value of which is placed at $29,500,000 and the tax assessed $3,494,402. Of this amount $1,392 is retained by the state and $3,494,402 is returned to Milwaukee and other municipalities in which that corporation operates.

The property of the Milwaukee Light, Heat & Power company is valued at $7,700,000 and the tax assessed is $1,068,300.07.

The valuation placed upon the Southern Wisconsin Railway company is an even $1,000,000 and the tax amounts to $118,754, of which $2,081.11 goes to the state and $11,792 to Madison and adjoining towns. The valuation of this company is the same as last year, but the tax is $2,041 greater.

Twenty-Two Students Are Honored.

Twenty-two University of Wisconsin students, of whom 17 are women, were named by the faculty sophomore honor or committee as deserving of praise for scholastic work for the past two months.

Madison, Wis., May 30.—The following students were named: Alfred Chickering, New London; Marlon Converse, Madison; Ruth Glasgow, Schofield; Iva Gleason, Madison; Mary Hoenigman, Junction City, Kan.; Margaret Johnson, Washington, D. C.; Viola Klotzner, Madison; Imogene Kriesley, Wausau; Dorothy Levins, Indianapolis, Ind.; Laura Mills, Buffalo, N. Y.; Amy Mueller, Madison; Harriet O'Shea, Madison; Amanda Rose, Milwaukee; Lydia M. Ryser, Appleton; Fred Schilling, Horicon; Elmer Sevinghouse, New Albany, Ind.; Louise Shepherd, Madison; Roy Watson, Stoughton; Susan Yager, Hingston, and Helen Zimmerman, Milwaukee.

Of this list 19 are in the letters and sciences course, one in chemistry, one in commerce and one in music. Those honored by the faculty include only 44 per cent of the members of the sophomore class.

Graduates Get Jobs.

Many of the members of this year's graduating class of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin have already accepted positions for the coming year.

Of those who have already made definite arrangements more than one-third are going directly back on to farms as managers, renters or owners.

A number of the graduates have been employed by manufacturing concerns handling farm equipment; still others will be engaged in demonstration work with certain of the railroad companies, or in the service of the United States department of agriculture.

Among those who have already accepted positions are:

J. D. Tasker, who will farm in Barton county, Mo.; L. L. Armour, Buffalo county; M. L. Stallard, Dane county; W. E. Rasmussen, in St. Croix county; A. Dahlbrugg, in Lafayette county; J. P. Martin, in Grant county; J. A. Bower, at Chateau, Mont.; C. F. Van Gout, at Chattanooga, Tenn.; George A. Cary, at Richmond, Va.; and J. Loggia, at Lima, Peru; A. G. Burg has been elected principal of the county agricultural school at Wausau, and C. E. Pavocett of the county agricultural school at Rochester; B. W. Bennett will teach in the high school at Stoughton; J. M. Hammer, in the high school at Roberts; L. J. Schenk, in the high school at La Crosse; L. P. Schreiber, in the high school at Sun Prairie; C. L. Yule, at Albert Lea, Minn.; O. B. Gibson, at Sauk Center, Minn.; J. H. Murphy, at Freeport, Ill., and O. A. Stangel, in a state agricultural school in South Dakota; John Mathys will be with the E. B. Clark Seed company; L. A. Warner, with the Universal Portland Cement company, Chicago; E. J. Kilpatrick, county agent at Paducah, Ky.; D. T. Sullivan, demonstration agent with the Great Northern railroad; F. J. Haner, with the Lincoln Chautauque company.

Governors' Meet Put Off.

The meeting of the governors' conference, which was to be held in Madison June 9 to 13, has been postponed. This action was taken by Governor McGovern of Wisconsin, O'Neal of Alabama and Ammons of Colorado, of the executive committee, upon the request of many governors who are desirous of participating in the program.

The importance of the subjects to be presented and discussed at the next meeting of the conference prompts the executive committee to comply with the request.

Claims $100,000 Tax.

The estate of Lord Strathcona of Canada, known as the Canadian "Empire Builder," will pay nearly one million dollars inheritance tax to the state of Wisconsin within a short time. The estate and holdings in Wisconsin are being investigated by the state tax commission. The evidence gathered shows that when Lord Strathcona died he had holdings approximating $19,000,000. The Wisconsin holdings consist of stocks of the Northern Pacific railroad.

New Patents.

Richard Bernard, Cudahy, assignor to Power and Mining Machinery company, Waukegan, Ill., has secured a patent for a new method of making tubular packing pads; Ambrose Drumbar, Burlington, Wis., has secured a patent for a new type of horse fork; Benjamin P. Plesch, Racine, has secured a patent for a new type of timing apparatus; Gustav Grotzman, Appleton, has secured a patent for an adjustable truck gauge and level.

LANE MUST FIGHT

WATER POWER MEASURE NOW IN CONGRESS DOESN'T SUIT CONSERVATIONISTS.

PROBABLY WILL BE PASSED

President Wilson May Veto It—Advocates of Federal Control Say the Compensation Is Inadequate and Misleading.

By GEORGE CLINTON.

Washington.—Secretary of the Interior Lane apparently will receive the sanction of congress for all the conservation bills which he has recommended with one exception, that which concerns federal control of the water power of the country. It is, of course, possible that eventually the secretary will win out in this matter, but at present there seems to be a determined effort in congress to put through a water power measure which will not satisfy the ardent advocates of conservation.

Secretary Lane always has been known as a conservationist and it appears he and the president think the present water power bill in congress is not strong enough to secure to the government, which means to the people of the United States, all the returns which it should get from the leasing of the power to private corporations.

The bill, which covers the whole water power question it seems likely will go through the house, for it is understood that it has the backing of the house leaders. The measure has been given a privileged status which means that it will be debated early and probably passed. It is believed in Washington the president does not think the bill is a good one and it is virtually certain that it does not have the support of the secretary of the interior.

The senate, it is understood, is not opposed to this bill, against which the charge is made that it gives to water power corporations pretty nearly everything that they ask. The conservationists say their hope lies in the president of the United States, and they are quite sure their confidence that he will veto the measure is not misplaced.

Compensation Clause Called Bad.

The conservationists say the bill for general water power legislation is to be held generally by the country to be an excellent measure. This feeling arises, they say, from the reports that have gone out that it contains ample compensation to the federal government for the use of the water power. They urge a careful reading of one section of the bill in order that people may make up their minds as to just what it does mean.

It is section 4 of the bill to which strong objection is made. It changes existing law so as to provide "that the compensation required from the owner of the dam on account of benefits accruing because of headwater improvements, the erection of reservoirs, etc., shall be collected to amount not exceeding five per cent per annum upon the total investment cost of such improvements to the United States, in addition to the annual expenses of maintenance of the headwater improvement, all of which shall be divided among all the dams on the stream receiving benefits from the increased flow, and shall be equitably apportioned among all the beneficiaries."

The conservationists say that it would seem from this perhaps that the government is going to get a real return for its money, but they are sure that it does not mean this at all. As they put it, the government not only owns the improvements in the shape of reservoirs and other things which it has built, but it owns the right to the water powers of the streams, a right that has been sustained by the Supreme court. The conservationists point out in the measure now pending the government's rights to the water powers themselves are not compensated for at all, and these powers, they say, are much more valuable than locks and dams and other things.

Two Dreadnaughts Favored.

The house has voted appropriations for two dreadnaughts for the United States navy, and for a number of smaller craft. It is said that the navy department is responsible for the greater of the representatives in the matter of appropriations for naval purposes. It is expected the senate will sanction the house action. It is known that the president will sign the bill, for he has approved Secretary Daniels' recommendations for naval increases.

Battleships deteriorate rapidly, or at any rate comparatively rapidly. Boats of the type built ten years ago rapidly are going out of date, and are now used largely for the reserve fleet, ships that will act as harbor and coast defenses in case of attack from the sea by a foreign enemy.

One battleship a year, it is said by the navy experts, will not keep the fleet at their present strength. It is even urged that two battleships a year are not sufficient to maintain the fighting strength at its present level. The navy, however, is much stronger today than it has been before, even if the number of ships has not largely increased.

Democrats More Liberal Now.

Next year, 1915, marks the time, once set by the Republicans in congress to stop appropriating for two battleships each year. Once when Roosevelt was in the White House, he recommended the building of four battleships. It was generally believed that the president wanted to make sure that he would get two, and that it was for this reason that he recommended four. Then the house naval committee reported at that time favorably on two battleships the Republican majority went on record as in favor of two ships each year until the Panama canal should be opened. This resolution of the Republicans of course had no binding effect on succeeding congresses, even those in which the Republicans were in the majority, and the resolution probably was intended simply as a sort of incentive for future congresses to do likewise.

The Panama canal will be opened next year, but there seems to have been recently a more friendly feeling among the Democrats toward an enlarged battleship program than there was when the party was in the minority in congress, so the chances seem to be that the navy will be kept at least at its present strength during the years to come, and it is possible that it may be added to because of the increased American merchant marine made possible by the Panama canal trade. The idea is that a country with a growing navy to protect its commerce needs a growing navy to protect it. Of course this is based on the assumption that the merchant trade is growing, and the Republicans are representatives of the business and commercial classes and senators who say "I cannot grow unless there are subsidies."

Canal Needs Protection.

One reason given by the naval authorities for a considerable increase in the United States navy is that the Panama canal needs protection on the sea in order to make it safe from assault. The big fortifications at the entrance to the canal can keep off any fleet which any nation of the world can send against it, but there is nothing to prevent a foreign nation, if it secures mastery of the oceans, from landing troops north or south of the canal, and from making an attempt to capture it by an advance across country.

The thought of the naval authorities is that this country should have a navy big enough to prevent any other nation from getting control of the seas in the vicinity of Panama.

General Mills a Busy Man.

Every army and navy officer in Washington since the first sign of trouble with Mexico came into sight has been working over-hours. Perhaps two of the hardest-working men in the service are Brig. Gen. Albert L. Mills, chief of the division of militia affairs in the war department, and his first assistant, Lieut. Col. Henry C. Tate of the Seventeenth infantry. These officers and their colleagues in the division have been working night and day and Sundays and the end is not yet in sight.

Brigadier General Mills is the man who broke up hazing at West Point. When the Spanish war broke out he was a first lieutenant in the first cavalry. He was given the rank of captain as an assistant adjutant-general of volunteers. While serving on staff duty Mills was in the thick of things in front of Santiago. He showed heroism on the battlefield when he won a medal of honor, an appointment to West Point as superintendent, with the rank of colonel, and later a promotion to the grade of brigadier general, a step that advanced him over the heads of several hundreds of senior officers.

Here is the short official record which tells how Mills won his medal of honor: "Mills, Albert L., brigadier general, United States army, for distinguished gallantry in action near Santiago de Cuba, July 1, 1898, in encouraging those near him by his bravery and coolness after being shot through the head and entirely without sight, while serving as first lieutenant, First United States cavalry, and captain, assistant adjutant general of volunteers."

Stopped West Point Hazing.

As a result of his wound at Santiago General Mills lost the sight of one eye. It was not long after his Cuban experience that he was sent to West Point to become the superintendent of the school from which he had graduated as a second lieutenant of cavalry in the year 1879. The position as superintendent at West Point carried with it the temporary rank of colonel.

It was Albert L. Mills who broke up hazing at West Point. The system passed, beheaded, perhaps, by every graduate of the academy except the man who gave it its death blow. Possibly way down in his heart General Mills was sorry that he was able to do what many a soldier before him had failed to do, but it was a matter of duty and hazing was drum-headed and driven out of camp.

The scars of war are on General Mills, but conspicuous as was his field service it is probable that the fight against the time-consuming-if not time-honored—"plebe devilment" institution will outlive the other services in the memory of the army and the country. "Bracing" has succeeded hazing at West Point. The plebe is no longer asked to recite "The Psalm of Life" with appropriate gestures, to his own humiliation and to the delight of a host of unconscionable yearlings, but he gets the military end of the strenuous life as no plebe ever got it before, and the prefectory soldier duties at the academy always were soul-trying and body-racking.

frog as his plight would permit, and lay flat outside the rails, but with his one leg across the path of the wheels. He is in the Methodist hospital suffering severely from the shock of his experience, but probably will recover.

Youngsters of the Nile.

The conversation was about the bright sayings of the rising generation, and Congressman George F. Burgess of Texas was reminded of an incident that happened in a public school.

One day the teacher was instructing a class of youngsters in geography, and to this end she told them to close their books while she asked a few questions about the Nile.

"Johnny," said she, beginning with a bright-faced youngster, "what is the name of the principal river in Egypt?"

"The Nile," was the easy rejoinder of Johnny.

"That's right," returned the teacher, encouragingly. "Now, please, give me the name of the Nile's smaller tributaries."

"Juveniles, Miss Mary," answered Johnny.

MRS. LYON'S ACHES AND PAINS

Have All Gone Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Terre Hill, Pa.—"Kindly permit me to give you my testimonial in favor of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When I first began taking it I was suffering from female troubles for some time and had almost all kinds of aches—pains in lower part of back and in sides, and pressing down pains. I could not sleep, and I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the aches and pains are all gone and I feel like a new woman. I cannot praise your medicine too highly."—Mrs. AUGUSTUS LYON, Terre Hill, Pa.

It is true that nature and a woman's work has produced the greatest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known. From the roots and herbs of the field, Lydia E. Pinkham, forty years ago, gave to womanhood a remedy for their peculiar ills which has proved more efficacious than any other combination of drugs ever compounded, and today Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is recognized from coast to coast as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health—many of them openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; and in some cases that it has saved them from surgical operations.

GET AFTER SUMMER PESTS

This is the Time to Wage War Against the Deadly Fly and the Annoying Mosquito.

Let us bear in mind that one of the prime objects of a spring cleanup is to eliminate the fly and the mosquito. When we are exercising our muscles and our ingenuity ridding our dwellings and neighborhoods of dust and filth, it will be worth our while to give these twin winged pests serious attention.

The first spring fly, or house fly, came some time ago, though she is still pleasantly modest and retiring. It is not so, however, to reflect that the little insect is keeping carefully out of our sight and the reach of our swatters while she lays a few hundreds of eggs, which presently will hatch out into a whole flying regiment of nuisances and disease-carriers.

The shy and unobtrusive mosquito is making the best use of her time for the same purpose. When the open season on human beings arrives she hopes to have a whole army corps of her progeny to lead to the attack.

Now is the time to get busy if we want to preserve ourselves from the pests a few months hence. The swatter and the kerosene can are fully as important household implements at this season as the broom and the scrubbing brush.

Trade Secret.

"Where do you get the plot for your stories?"

"I have never had but one plot," declared the popular author, "and I swiped that from 'Romeo and Juliet.' All you have to do is to change the scenery and the dialect."

Of Course.

She—Why does a hen cackle when she lays an egg?

He—Because the egg can't. I guess.

AND THEN THEY UNDERSTOOD

Locomotive Engineer Made Quite Plain What Had Caused Argument Between Travelers.

Two commercial travelers while in a train got into an argument over the action of the vacuum brake.

"It's the inflation of the tube that stops the train," declared the first traveler.

"Wrong, wrong!" shouted the second. "It's the output of the exhaust."

Then when the train arrived at the station they agreed to submit the matter for settlement to the engineer.

That gentleman, leaning condescendingly from his cab, listened with an attentive frown to the two travelers' statements of their argument. Then he smiled, shook his head and said:

"Well, gents, ye're both wrong about the workin' of the vacuum brakes. Yet it's very simple and easy to understand. When we want to stop the train we just turn this valve, and then we fill the pipe with vacuum!"

SUCCEEDS IN CANADA

An interesting and successful American farmer, Low Palmer, of Staveley, Alta., passed through the city today.

Mr. Palmer came from Duluth, Minn., just ten years ago, and brought with him four cows and three horses—and that was his all. He homesteaded in the Staveley district, and today has 480 acres of land, 35,000 worth of improvements, 34 Friesian horses, made 2,000 bushels of wheat last year, raised 2,000 bushels of oats, 6,000 bushels of oats, 15 acres of potatoes, and 15 tons of onions. His farm and stock is worth $30,000, and he made it all in ten years.—Exchange.—Advertisement.

HAD TO RUN HUSBAND, TOO

Burden on Mistress of Farm Was Not Lessened by the Presence of Hubby.

A traveler was taking his dinner one day at a mountain farmhouse on the headwaters of the Cumberland river, and the lady of the house, who had four children playing around the front of the establishment, was inclined to remark at her hard luck in having so much work to do.

"I run this here whole farm," she said, in a tone which indicated that she was really to resign.

"How many acres have you?" the traveler inquired.

"A hundred and forty; twenty in wheat, sixty in corn, ten in meadow, and the balance scattered in patches."

"Get any stock?"

"Ten head up cattle, two cows, six hogs and work critters for the place."

"And you run the whole business?"

"Indeed I do; every hide an' hair up it," she sighed.

"But you have hired help?"

"In course, but 'tain't hired help that takes the load off a body." There was philosophy in that statement, and the traveler passed a minute.

"Haven't you got a husband?" he next asked, with a good deal of sympathy.

"Yes," she responded, very slowly, "but I have to run him, too."

Does Away With the Comma.

In his latest poem, "Narcissus," Robert Bridges, the English poet laureate, has banished the comma entirely, so that a procession of adjectives may be taken, at the reader's option, as separate qualities, or as qualifying each other. Thus one may call his hero "almighty wondrous," or regard him as being both. Mr. Bridges' principles of punctuation are rigorous. He loves the exclamation mark, using it five times in the 28 lines of the poem, and sprinkles dashes about with prodigality. He adopts the colon and does not slight the interrogation mark, while using now and then a full stop.

WHEN RENOVATING IS NEEDED

Proper Application of Colors to Secure the Best Results on Furniture.

Brown—Use turpentine colored with burnt umber, yellow ochre or burnt sienna, according to the depth desired.

Gray—Mix gray in turpentine, allowing one ounce of liquid Japan drier to one pint of stain. Apply with a brush, and in five minutes wipe over with a soft cloth. By adding a little turpentine to this formula you will have green; or by adding a very little white lead you will have silver gray.

Violet Stain—One ounce of carbolic acid and a half ounce of carbonate of potassium, one pint of hot water. Apply with a sponge saturated at one end with the color.

White Enamel—One pound of white zinc, one pound of white lead and varnish. Add the varnish to the zinc and lead until it is the consistency of zinc or thin cream.

Ebony Paint—Dissolve dry lampblack in turpentine. Use one ounce of Japan drier to a quart of paint.

French Polish—Shellac, three ounces; benzoin, three ounces; boiled linseed oil one and a quarter ounces; methylated spirits, two pints. Dissolve and filter. Roll flannel into a ball three inches square. Saturate this with polish, then put about it a piece of very thin muslin, then put a drop of linseed oil upon this pad and rub upon the article with a circular motion. Sandpaper down the polish when dry and so go over it once more.

Shellac applied to natural wood finishes covers marred spots.

READERS' QUERIES AND COM-

A physician writes:

"Is it not true that the free inch counter fork is as great a menace as the common drinking cup and the public roller towel? While the latter have been found to have common, the common fork is still to be found in many saloons. They are usually partly immersed in a tumbler of cold water. Some patrons will eat salad, beans, etc., off the platter, and when satisfied, or when the bartender protests on the ratio of food to drink they return the fork to the tumbler to be similarly used by other patrons. These are disgusting procedure. It is a fact that a woman can wear 'why is it that a woman can wear 'low necks and short sleeves,' expose herself to draft, cold, damp and wet, and not catch cold? How can she safely change from high shoes and thick stockings to pumps and slippers and live?"

REPLY:

Your position is well taken. The New York Health Department is conducting a campaign of extermination against these forks. They are also giving attention to the washing of saloon and soda fountain glasses. The perfunctory rinsing of eating utensils is little, if any, better than serving a common drinking cup. This is particularly true of the sticky, syrupy, ice cream soda glass. A man writes:

"I don't know! Editor's Note:—This column is designed to be of service to you. Correspondence is solicited. Most responses will be made in personal letters. Only those questions and answers believed to be of general interest are published. The service is part of the public welfare work of the University of Wisconsin Extension division. Johnson-Koch.

Carl E. Johnson, the popular repair man in the Johnson & Hill Co. shoe department and Miss Minnie Koch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Koch of the town of Sigel were married this morning at the home of the bride's parents at nine o'clock. After a wedding trip to Minneapolis and other points they will go to housekeeping on the west side. The Tribune extends congratulations.

Cord of Thanks.

We wish to thank the kind neighbors and friends who so thoughtfully extended their aid and sympathy during the illness and after the death of our beloved relative. Also those who sent floral offerings. Mrs. Chris O. Hassell and Family.

Question:

A. P. HIRZY, Jeweler, Vine Street, Grand Rapids, Wis.

Dear Sir:

Purely as a matter of curiosity I am taking the liberty of writing you to find out who is the largest Diamond in existence today.

Yours very truly,

Answer:

Grand Rapids, Wis.

June 10, 1914.

Dear Madam:

This is in reply to your letter just received regarding the largest Diamond in the world. The largest gem yet discovered is called the "Cullinan" or "Premier" Diamond, which was found in the summer of 1905 in the Premier Mine, South Africa. This stone weighs 3 1/2 carats, or 137 lbs. and is four inches long by two inches high. It is utterly impossible to place any value upon it but it is considered to be worth more than all the other famous gems put together.

While Mr. Wells, the manager of this company, was strolling through the mine one day he noticed a bright glitter from a large chunk of clay, and stooping down he picked up a huge crystal, which, much to his amazement, proved to be the largest diamond ever discovered, and worth more than three times as much as the whole capital stock of the company. It was purchased by the Transvaal Government in 1908, and through the suggestion of Premier Boshoff it was presented to his Majesty King Edward VII. in recognition of his grant of a constitution to the colony.

After its presentation, Diamond experts from all over the world were called together to find out how the stone could be cut at a minimum loss of weight. This task was entrusted to Hiri Koe, the king of the Diamond cutters in Amsterdam, and he, with two assistants, took two years to complete its cutting. They worked in a locked room, with a watchman continually guarding the door, and night and morning an escort of ten men superintended the conveyance of this priceless gem to and from its place of safe keeping.

Since cutting it is pear-shaped and has its permanent abiding place in the crown of his Majesty King George V.

While we have not any "Cullinan" Diamonds in our stock, we have many exceptionally valuable gems, and it will be a revelation to most of the citizens of Grand Rapids and vicinity, and a cordial invitation is extended to anyone who is at all interested in valuable gems to inspect our stock at any time.

Yours very truly,

A. P. HIRZY JEWELER

The Vital Conundrum

of this age is not, "Who were your ancestors?" "What are you worth?" "What political faith do you espouse?" but "Can you bring home the bacon?"

It is not "Are you a good man?" but "Can you make good?" That is the first thing that is wanted of you, even by your personal friends, so you may know that you are classified on at least one thing, viz, your ability to deliver the goods.

In the lumber business it is important that you should know the men you are dealing with and feel confident of their ability to make good. For lumber is often a commodity that is bought once in a life time and its worth and durability must stand the test of time. You are safe at Kellogg's.

Wants To Be a Senator.

Governor McGovern has announced that he will be a candidate for United States Senator this fall. Some of the republican papers in comment on his announcement express surprise at the governor's announcement, and that he should be a candidate at all.

There is nothing at all remarkable about it. You put one of these professional office seekers into office and they can always find an excuse for remaining there. The mere fact that they have held office in the past is excuse enough for them to ask for something better. In line with this fact the governor points with pride to his past record and asks for more.

The governor says he believes in a protective tariff, but not a high enough one so that anybody will be protected. That is, he believes in a different kind of a tariff from what the democrats have, but does not say just what kind of a tariff it is. Maybe he is like Taft was. You remember when he was elected he told the people he believed in revising the tariff, and after he was elected he said he meant revising it up instead of down. Maybe McGovern can fool the people the same as Mr. Taft.

His desire for a tariff is no different than the desire of all the republican politicians who have run for office during the past thirty years.

It would be a good plan for the voters to retire to public life, the governor, lieutenant-governor, and other elective state officers who are spending the people's time traveling around the state seeking higher honors at their expense instead of remaining at home endeavoring to work out a plan of government that does not need so much defending. These men were elected to serve the people at large and not to further their own political ambitions. —Merrill News.

RUDOLPH
A hard electrical storm visited this vicinity last Tuesday night. One out of Chas. Hassell's was killed by lightning and one got so scared it jumped into the wire fence but was not killed.

This community was very much shocked at Monday morning on hearing of the death of our old respected citizen, Mr. C. O. Hassell, who sold his farm and moved to Grand Rapids about two years ago. He has been sick since last fall with heart trouble. The bereaved relatives have the sympathy of this community.

BIRON.

Charles Carroll has resigned his position at the mill and gone to his home at Port Edwards.

Andrew Golganski who has resigned his place at the mill here has gone to Canada to see how he will like it in that country.

There was quite a rush here at the mill when the water commenced to raise; there being some two feet of water in the basement. We are unable to tell at this writing how much damage was done.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Akey and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Barton were at the Oscar Onholt home a few hours Sunday afternoon for a visit.

The Biron Park ball team played the south side team Sunday afternoon and were defeated.

A. L. Akey is talking some of getting himself an auto soon. Why not have one; when everybody else can get one?

The residents of the town of Saratoga are thinking of sending in a petition to the postmaster, general asking that the old stage route be re-established in this town the same as it has been for years past, preferring the service as it was before to what it is now. About eight families are entirely cut off from mail facilities by the change; and they claim that the people were not consulted at all before the change was made. As the old mail route existed the carrier acted as deliveryman for the patrons on the route; and it was possible to send anything down along the route, the farmers needed, but of course this is not possible now.

The high water of the past week flooded much of the land in the east part of town and those farmers who live along the river on the low lands will suffer considerable loss. Much of the river road was impassable, many small bridges being washed out and other damage done.

PITTSVILLE.

Record Ashley Fishbeck has made purchase of an International Harvester passenger truck auto of the Saratoga Hardware Co. and will establish a stage line between points to the south of us; Babcock and Dexterville. It is his intention to run the line on a schedule time making both places, twice a day and meeting all trains at both Babcock and Dexterville. The machine he has purchased is of the passenger truck type and will carry ten people with a fair amount of baggage. It is a high wheeler cushioned tires so that he will not be bothered with blowouts on the road and delay traffic. The machine is to be run here from Green Bay and will be equipped with a cover and side curtains. Mr. Fishbeck intends to run it the year round and the service to get in and out of this city with much more ease.

Edw. Levin of Levin & Stout, Babcock, has bought out the interests of Mr. Stout in the mercantile business they have been conducting at that place for the past four months and bought originally of David Levin. Mr. Levin will conduct the business alone hereafter in his own name.

Exercise—The Scripture Garden.
Song—Smith, who will spend the summer with Mr. and Mrs. John Gleason, visited a few days the past week at St. Paul, Minn.

Aug. Zellmer purchased a gasoline engine the past week.

Will Erdman expects to raise his barn this week.

The bridge east of Wm. Strope's is in very bad shape and should be repaired at once.

Lightning shattered a telephone pole near the creamery last week.

Be sure and attend the ice cream social at the church Friday evening, June 12th.

Miss Ethel Strope is on the sick list.

SARATOGA.

G. V. Hammond lost his barn last Thursday morning by lightning. The building being consumed along with about 15 tons of hay; a horse, three cows and one calf.

The residents of the town of Saratoga are thinking of sending in a petition to the postmaster, general asking that the old stage route be re-established in this town the same as it has been for years past, preferring the service as it was before to what it is now. About eight families are entirely cut off from mail facilities by the change; and they claim that the people were not consulted at all before the change was made. As the old mail route existed the carrier acted as deliveryman for the patrons on the route; and it was possible to send anything down along the route, the farmers needed, but of course this is not possible now.

The high water of the past week flooded much of the land in the east part of town and those farmers who live along the river on the low lands will suffer considerable loss. Much of the river road was impassable, many small bridges being washed out and other damage done.

PITTSVILLE.

Record Ashley Fishbeck has made purchase of an International Harvester passenger truck auto of the Saratoga Hardware Co. and will establish a stage line between points to the south of us; Babcock and Dexterville. It is his intention to run the line on a schedule time making both places, twice a day and meeting all trains at both Babcock and Dexterville. The machine he has purchased is of the passenger truck type and will carry ten people with a fair amount of baggage. It is a high wheeler cushioned tires so that he will not be bothered with blowouts on the road and delay traffic. The machine is to be run here from Green Bay and will be equipped with a cover and side curtains. Mr. Fishbeck intends to run it the year round and the service to get in and out of this city with much more ease.

Edw. Levin of Levin & Stout, Babcock, has bought out the interests of Mr. Stout in the mercantile business they have been conducting at that place for the past four months and bought originally of David Levin. Mr. Levin will conduct the business alone hereafter in his own name.

THE GOOD JUDGE AND THE BRICK LAYER

NOBODY sees that little chew of "Right-Cut" tucked away there in your cheek—

And all the time it is doing you more good than a big wad of the old kind.

It's the Real Tobacco Chew. Pure, rich, sappy, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough. A ready chew, too. Short-shred, cut fine—so you don't have to grind it.

Just let it rest easy-like. Let the flavor come.

(Compiled by A. F. Leopold.)

It is with no little pride that the publishers of the Tribune are able to present to the local public and the world at large an edition of this paper which has been made to speak so
well for Grand Rapids and her many
and varied interests. Even a casual perusal of this paper will convince
the most skeptical stranger that our city is one of much more than passing note.

With our 7,000 population and
with our rapidly growing commercial trade, our productive agricultural section, our splendid transportation facilities, and our wide-awake and enterprising business men, Grand Rapids is destined within the next few years to rank higher than many cities in this state in many matters
of general public importance.

The object of this edition is to present to those who may be interested in a brief resume of the growth
and prosperity of Grand Rapids, and
of the conditions which enter into
that prosperity, and setting forth its advantages as a city of residences.

In connection with this is also presented brief reviews of some of the most progressive business firms and
the men who furnish the brains, push
energy and public spirit which enters
so largely into the prosperity and growth of Grand Rapids. A city is measured very largely by the character, ability and enterprise of the men and firms which constitute its business interests, and in this respect
Grand Rapids is peculiarly fortunate.
Nowhere can be found a more liberal, cultivated and intelligent group of men than is found connected with the commercial and professional interests of Grand Rapids. They are conservative, yet enterprising, and every proposition having merit will meet with careful consideration, and,
if found worthy, with liberal and heartily assurance.

Grand Rapids has never been compelled to withstand the throes of a professional boom; it has slowly yet
surely and steadily been building
from year to year, and is today a healthy city from every point of view,
commercially, socially and physically.
It has schools that are the equal
of any in cities of its class; its churches include almost every denomination; its homes are substantial and in keeping with a prosperous people; its banks are sound to
the core and possessed of ample capital to do double the business required of them; its streets are for the most part broad and shaded, with many miles of fine pavements; its mercantile establishments represent
every line of trade and are prepared to properly cater to the wants of people of all classes.

GRAND RAPIDS.

Grand Rapids is in the heart of
one of the largest cranberry regions
in the world and many other products of the soil of Wood county are comparing most favorably with the rich crops of the southern border of the state.

The city has four railroads with twenty-four trains daily, and an interurban street car line runs between Grand Rapids and Nekoma.

With an up-to-date system of electric lights and waterworks, as well
as an efficient telephone company, the
people may have all the modern improvements in their houses, and at moderate rates.

Five blocks in the down town district are paved, and there are about

100 acres devoted to parks.

The educational advantages of the city are excellent, there being one
high school, four grade schools, a fine manual training school, six parochial schools, one business college, and a county training school. A well equipped public library benefits hundreds of readers.

In the amusement line Grand Rapids has one opera house, two smaller theatres, a good ball park, and a amusement hall, besides a large artificial swimming pool and plenty of beautiful spots along the river
for out-of-door enjoyment. No better boating, fishing, and scenery can be found than right along the old
Wisconsin river.

In taking a bird's-eye view of the business and industry of Grand Rapids we find four banks, three newspaper establishments, two dailies and
three weeklies, two box factories,
one sawmill, one large flour mill,
one hub and spoke factory, one wagon factory, one iron foundry, several machine shops, three garages, one
cement block factory, brick yards, turnout factory, one steam laundry, one plant engaged in the manufacture of heating systems, one large packing plant, one brewery, and two lumber yards. Grand Rapids is the home of the Consolidated Water Power and Paper Company, one of
the largest and best equipped paper
mills in the country. The company owns another large mill at Biron,
four miles up the river.

The city has a good police force,
and two excellent fire departments.
The postal accommodations are as good as can be found anywhere,
there being a fine new postoffice
building and mail delivery twice a day in the business section and twice
a day in the residence section. The population according to the census
of 1910 was 6,521, or a gain of 45
per cent since 1900.

The past few years have been years
of progress and improvement in every line. Those who left the city five years ago come back and marvel at
the changes during so short a time.
Settlers who were once skeptical are
now only too willing to cast their lot
in Wood county, and the great majority of land success.

The Tribune will not enter into the historical concerning Grand Rapids; the present and the future are what most vitally concern us. This edition of this paper tells a story of
far more interest than a hundred pages of past events. To tell of the Grand Rapids of today, to boost the
Grand Rapids of NOW is what counts.
This is a Booster Edition; its intent is to instill a spirit of confidence in its readers that Grand Rapids is really a good town in which to live
and do business, in which to invite the newcomer to invest, because its growth is safe and certain. Did you ever stop to realize that the main factor in the rebuilding of a community is the outspoken confidence
of its people? The great cities of Chicago, Kansas City, Denver, Memphis, Atlanta, Portland, Spokane, Seattle, Los Angeles and others of their class are splendid examples of what persistent and consistent boosting accomplish for an American city.
Each of these cities is daily growing
in population and increasing its business with the outside world. None of them with the exception of Chicago
and Seattle, is better located than
this little city of ours, and time was not many years ago when none of them was of more consequence than Grand Rapids. But a determination to get there, to become greater than other towns by attracting people to them, to instill confidence and belief
in themselves have made these cities
in the course of a few years great nests of trades and the homes of an ever-increasing population and consequent prosperity. The life of the knicker in those community is brief, as is a person's non grata. The only citizen in those towns who is welcome
is the booster, which in plain language means the man who says "I can
and will," the fellow who can grin gamely in the face of adversity and cause weaker men to knuckle down pluckily meet conditions which would
and go under.

Commence with today, let us ALL
become boosters for Grand Rapids.
Let us praise our city at every opportunity and strive with redoubled effort for a bigger and better Grand Rapids. Let us not feel ashamed to say we live in Grand Rapids, Wis.,
a town that is as good as any on earth.
Let us get up and do things; do

Consolidated Water Power and Paper Co's. Mill.

IN ALL Natural Causes Grand Rapids Stands Without a Peer in the Race of Supremacy---Excellent Surroundings, a Fine Climate, a City of Homes, a Splendid Municipal Government, Steam and Electric Railroads Afford Splendid Transportation Facilities, Telephones; Electric Lights, Solid Banks, a Splendid Manufacturing, Wholesale and Retail Business, a City of Churches, Schools Library, Lodges, Etc.

things along the line of this issue of the Tribune. If every business man
in Grand Rapids would put forth some effort out of the ordinary in his line during the present year
he would have created more business
for himself, more business for Grand Rapids in general, more cause for praising and boosting his town. No matter in what line of trade you are engaged, something extraordinary to (do with) in the near future, something that will attract attention to you
and your business; it will not only
pay you, it will benefit and boost
the city. Because you cannot get out a big newspaper is no reason you cannot get up a sale big enough to bring several hundred people to town.
Whatever you do don't do nothing;
do something. Become a booster in your own way somehow--it'll pay
you.

There are hundreds of evidences
that the city is really rapidly improving and that a loyal spirit for Grand Rapids uplift prevails among all classes of her citizens. But we must not remain satisfied with what we have accomplished. There is room
for much more improvement.

Our city is made up of an intelligent, God-fearing, enterprising people. Her institutions, both public and private, are up-to-date in every respect. In fact Grand Rapids stands well abreast of her sister cities in Wisconsin.

THE CRANBERRY INDUSTRY.

One of the industries that brings
in quite a bit of revenue to Grand Rapids and vicinity each year is the raising of cranberries. There is a large tract of land lying southwest
of the city that is peculiarly adapted to this branch of horticulture, and
the men who are engaged in it are probably as well informed in their respective business as it is possible
to find a bunch of men.

In the good old days cranberries
grew wild on these great marshes
and such a thing as putting any science into the raising of the crop
was never thought of. Nature produced the fruit and when autumn

season came man moved to the premises and proceeded to gather the harvest. Cranberry picking time was a picnic for a large number who so shaped their work that they could be on hand to take part in the annual event. Whole families moved to the marshes and the work of picking
went on during the day, and at night
there was a scene of revelry. The men gambled and fought, the young people danced, and it was one continuous round of pleasure while it lasted.

But the crop in those days was a very uncertain thing, and many a year there was great damage done
by frosts, and the result was that some seasons there was not enough
of a crop to pay to pick it.

Then science stepped in and the matter of cultivating the marshes
was taken up and the result has been that now as many berries are grown on a single acre as were in those days produced on ten or more,
and the crop is also much more certain. Conditions have to be extremely unfavorable now when there is not some kind of a crop, and for a number of years past there have been very few failures.

Science has also entered into the matter of packing and shipping the berries, so that nowadays they reach
the consumer in just as nice condition
as they leave the marsh where they grow. The growers have an organization by means of which the berries are distributed all over the country
in an intelligent manner, so that one section is not glutted and another entirely without the fruit, as used to be the case years ago. This has resulted in growers getting better prices
for the berries, as new territory is constantly being opened up, and the berries being packed in an intelligent manner, they invariably reach their destination in prime condition.

It was formerly considered that cranberries would only keep a few months at most, but now under improved condition it is possible to keep them a year without any trouble
and they come out in such fine shape
that it is hard to realize that so much time has elapsed since they were gathered from the vines.

When the cultivation of cranberries first started it was considered a very precarious proposition, but these days it has been placed on a more solid footing, and the growers now

come to town in their automobiles
and the business is as reliable as
any branch of farming.

MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES.

There are in Grand Rapids many splendid sites for manufacturers with ample room for development and
with advantageous track facilities.
No manufacturing institution could make an error in locating in this beautiful and healthy city. To those looking for a location to establish any form of manufacture Grand Rapids
offers the following advantages:

Low Freight Rates.
Competing Lines of Railways.
Nearness to Raw Material Supply.
Abundant Labor Market.
Unexcelled Water Transportation.
Nearness to Great Markets.
Ideal Climate Conditions.
Low Rates.
Delightful Residence Conditions.
Great Water Power.

THE FOLLOWING MANUFACTUR-ING INDUSTRIES ARE LO-CATED HERE:

GRAND RAPIDS.

It is near the center of state.
It is made up of the better class of best citizenship.
It is free from strikes and labor disturbances.
It has an abundance of cheap electrical power.
It has perfect transportation facilities, at low freight rates.
It has four sound banks.
It has a highly efficient fire department.

A WORD ABOUT OUR BIG INDUSTRY.

To some people there is nothing
very attractive about a factory or manufacturing plant, but then there is another class of people who appreciate the great industries of a community and who realize that it is
to them that a community owes its prosperity and progressiveness.

The big industry at Grand Rapids
is that of making paper, and few people who are not right on the ground where they can watch the ceaseless grind of the wheels that turn day and night the year round
realize what a great industry it is.
The mere statement that a mill produces seventy tons of print paper a day, conveys no hint of the miles
and miles of paper that are manufactured each day to make up this number of tons.

But it was not for the purpose of telling about the fine points of paper making that this is being written. That is a matter that has been touched upon so often that most people pass it over with hardly a thought.
The general public does not care particularly whether it takes an acre

WHAT THE CITY OFFERS

Inducements to Factories and Other Enterprises to Locate Here

Substantial inducements and encouragement will be extended to those looking for advantageous locations for manufacturing and commercial purposes. Those are offered to help Grand Rapids grow. The Tribune has done its part in these enterprises and it now undertakes a Booster Edition that the people of the country
may learn what Grand Rapids has to offer, what kind of a place it is that offers it, who the men are that stand behind the enterprise.
What kind of a city Grand Rapids is for the residence of the people who might look with favor upon it. An improved municipality, an extensive system of municipal advantages; schools, churches, and stores—all are helped by the incoming population. Thousands of copies of this edition of the Tribune will go all over the country to show that Grand Rapids means business in its efforts for increased population. Grand Rapids invites you to become a resident of the finest city in Wisconsin, where every prospect is for continued
growth; where every advantage is extended.

A PRETTY CITY AND A PROSPEROUS
ONE, NOT A BOOM TOWN.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OF GRAND RAPIDS

(By C. W. Schwede, Superintendent of Schools.)

The public school buildings include
the Howe School with nine rooms and
seven grades, in the Second Ward;
the Lowell School with seven rooms
and seven grades, in the Seventh Ward; the Emerson School with five
rooms and five grades including the Kindergarten, in the Sixth Ward;
the Irving School with four rooms and
five grades including the Kindergarten, in the First Ward; the Garrison School, a one room school building with four grades, in the Eighth Ward; the Lincoln High School and
the Witter Manual Training Building
in the Fourth Ward. The Eighth Grade is housed in the High School Building together with the regular
high school pupils. A First Grade Room and a Kindergarten are also maintained in the high school building.

The Grand Rapids High School was organized in 1872 with Mr. J. A. Gaynor as principal. In April 1877 the high school was established as a free
high school under the laws of 1875,
and organized under the name of the
"Howe High School." On February 2, 1884, the Board resolved to have the Howe High School placed on the accredited list of the University. In 1900, the City of Grand Rapids and Centralia were united, but separate high schools were maintained in both Centralia and Grand Rapids until the completion of the Lincoln High School in 1902. The Centralia High School had been organized in 1890 with Mr. G. W. Paulus as Principal.

The Witter Manual Training Building was erected in consequence of the J. D. Witter bequest of $50,000.
The high school courses of study
include four years courses in Manual Training, Domestic Science, and Commercial work as well as the usual
and English courses.

The Manual Training, Domestic Science, Music and Art are taught in the Witter Building.

The Manual Training Course includes Wood Work, Turning, Pattern
Making, Foundry Work, Forging, Machine Shop Practice, and Mechanical Drawing.

The Domestic Science Course includes Sewing, Cooking, Household
Sanitation, Designing, Home Decoration, Art, Bacteriology, and Home Nursing.

The Commercial Course includes Stenography, Typewriting, Commercial Arithmetic, English, and Bookkeeping.

The enrollment in the high school
for the present year is 308. In 1912-1913, it was 289. The number of graduates this year is 46, of which twenty-three are boys and twenty-three are girls. This is the largest graduating class in the history of the schools. The total number of graduates of the Grand Rapids, Wisconsin, High School is now 530.

The teaching force of the city numbers forty-nine, of which nineteen
put in either part or all of their time
in the high school.

A new ward school building to cost about $20,000, will be built this summer on the corner of 17th and Grand Avenues in the Seventh Ward. Plans are already being considered.

An Industrial and Continuation school will be conducted in conjunction with the Manual Training School
the coming year.

For cities of this population, Grand Rapids ranks second to none in the support of its public school system.

Inducements for Manufacturers.

Grand Rapids offers exceptional
facilities for manufacturers of all kinds. There are four railroads to serve the public, insuring a service
that cannot be secured in any other city in the state. Cheap electric power is another inducement for the small manufacturer, while factory sites can be secured as cheaply as in any city in the country.

The city has a Commercial Club
that is always willing to correspond with those who have any sort of a proposition to offer, and any kind of information can be secured from this organization.

Grand Rapids has progressive merchants and thoroughly up-to-date
stores.

LOST OCEAN LINER EMPRESS OF IRELAND

969 PERISH IN SEA DISASTER

Great Liner Goes to Bottom at Mouth of St. Lawrence River Following a Collision With a Collier.

Rimouski, Que., May 31.—Nine hundred and sixty-nine persons lost their lives Friday morning when the great Canadian Pacific twin screw liner Empress of Ireland was rammed amidships in a thick fog off Father Point in the St. Lawrence and sunk by the Norwegian collier Storstad.

Four hundred and eighteen survivors were picked up from floating wreckage and two lifeboats. And only 12 of the saved are women. Gathered piecemeal from survivors the horror of this wreck grows with the telling.

Waters Quickly Engulf Ship.
The doomed ones had little time even to pray. They were engulfed by the onrushing waters that swallowed the big ship inside of nineteen minutes from the time she was struck.

The wireless operators on the Empress, sticking to their posts to the last, had time only to send a few "S. O. S." calls for help when the rising waters silenced their instruments. Many more potent than a bugle that doom had overtaken the ship.

Only six hours before this fateful collision the passengers sang as a good-night hymn "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," played by the Salvation Army band on board.

The members of that band and most of the 165 Salvationists were among the lost.

Survivors Tell of Fog.
It was foggy, according to survivors, when the Empress of Ireland, a steel-hulled, steel-bulkheaded ship of more than eight thousand tons, left Montreal at 4:30 Thursday afternoon in command of H. G. Kendall of the Royal Naval Reserve, one of the most skilled of transatlantic navigators.

Forest fires also obscured the atmosphere and the big ship, in charge of a pilot, proceeded slowly on a course that at midnight the fog had left near Father Point, shouting a merry "Don't Vary" as he went down the ladder to his waiting boat.

The darkness at this time was intense and the ship under the slowest speed possible with steerage-way held her course. Her decks were deserted. The passengers had all sought their berths with no thought of impending death.

Out of the darkness, on the port side, soon after 2:30 in the morning there loomed the little Norwegian collier, not half the size of the Empress, but fated to be her destroyer.

Not until the collier was almost abreast of the big liner was the danger known on either ship. The fog had blotted out the lights as well as the port and starboard lights of both ships. Quick orders trumpeted on both vessels were heard. But they came all too late.

Strikes Ship Amidships.
The steel-pointed prow of the Storstad struck the liner amidships and then forged aft, ripping and tearing its way through the Empress of Ireland.

Clear to the stern of the Empress of Ireland was the great steel shavings out from her side, from the top of the hull far below the water line. Into the water poured the force of a Niagara. The bow of the Storstad smashed its way through berths on that side of the ship, killing passengers sleeping in their berths and grinding bodies to pieces.

Reaching the stern of the big liner, the Storstad staggered off in the darkness, her bow crumpled by the impact. Her commander was ready a few minutes later, when he found his ship would float, to aid the crippled and sinking Empress, but he was too late to save the majority of those on board.

Carried to Bottom.
The Empress of Ireland recoiled almost on her starboard beam ends from the blow of the collier and passengers were flung from their berths against the walls of their staterooms.

Many were stunned and before they had time to recover were carried to the bottom with the ship. The vast torrents pouring into the great gash on the port side, aft, filled the corridors and flooded every stateroom about the midship section inside of four minutes.

There was never a chance for the helpless ones in the after cabins and staterooms of the liner. With her port side laid open for half its length from the midship section to the stern, a slave had more chance to float than the Empress of Ireland, and the few passengers in that after section trapped passengers in the moment the Storstad struck.

Reeling from the blow the ship began to settle almost immediately as the water rushed into the big rent. From the forward cabins, however, men and women in night attire stumbled along the corridors and up the companion way to the promenade deck—the deck below, the one on which the boats rested.

Swarm to Deck.
Up they swarmed on deck in their night clothing to find the ship sinking away to port and the deck clanking, as a German that made it almost impossible to stand even clinging to railings.

Men and women, shrieking, praying, crying for aid that was fated to arrive too late, fell over one another in that last struggle for life on board the doomed Empress of Ireland.

Frenzied mothers leaped overboard with their babies in their arms. Others knelt on deck and tried to pray in the few moments left to them. Some were flung overboard by the heeling of the sinking ship and some broke their legs or arms in trying to reach the lifeboats.

Above the din of the struggle on the great promenade deck could be heard the Captain Kendall, shouting commands for the launching of the lifeboats. Several were launched in the 19 minutes that the ship floated.

There was no time to observe the rule "Women first" in this disaster, for those nearest the boats scrambled to places in them.

But even as they were being launched, while the wireless still was calling "S. O. S." there came a terrific explosion that almost rent the ship in twain.

It was the explosion of the boilers struck by the cold water. A geyser of water shot upward from the midship section, mingled with fragments of wreckage, that showered down upon the passengers still clinging to the rails forward and upon those struggling in the water.

The explosion destroyed the last hope of the ship's floating until succor could arrive, for the shock had smashed the forward steel bulkhead walls that had up to then shut out the torrents invading the after part. The water rushed forward and the Empress of Ireland, went swiftly to her doom.

Carrying down with her hundreds of passengers who stood on her slanting deck their arms stretched upward and their last cries choked in the engulfing waters.

One of the survivors, relating that last tragic scene on the decks of the liner, said:

"I was asleep, like most of the passengers when the collision came. There was a sickening crunching of wood and steel, and then a grinding, ripping sound as the Storstad smashed her way along the port side of our ship."

"I knew that we had been struck and I rushed to the staterooms of some friends and shouted to them to get up, as the ship was sinking. Stateroom doors flew open all along the corridor and men and women began to rush for the grand companion forward. The last I must have been drowned in their berths."

Darkness Is Intense.
"On deck officers of the ship, partially dressed, were rushing about, urging passengers to be calm. Sailors under orders were trying to launch the lifeboats."

"The darkness was intense and a few minutes after I reached the deck the electric lights went out. At that time there were still hundreds of passengers below trying to grope their way through the darkened corridors to the companionway and reach the deck. Most of them went down with the ship, for the explosion of the boilers right after the explosion of the water before the ship went down and managed to find a bit of wreckage to which I clung."

The gray dawn revealed the government steamers Lady Evelyn and Eureka near the scene of the disaster and hastening to aid.

Some of those in the water tried to swim to the Empress as she neared the point where the Empress had gone down. One woman, wearing only an undervest, swam to the Lady Evelyn, and was helped on board, but died of exhaustion soon afterwards.

The work of rescue still was going on when the sun arose in a cloudless sky.

Men and women were clinging to spars and bits of broken planks. Many had broken legs, others fractured arms and still others had been injured internally in that last mad rush to get away from the sinking liner.

Women clinging with one hand to little ones, while with the other they tried to keep clutch to pieces of wreckage, were picked up by the lifeboats and carried on board the rescuing vessels.

Captain Kendall, dazed and unable to give any coherent account of the loss of his ship, was found clinging to a broken spar.

J. W. Langley, rancher, of Canford, B. C., went down with the ship, but held on to the St. Lawrence and, as the Empress of Ireland came to the surface, found a piece of wreckage and clung to it until picked up.

One of the survivors, in explaining the quickness with which the Empress of Ireland went down, said:

"I then looked over the side of my ship into the water and I saw my ship was stopped. I stopped my engines and blew two long blasts, meaning 'My ship was underway but stopped and has no way upon her.' He answered me again with one long blast, and the sound was like about four points upon by starboard bow."

Lights Appear From Gloom.
"It was still foggy. About two minutes after I saw his red and green lights. He would then be about one ship's length away from me. I shouted to him through the megaphone to go full speed astern, as I saw that the collision was inevitable; at the same time I put my engine full speed ahead with my helm hard aport, with the object of avoiding, if possible, the shock. At most at the same time he came right fast and the Empress went in a line between the funnels."

"I shouted to the Storstad to 'Keep full speed ahead to fill the hole he had made. He then backed away. The ship began to fill and listed over rapidly. When the Storstad struck the Empress I had stopped my engines."

"What was the cause of the collision?" asked the reporter.

"The Storstad, running into the Empress of Ireland, which was stopped," said Captain Kendall.

Capt. Kendall, in answer to a question by a juror, said that when he shouted to the Storstad's captain to stand fast he received no answer. It was impossible for him not to have been heard, he added.

"I shouted five times. I also shouted 'Keep ahead,' said Capt. Kendall, "and I did not hear that he should have done it, as a seaman should have known that."

"There was wind?"

"It was quite still. When he backed away I shouted to him to stand by. I did not hear any explosion, but when a ship goes down like that, there is bound to be a great deal of air, and the air pressure causes that."

Not His Fault, Says Andersen.
Montreal, Que., June 1.—With its bows crumpled and twisted around at an acute angle to port, and with a foot or so above the water line, the Norwegian collier Storstad, which rammed the liner Empress of Ireland, limped into the harbor.

A few minutes later a warrant of arrest, taken out by the Canadian Pacific railway, was mailed to its mainmast by register of the Quebec admiralty.

Subsequently a statement based on Capt. Andersen's report, as well as the reports of other officers, was given out.

According to the captain and officers, contrary to what has been stated by the Storstad, the Empress of Ireland, the collier, did not back away from the collision. On the contrary, it steamed ahead in an effort to keep its bows in the hole it had dug into the side of the Empress.

The Empress, however, according to the Storstad's officers, headed away and bent the Storstad's bow over at an acute angle to port. After that the Empress was hidden from the Storstad, and despite the fact that the Storstad kept its whistle blowing, it could not locate the Empress until the cries of some of the victims in the water were heard.

Capt. Andersen denied that he moved a mile or so away from the Empress after his vessel struck the liner. The Storstad had not moved, he said. It was the Empress which had changed position.

According to the report, made by Capt. Andersen to the owners, immediately the collision occurred, he heard Capt. Kendall shout, calling on him not to pull away.

"I won't," shouted the Storstad's captain, as loud as he could. After that the Empress disappeared from the Storstad's view.

Lexington was caught in a hurricane unprepared. All were saved by the "S. O. S." message. The ship was saved.

Then came the Kentucky in 1910. In the same year 19 were saved in the Koening Luise. Death was cheated in the instance of the burning freighter, Templemore, when all on board, 544, were saved.

Following close on this record, the ocean with not another smokestack in sight, flames burst out. The wireless operator, unimpaired of his danger, kept clicking and clicking, and just as the boat was going down, help arrived and the 128 passengers aboard were saved.

Nothing can give a visitor a more favorable impression of the city than to enter our model retail establishments, whose stocks are both comprehensive and up-to-date. Here are brief sketches of the most popular retail establishments in our city.

THE RECALL STORE.

When we are well we don't give thought to much of anything except business and pleasure, but when we are sick we need a hurry call for our doctor—the druggist is usually of secondary consideration. This is all wrong, for the druggist is of equal importance to the doctor by reason of the fact that if the latter's instructions are not followed to the very letter in filling the prescription, and with fresh and pure ingredients at that, the patient must suffer the consequences, which are often dangerous, sometimes fatal. Why not then KNOW your druggist before-hand?

You have the decision well fixed in your mind which doctor in case you need one, why not, therefore, investigate the reliability of some druggist to whom you can send your prescription with a feeling of absolute safety? Find out about him, pin your faith to him and his stock and his reputation for correctly filling prescriptions and thus doubly assure yourself of the best possible results in time of sickness.

In this connection, if you tie to the old reliable Recall Store, of which Mr. A. C. Otto, is proprietor, you can at all times feel positively certain of the correct compounding of the purest drugs obtainable anywhere. This drug store, its stock of goods and its methods in prescription work are commended by every doctor in the community, because the doctors know they are safe in doing so.

Prescriptions are a specialty here and always will be, but that does not mean it is not a complete drug store in every other respect, for Mr. Otto carries full lines of everything known to the trade, including a full and complete line of first-class toilet articles, stationery, souvenir postal cards, confectionery, cigars, garden seeds, etc. He also operates a Twentieth-Century Iceless Soda Fountain. He also has an ice cream parlor in connection where he serves ice cream, and cold refreshing drinks.

This is without doubt one of the handsomest, as well as the most up-to-date drug stores in this section of the state, and would do credit to a city much larger than ours.

Pin your faith in Otto's Recall Drug Store, which has stood the test for the past twelve years, and you will make no mistake.

KRUGER AND WARNER COMPANY

F. W. Kruger, F. C. Turbin and F. B. Warner head this corporation, and they have an up-to-date clothing and furnishing store in every sense of the word.

Their establishment, at Vine and Second Streets, is liberally patronized by our citizens who insist upon the best of everything.

Everything in clothing—they are agents for the Kuppenheimer clothing—and the highest grade furnishings are on sale there, and they are agents for the celebrated Stetson hats. They sell high grade shoes.

All their clothing is kept in cabinets, so as to keep them away from the dust, and the establishment is fitted up in an attractive manner throughout. They also carry a full line of valises and other traveling goods.

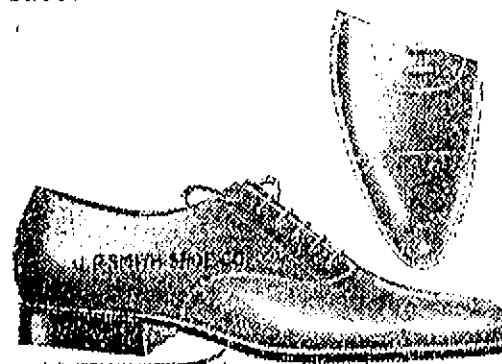

Mr. Kruger is president of the company, Mr. F. C. Turbin is Vice-President and Mr. Warner is secretary and treasurer. They are business men of progressive ideas and know how to put them into effect. Their store shows it.

They have been established twenty years and all are favorably known and considered as our most popular citizens as well as up-to-date live business men.

I. ZIMMERMAN.

At First and Grand Avenues you will find the store of Mr. Zimmerman, "The West Side Shoe Man," as he is known.

He has been fitting the people of our city ever since 1892. He is agent for J. P. Smith's and Dr. Reed's Cushion shoes for men and The Treadless and Woman's Health shoes for women.

A full line of men's, women's and children's shoes is handled. A specialty is made of Pat Cogan & Sons shoes for youths, boys, misses and children.

This is a first class shoe store and is patronized liberally by the people of our city. High grade repair work is also done.

Mr. Zimmerman has always done his best to give to the purchasing public a shoe store worthy of their trade and that he has succeeded is shown by the large custom he enjoys.

He is a business man of the right kind and is generally liked.

MRS. F. P. DALY.

A modern house without a piano is almost unheard of. Time was when families, no member of which could play an instrument, felt that a piano in the house was useless, but the invention and perfection of the player-piano has made it possible for music to be a part of every one's home life, even though there is no musician in the household.

Mrs. Daly is a dealer in pianos and organs, the business was originally established twenty-six years ago by her husband, who successfully conducted it till ten years ago, when he died. She then took up the reins and has been carrying on the business ever since, her trade increasing year by year.

Mrs. Daly handles the celebrated Cable, Kingsbury, Conover and Wellington pianos and Chicago Cottage organs, having sold hundreds of them all throughout the state and adjoining counties. It was only recently that she averaged the sale of one piano a day. She carries the largest and most complete line shown in Wood County, patrons having over 20 styles to select from, each and every instrument being guaranteed. She sells for cash, or on easy payment plan.

Those who buy their piano through Mrs. Daly may be sure they are getting the best at the most attractive prices. Her residence and warehouse are located at 903 Eight Ave. S.

Mrs. Daly possesses remarkably shrewd business judgment and is one of the community's most highly respected women. She conducts her business along modern lines and enjoys a large trade—and which she justly deserves.

J. A. STAUB.

Mr. Staub is proprietor of the Electric Shop, located at 127 First Street North. He is in the electrical contracting business and is a capable electrical engineer.

Of all modern things electricity is the most mysterious and, at the same time, dangerous. The greatest care must be exercised in doing electrical work, and for that reason a reliable electrician should do it.

Messrs. Link and Werle are practical butchers and wait on the trade themselves. They smoke their meats and make their own sausages. These are of the very best grades. They also carry a line of first class canned goods.

This market is patronized by a large number of the most discriminating families in Grand Rapids and deserves this select trade, for everything is done to make it high class. The strictest sanitary precautions are followed.

Messrs. Link and Werle are well-known citizens, of the better kinds. They have been established ten years and in that time have made many friends among the people of our city. We herewith present an elegant picture of the interior of their sanitary market.

Mr. Staub has been established six years and has gained a reputation for efficiency in his field. He having the only exclusive electric shop in city, he does wiring and repairing and carries a full line of supplies, as well.

In his shop is a large assortment of high grade fixtures, from small brackets to expensive chandeliers. He also carries a line of auto supplies. One of his specialties is electrical cooking utensils.

By giving the public reliable goods and doing first class work Mr. Staub has gained the confidence of the public, and through his commendable methods he has made himself popular and gained the respect of the community.

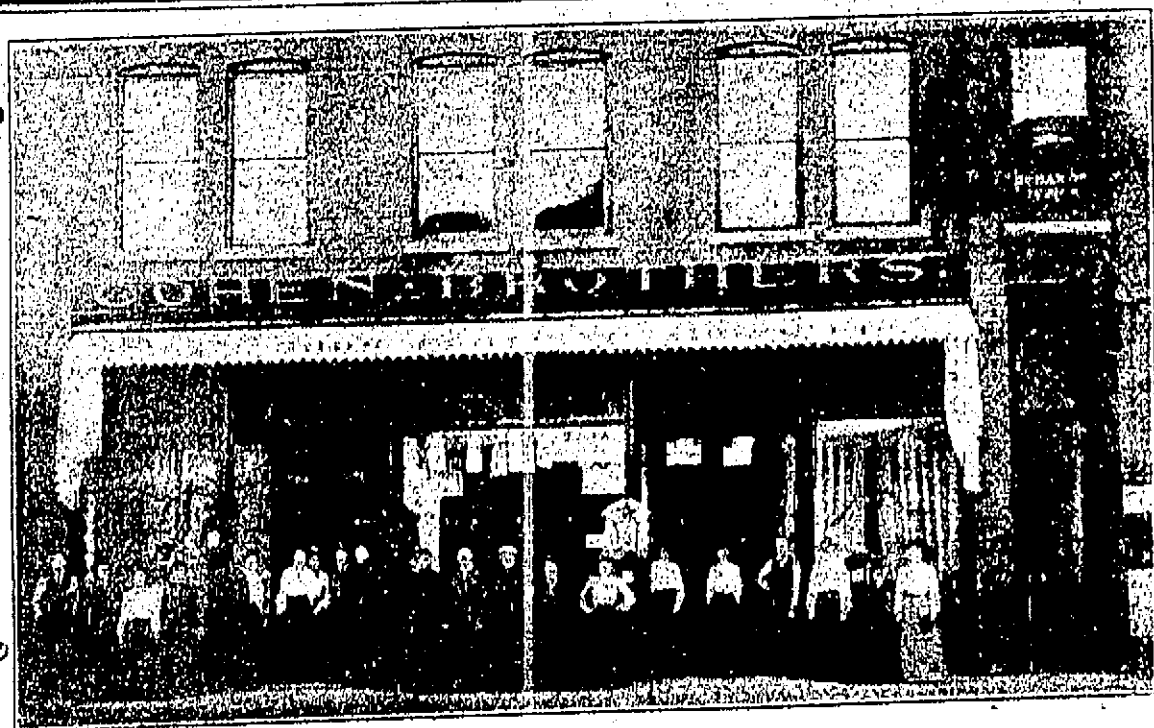

JOE WHEELER, JR.

Home made candies and ice cream, when they are good, will tempt almost anyone, and that is why Joe Wheeler, Jr., is so well patronized. His place at Third and Grand Avenues is the favorite with a large portion of our folks for the reason that everything they buy there is clean and made and handled under most sanitary conditions.

He makes most of his own candies and all of his ice cream. Of the latter he has a capacity of two hundred gallons per day. He does a large local business in the cream and is a wholesaler and retailer.

He also ships to other points. He has an ice cream parlor where thousands go during the summer and partake of a dish of his delicious ice cream. High grade cigars are sold, as well as a large line of souvenir post cards.

Mr. Wheeler is known to many of our citizens and is counted among the hustling business men of Grand Rapids. He has the faculty of making himself agreeable to his patrons, and that is why they all like him.

Cohen Brothers Department Store.

COHEN BROTHERS DEPARTMENT STORE.

In no feature of progress does Grand Rapids so nearly approach a truly metropolitan aspect as in the excellence of the establishment of the Cohen Bros. Department Store, and here are brief sketches of the most popular retail establishments in our city.

The store occupies two floors. On the first are dry goods, millinery, clothing and gents' furnishings. On the second are groceries, crockery, tinware, small hardware, etc. Each department is complete in itself. Fifteen salespeople are employed.

This business has been established twenty years, and is one of our representative department stores. It is conveniently arranged for customers to inspect goods, and everything that is new in the way of merchandise is to be found here, and all sold at the closest margin of profit.

J. A. Max and Nate Cohen comprise the firm and all are well-known in Grand Rapids. In fact they are among the really popular merchants of our city.

By honorable dealings, enterprising methods, courteous treatment and giving full values, a business has been built up of very large proportions, and the patronage of the house is not only local, but is drawn from considerable surrounding territory.

Hon. J. A. Cohen (our mayor) was recently re-elected mayor of our city, to succeed himself, he is one of the most popular and public spirited men in our city, and never loses an opportunity to "boost" our city when occasion offers itself.

JACKMAN & TOMSKYK

This firm, which is composed of Joe Jackman and Nick Tomskyk, was established two and a half years ago. They handle a general line of groceries, flour and feed, and of all descriptions of provisions, and do a big trade in fruits and vegetables.

They also deal in garden seeds. Their store at 688 Grand Avenue is well patronized, for they always have a large stock from which to select and all perishable goods are fresh daily.

You can also get all the good confectionery you want as well as a good cigar here, too. The members of this firm have made themselves popular in our city by conducting an establishment where customers can be satisfied.

Both members of the firm are liked by those who deal with them, they are honorable and reliable in all their dealings.

Patronize Tribune Advertisers.

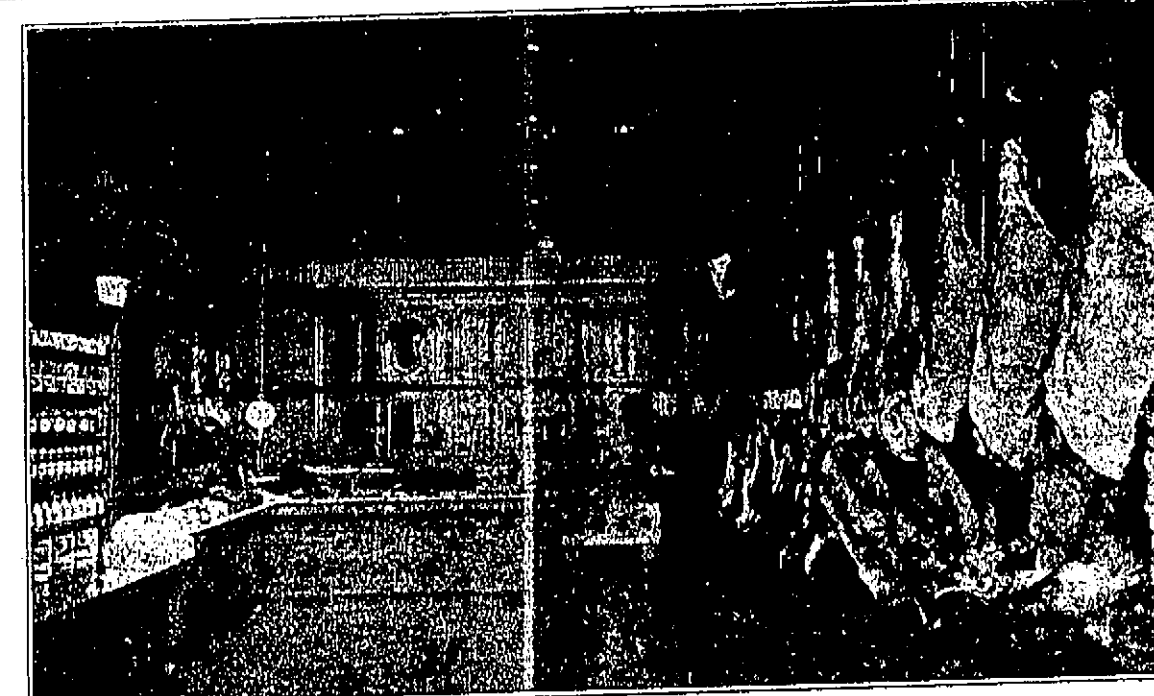

GOTTSCALK & ANDERSON.

This city is served by a number of grocery stores, and none try harder to please their patrons than this one. A. F. Gottschalk and Nate Anderson started together five years ago and have built up their enterprise until they have a large patronage to-day. They handle all kinds of fancy and staple groceries, flour and feed. Their place on Grand Avenue is known to hundreds who buy for the home.

They carry a large stock of fine fruits and vegetables, receiving consignments of the latter fresh every day. This store is well-appointed, well-stocked and is conducted on a good business basis.

They cater to some of the best class of trade in the city and by their honest and enterprising have succeeded in a most admirable manner. They are thoroughly deserving of their increasing patronage.

Interior View Link & Werle Meat Market.

LINK & WERLE.

This is the oldest meat market in the city. Located at 106 First Street North, it is one of the most attractively arranged markets in Grand Rapids.

The interior of market is finished in white, while everything in the way of fixtures is neat and the most expensive kind. In fact money has not been taken into consideration in fitting up this establishment, with the result that the interior is very inviting.

Messrs. Link and Werle are practical butchers and wait on the trade themselves. They smoke their meats and make their own sausages. These are of the very best grades. They also carry a line of first class canned goods.

This market is patronized by a large number of the most discriminating families in Grand Rapids and deserves this select trade, for everything is done to make it high class. The strictest sanitary precautions are followed.

Messrs. Link and Werle are well-known citizens, of the better kinds. They have been established ten years and in that time have made many friends among the people of our city. We herewith present an elegant picture of the interior of their sanitary market.

KAUDY'S STUDIO.

In recent years the progress made in photography has been very rapid, completely revolutionizing the old methods and demanding for successful results ability of a pronounced order. At one time photography was purely mechanical. To-day it is quite different, those succeeding requiring a thorough knowledge of chemistry, an artistic eye, and a natural appreciation for neatness, grace and ornamentation.

Kaudy's studio, of which Mrs. Matt Kaudy is the proprietor, has been established here for the past three years. The operating rooms are splendidly equipped with all the newest appliances known necessary in conducting scenic effects that are modern and original. She is an expert in the art of posing, being equally proficient in single settings or in groups.

Mrs. Kaudy's work in both portrait and landscape photography is accurate in clear or cloudy weather and always conspicuous for the ideal finish. In fact she does any and everything in the way of photography, she being considered one of our best photographers in city.

Should you desire a likeness of yourself to send to a friend or relative that will be true to life in every respect, call at Kaudy's studio and receive the attention of an up-to-date artist.

BROCKMAN & AKEY.

This lunch room is conducted by two energetic caterers to the palate, Mrs. J. T. Brockman and Mrs. C. Akey and are located at 705 Grand Avenue.

They have been in business three years, and their place is well patronized by those who like to eat a good meal, the price of regular meals being 25 cents.

Meals are served at all hours. Mrs. Akey is an expert cook of twenty-six years' experience and has charge of the kitchen, while Mrs. Brockman has charge of the dining room.

Mrs. Brockman also looks after the store part of the business, for they handle confectionery, cigars, souvenir post cards and a small line of canned goods and fruits.

They operate a soda fountain, too, so that it will be seen that you can refresh yourself in several different ways by going there. Everything is clean and the place is nice and neat.

The proprietors are popular with their patrons, and the latter do not forget to give due credit to the lady members of the combination for their part.

NORMINGTON BROTHERS.

This laundry of which C. A. J. E. P. N., and J. J. Normington are the proprietors, has been established here for the past six years. They do a very extensive business, catering to the highest class of work, and ever maintaining the most conspicuous standing of excellence in every branch of perfect laundry work, as done at their laundry on First Avenue, S.

Every modern and up-to-date appliance known in the business is installed, and it is in every way one of the best equipped laundries in this section. Employing a staff of 21 skilled hands they turn out work unsurpassed by any laundry anywhere, and do so promptly and without damage to the most delicate fabrics.

Gentlemen who get their shirts, collars and cuffs laundered here as well as ladies who send fine underwear, shirt waists, etc., will perceive the superiority over other laundries. Every collar is ironed smooth on the edge; no see-saw edges on collars when they leave this laundry. Special low rates are given to all family washing. They also do dry cleaning.

Besides operating a laundry here, they operate branch laundries at Marshallfield and Stevens Point. Local wagon calls at Nekooosa and Port Edwards every Friday, and Biran every Tuesday afternoon.

C. A. and J. E. Normington have charge of local plant, while other brothers have charge of branch laundries. All are up-to-date business men and give all their customers the very best of satisfaction.

WOOD COUNTY DRUG STORE

The up-to-date drug store is always a very important factor in a community, and that is what the Wood County Drug Store, on Vine Street, is.

The prescription department is thoroughly equipped and the greatest care is exercised in compounding physicians and other prescriptions. Mr. Coyle is an experienced and capable pharmacist and his establishment is one of the most popular in this section. A full line of druggists' sundries is carried, as well as hospital supplies, surgical instruments, etc. A full line of Nyal's remedies is carried, while trusses and stock foods are also in stock.

A fine soda fountain is another attraction in store. Those wishing to purchase souvenir post cards, confectionery, cigars, books of fiction including the latest, office supplies can get them there.

Mr. Edward M. Coyle is proprietor. He bought out this old stand two years ago and has done much to add to the large patronage it already had. He is an efficient druggist and is given large patronage by those who are particular about their purchases.

A. P. HIRZY.

When you want first class jewelry or wish to have good repair work done you naturally want to go to a place where you can be sure of proper treatment.

Twenty years of business experience should entitle a business man to prestige, and that is the length of time that Mr. Hirzy has been established, at 103 Vine Street.

A. P. HIRZY.

He is one of the leading jewelers in this section of the state and has an up-to-date store in all respects. He carries a fine line of watches, clocks, diamonds, silverware, cut glass, etc. He is also K. R. watch inspector for the C. & N. W. R. R. and C. & St. R. R.

Mr. Hirzy is a graduate optician and is an expert in this line, too. He examines eyes free, and when he fits them with glasses it is done right. He also carries a line of small musical instruments.

In the score of years that he has been active in the business life of our city Mr. Hirzy has made many friends, so that he is liked by those who know him and is one of our popular business men.

J. E. FARLEY

Modern conveniences in our houses, unless they are properly constructed, are little else than death traps because of the foul gases, including sewer gas, which they admit into our houses, thereby breating into our lungs and laying the foundation for fevers and other diseases.

But this is all useless, of course. It depends on the plumbing—and the plumber. If the one is a good and the other is honest there is no danger whatever. So look out for your plumber. Get the right kind of a man. One of the right kind in our city is J. E. Farley who does all sorts of sanitary plumbing, with shops at 165 First Street North. He is a contractor in steam and hot water heating, furnishing estimates in anything in his line of work, besides guaranteeing the work and material. He carries a line of plumbing goods, bath tubs, sinks, closets, wash basins, etc. In fact he carries a full line of everything used in his line of business. Mr. Farley also makes a specialty of installing Country Water Systems, being quite an adept at it.

He has been established in business in Grand Rapids for the past nine years, and is known as an honorable and upright business man. He has a broad knowledge of his business and applies it intelligently to any job that he may have on hand.

THE HOTEL WITTER.

When you arrive at the depot take the bus that goes to the Hotel Witter and you will make no mistake. It is located on the east side of the river, convenient to the business centre of the city.

This is one of our leading hotels, and operated on the American plan, and although the rates are $2 per day it equals any 2.50 per day house in the state. The service is high grade and everything for the comfort and accommodation for the traveling man is to be found.

There are sample rooms that are large and roomy. The guest rooms, numbering twenty-four, are kept in fine order and are steam heated and lighted by electricity. In the two years that Mr. Gerow has been conducting the hotel it has gained a fine position among the country's hostleries.

The office, writing room and dining room are on the ground floor. This hotel is not run in connection with any other.

D. J. Gerow, is the proprietor, he has made a reputation for himself in the hotel business as an able manager and genial host and has the good will of large numbers of traveling men who visit our city.

Cranberry Picking Scenes Near Grand Rapids.

JOHN D. SMITH.

For eighteen years Mr. Smith, whose place is at 129 Second Street, has been supplying the people of Grand Rapids and surrounding towns with hardware and affiliated articles.

He owns the two-story brick building in which his store is located and occupies both floors, which are 29x30 feet. Many people who are fond of hunting go to this store for their fishing tackle, guns, ammunition, etc.

Besides carrying a complete stock of all kinds of hardware, Mr. Smith handles buggies, paints, oils, glass, putty, etc. He has a large assortment of tinware and granite ware, too.

Mr. Smith long ago established himself as one of our reliable business men and is known to hundreds in our city and in surrounding towns. Many farmers make all their purchases of goods in his line when in Grand Rapids, for they can depend on those and know that they are always well treated by the popular proprietor.

Mr. J. C. Smith is connected in business with his father, he having active management of same. He, like his father is most popular amongst the trade, and everybody seems to like to transact business with them.

A. ARNDT.

It is eight years since Mr. Arndt established his business, which is at 104 First Street, and he is known to hundreds of our people. His place is a popular one for light refreshments, for if you wish a nice dairy lunch you can get it there. If it is anything in the confectionery line you can get it there, and the man who enjoys a good cigar can be satisfied there, also.

There is a fine soda fountain, where the syrups are pure and everything is wholesome and refreshing. Mr. Arndt also has a fine ice cream parlor, all his ice cream is made of the purest and best ingredients.

Mr. Arndt is known to a large portion of those who like the kind of refreshments he sells, for his place is always neat and clean and the goods he sells are of the best. He makes himself agreeable to his patrons and as a result is one of our popular business men.

W. L. LAIN.

Leather is one of the most important commodities the people have to invest in, particularly in this line, as relating to harness, etc. Consequently the question as to who handles the best goods and quotes the most reasonable prices is often suggested. We refer with pleasure to the establishment of Mr. W. L. Lain.

He conducts one of the best stocked harness shops in this section, including all grades of harness, saddles, collars, whips, blankets, robes, etc. The business has been constantly on the increase and the spacious premises are filled with everything necessary to supply the demands of a large trade.

Mr. Lain established his business seven years ago, and has been a resident of city for past twenty-two years, previous to his engaging in his present business, he was formally engaged in the furniture business in city.

Mr. Lain is one of our most honored citizens and the success of his enterprise is well merited.

JENSEN'S GARAGE.

This is an up-to-date, well equipped place where the motorist can obtain first class service and supplies and accessories that can be depended upon.

It is four years since J. C. Jensen, the proprietor established this business at 106 4th Avenue. He is agent for the well known Reo, Chevrolet and Saxon autos.

All kinds of high grade auto repair work is done, and the plant is equipped with a Bowser gasoline tank. He vulcanizes tires and does all kinds of cast iron, aluminum, brass, copper and steel welding, etc. He makes a specialty of welding of cylinders, crank cases, frames and all kinds of auto parts, mill machinery, farm engines, etc., by the Oxy-Acetylene process.

This is an up-to-date plant in every sense and is conducted by a man who knows his business. He has made himself popular with auto owners by the good work he does, the high grade articles he sells and by a desire to please all who patronize him.

BRAUER BROTHERS CLOTHES SHOP.

If you want one of those well-known Roswell hats or a Michaels Stern & Company Clothier suits just go to Brauer Brothers, and they will treat you well, besides.

William and Walter Brauer are two hustling young business men who are typical self-made young men, for they started three years ago with very limited capital.

To-day they have an up-to-date establishment on Second Street, where the clothes are kept in cabinets and are high grade in every respect. Everything else in the place is to correspond.

This place has been established one year, yet from the amount of business they do one would think it had been there a long time. It is an up-to-date store in all respects.

They also carry a full line of first class valises and other traveling supplies. Their gents' furnishings are second to none in our city.

These gentlemen deserve the decided success they have made, for they are progressive and treat their patrons with the greatest courtesy.

GEORGE W. BAKER & SON

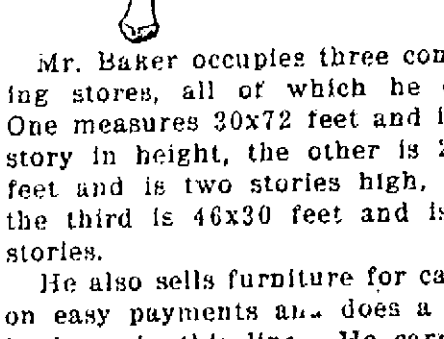

Sixty-five years ago this business was established by the late M. C. Warren, and in 1888 George W. Baker succeeded him. Eleven years ago the late Mr. Baker took his son, George W. Baker, Jr. into partnership.

Since the death of the elder Mr. Baker, last October Mr. Baker, Jr. has been conducting this modern up-to-date furniture and undertaking establishment, it being located at 106 Second Street.

Mr. Baker is a graduate embalmer and undertaker and takes full charge of funerals, attending to all details himself. He has a splendid modern morgue in connection, as well as large superb show and trimming rooms.

Mr. Baker occupies three connective stores, all of which he owns. One measures 30x72 feet and is one story in height, the other is 24x50 feet and is two stories high, while the third is 46x30 feet and is two stories.

He also sells furniture for cash or on easy payments and does a large business in this line. He carries a full line of furniture and does an extensive business, not alone in city but surrounding country as well, the trade increasing right along.

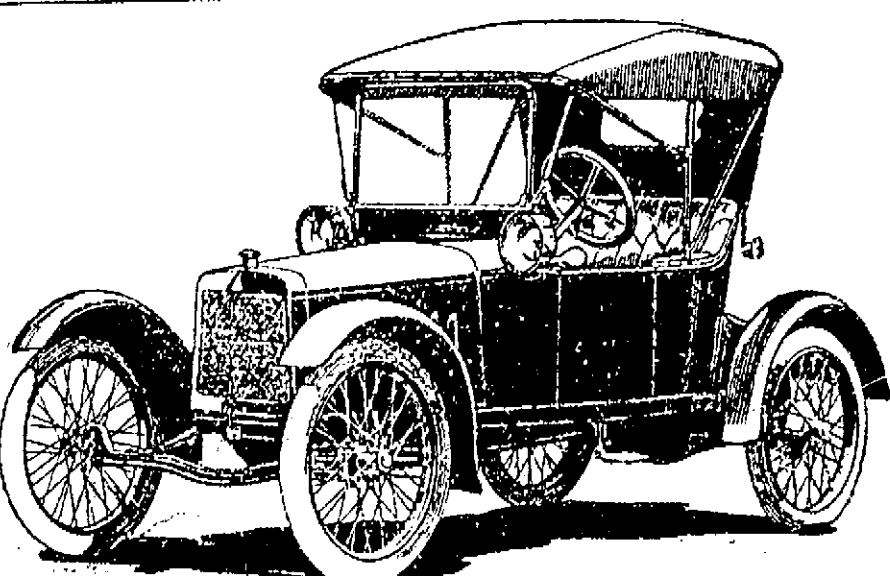

Send a copy of this issue of The Tribune to absent friends, and former residents of the city.

Mr. Baker is one of our most popular young business men. He is thorough in what he does and has made himself well liked by the public through his affability and the fact that he always carries out his promises.

The best cranberries in the world are raised in the United States, and the best cranberries in the United States are raised in Wisconsin, and the best cranberries raised in Wisconsin are raised in Wood County.

Grand Rapids has churches of almost every denomination.

BANKS, INSURANCE AND REAL ESTATE MEN

Strong Factors in City's Growth. Real Estate Handled by Able and Honorable Men.

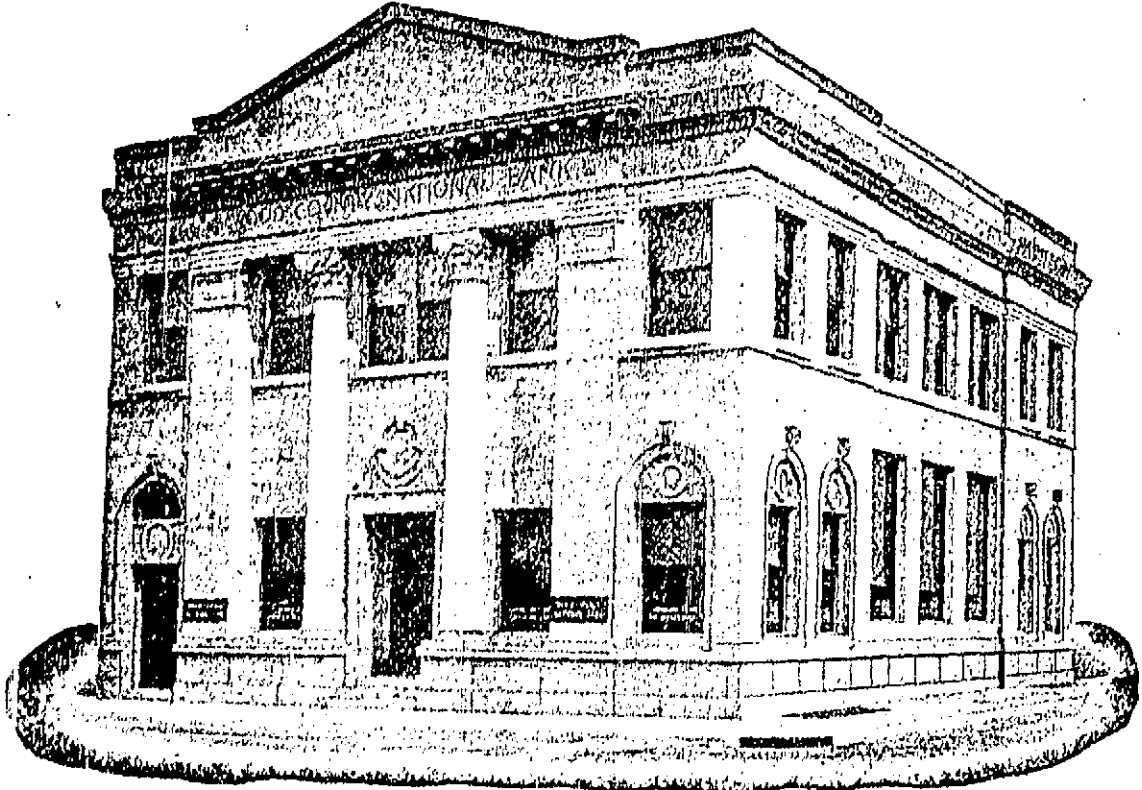

It is usual where men of wealth seek a city in which to invest their money that they ask to be enlightened on their banking system; also the opportunity for safe and profitable investment of their funds. They place the banks as their standard by which they gauge the worth of the city. If the great financial institutions are conservative business men they regard the city as being safe for a large investment. The banks have come as much as any other agent to make Grand Rapids an industrial and commercial center. In no other city in the country can be found a better banking system than that of Grand Rapids. The banks are offered by keen business men and able financiers, while the directors are men who have made a success, financially, in whatever business or profession they may be engaged. The following are brief sketches of our leading bankers, insurance, real estate men, etc.:

FRITZINGER'S INSURANCE AGENCY.

Located in the MacKinnon building (Mr. Fritzinger has one of the best established in his line on Grand Avenue. He handles a general real estate and insurance business. The business was originally established by the late E. B. Fritzinger thirty years ago, being conducted thus until 1902. At this time Mr. Fritzinger passed away and his son succeeded to the business. This is the oldest agency in the city and does a large business. He handles large amounts of city and county property and handles all kinds of insurance—fire, life, accident, health, liability, steam boiler, automobile, burglar, etc. He represents some of the largest insurance companies in the world and has written up hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of business in the time he has been serving the public. Mr. Fritzinger is considered one of our representative business men and comes of a well-known family. He is an agreeable gentleman and progressive citizen.

Wood County National Bank.

WOOD COUNTY NATIONAL BANK. Travel where you may it is difficult to say where you will find a more artistic, conveniently arranged, better equipped or more attractive banking house than that of the Wood County National Bank.

Their beautiful Bedford stone building, which cost $60,000, is one of the ornaments of our city, and the management of the institution is in keeping with the general appearance. The entire first floor of the two-story structure is occupied by the banking rooms.

The floor is of tile, while the wainscoting is of Italian and Belgian marble, and the fixtures are of bronze, the whole giving a very artistic effect. There is a fine ladies' parlor, a large reception room and a directors' room. The whole building is served with air that is washed by the most approved system, insuring absolutely pure air.

A general banking business is conducted and this is one of the really solid banks of the country. Capitalized at $100,000 and with surplus of an equal amount, they also have more than one million dollars in deposits, their total assets totaling more than $1,450,000. The most conservative and safe banking methods protect the interests of depositors.

Besides their checking department and their savings department where 3 per cent interest is paid semi-annually, they have a modern safety deposit department, where they have 250 boxes protected by a chrome steel vault, its massive door weighing thirteen tons and being operated by a time lock. The bank has a total of five fire and burglar proof vaults. In fact no bank in the large cities are better protected in this way than the Wood County National Bank.

P. J. Wood is president, L. M. Alexander is vice-president, Guy O. Babcock is cashier and Warren G. Fisher is assistant cashier. In addition to the first three gentlemen the directors include A. E. Bennett, T. H. Mullen, L. E. Nash, E. Roenlus, Judson G. Rosebush. It will be seen that those controlling the destiny of this bank are men of affairs, most of whom, at least, being thoroughly trained in business and each of them successful in his particular line.

All stand high in the community, and their reputations, together with the high grade administration of the bank's affairs, places the Wood County National Bank in a position where it has the confidence of all.

First National Bank Building.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

Sixty thoroughly responsible stockholders own the stock of this institution, which is comfortably housed in its own beautiful two-story white granite front building. Practically all of these stockholders live in our community and take an active part—and have taken for a long time—in the development of the resources of the locality and advancement of industry and commerce. Since 1872 the First National Bank has been one of the pillars of our city's progress.

The capital is $100,000 and the surplus is $50,000. Progressive methods and clean, conservative banking policies have brought their total assets from $399,156.50 on January 13, 1906 to $1,323,540.43 at the close of business March 4, of the present year.

BANK OF GRAND RAPIDS.

This is the second oldest bank in the city and was established in 1838. It is conducted on a conservative, safe basis by men of experience.

This bank has served the local community in an able and satisfactory manner ever since its advent and is a sound institution in every sense of the word.

A general banking business is done, with affiliations that are of the best for the protection of depositors, and everything for furnishing complete co-operation with depositors is at the latter's disposal.

There is a savings department, where 3 per cent is paid annually on deposits; a checking department, where the merchant or private individual is afforded all the accommodations of such.

The bank is capitalized at $50,000, with a surplus of $10,000. Those having charge of the affairs of this bank are experienced business and financial men who have held the confidence of the public through serving them in the proper manner.

Isaac P. Witter is president, George W. Mead is vice-president, E. B. Redford is cashier and W. G. Schroedel is assistant cashier. These gentlemen are widely known in this part of the state and, through their commendable business methods, have kept their bank to the forefront.

CITIZENS' NATIONAL BANK.

Although our youngest bank, this institution has made decided strides in progress and has taken its place among the substantial financial concerns of our state. Capitalized at $100,000, with surplus of $10,000, the Citizens' National bank has excellent affiliations and is in a position to transact a general banking business.

They threw open their doors for business March 29, 1912, and the business of the following fourteen months has surpassed their most sanguine expectations, showing conclusively that the high standing of those behind the enterprise established prestige for the bank from the start.

Courteous treatment of depositors, co-operation with them and promptness in all transactions have all combined to gain the favor of the public, and conservative methods have gained the co-operation and respect of the banking fraternity at large. All facilities found in the well-directed service that is obtainable in the large cities can be had there. All kinds of fire and life insurance is handled. They pay 3 per cent interest on savings accounts. They also transact a large business in loans on real estate.

George W. Mead is president, Earle Pease is vice-president, A. G. Miller is cashier, and H. C. Demiltz is assistant cashier. The directors include the Messrs. Mead and Pease, W. J. Conway, E. W. Ellis, Dr. J. J. Loebe, Edward Lynch, and Isaac P. Witter.

This list of gentlemen should be a sufficient guarantee to the public as to the general personnel of the bank's sponsors and the fact that only the highest grade service is given. They are all highly respected in our community and are men of the clean-cut type.

and properly-equipped national bank are at the disposal of their patrons. Mayor J. A. Cohen is president, G. W. Paulus is vice-president, and D. B. Phillos is cashier. These gentlemen, with A. P. Hirzy, William H. Peters, Jacob Lutz, Nate Anderson, Charles E. Briere and Peter Reiland compose the directors. A glance at this list will convince the business man or private individual as to the general character of those directing the affairs of the Citizens' National Bank.

They are all more or less prominent in public affairs and their personal standing in a collective way have made the bank what it is today, backed up by high grade administration of its affairs.

REMEMBER!

That Every Added Subscriber Helps to Make The Tribune Better For You.

Good Will Come by Boosting Grand Rapids

We take pleasure today in sending broadcast over the community thousands of copies of THE GRAND RAPIDS TRIBUNE'S Booster Edition. There is no question but what Grand Rapids needs to be advertised, and this is an advanced step along these lines. THE TRIBUNE believes in Grand Rapids of the present and Grand Rapids of the future. Mechanically, this office has about double the facilities of its nearest competitors. It is, therefore, able to give such an edition without in any way interfering with the regular routine of issuing a sixteen page weekly paper and without additional charge to its subscribers. A copy will be distributed to every household in Grand Rapids and thousands of copies have been mailed right and left. We are anxious to help boost Grand Rapids and there is no man with the equal resources in Grand Rapids that will do more to help Grand Rapids advance than will the publishers of THE TRIBUNE.

We repeat, we believe in Grand Rapids of the present and the future. THE TRIBUNE has made no particular effort to publish an "edition beautiful." The paper is simply issued to show what Grand Rapids has in the way of industries, men and things—that others may see us as we do. For Grand Rapids is a sort of souvenir. We must admit that it requires effort to get the good things and after we get them it requires effort to hold them. The fruit that falls from the tree before it is ripe is either rotten at the core or has a worm in its vital regions. The fruit of greatest value is that which requires an effort to preserve it and have it ready for future use. The Lord has quit sending quail and manna to our doors and feeding the multitude from baskets. He has placed all of the good things of the earth within the reach of man, but He doesn't shovel gold into our pockets nor connect us with nursing bottles. The man who now waits for the ravens to feed him will go hungry seven days of each week. And we must not only work for what we get, but we must work together and render and receive assistance from those about us. The man who goes it alone nowadays will get nowhere and accomplish nothing. Success in any undertaking requires a common effort, and it is only through association, united action and unity of purpose that men progress.

And this is true of communities. It is true of Grand Rapids. The growth of Grand Rapids depends absolutely upon the efforts put forth by our own people. It has required effort to build our city and it will require effort to preserve it and make it grow larger. Without effort our city would soon return to primeval forest and swamps and become a hiding place for chipmunks and polecats. Whenever the citizens stop pushing, the city will stop moving, and whenever the city stops moving it will immediately become affected with dry rot. And in pushing Grand Rapids there must be unity of purpose and action. There must be team work, with every man doing his best. The old command of log-rolling day, "A long pull, a short pull and a pull together," could well be adopted as a rallying cry by our industrial captains, and made to do service in pulling Grand Rapids out of the mire. "Every fellow for himself," may look good to the old buzzard who sits around waiting for the town to die so he can devour it, but it will never lay a brick or drive a nail. It is "now or never" with the present generation of men in Grand Rapids and there has never been a time in the history of our city when there was greater need for patriotic and united effort. It requires effort to get the good things that Grand Rapids needs. So that, in expressing the hope that this edition will be accepted as an honest effort to advance the welfare of the community along all lines at a time when our prospects seem the brightest, THE TRIBUNE desires to extend its sincere thanks to the business men and others whose enterprise and public spirit have made this edition a success. Of our readers, we ask a thoughtful and careful perusal of these pages, feeling they will find therein much interesting and profitable information which should serve as an incentive for a stronger and nobler public spirit, and which, if sent to others, may induce them to come to our city and become a part and parcel of our prosperity. If you have a friend interested in Grand Rapids send him one. Send a copy to the wholesale houses you deal with and to those that buy of you. Let the people know what and where Grand Rapids is. BOOM THE TOWN! This edition, if carefully read, or kept, for reference, will serve as a first class guide book to all of the money saving stores of the city. Every farmer can, by the use of this paper, become familiar with the city and save himself much valuable time, thus enabling him to do more business in less time while in the city. The publishers of THE TRIBUNE sought to thoroughly cover the business and professional field of Grand Rapids. Every business interest had an invitation to come in. Everyone was asked to come in and cooperate with THE TRIBUNE in the enterprise so important to the future of the city. Those who neglected to join in the enterprise missed an opportunity to put a shoulder to the wheel of Grand Rapids' progress. It was not an expensive venture to the citizens of this community, as the burden of the cost of the enterprise falls upon the Publishers.

Several thousand copies of this edition will go into many new channels of circulation and it is believed results for good will follow. We hope the public generally will feel satisfied with the edition and that it will serve the purpose for which it was issued.

WE WANT GRAND RAPIDS TO BE ON THE MAP!

EDWARD N. POMAINVILLE.

Among business men whose dealings with the public carry a strong element of integrity and confidence the real estate broker is one of the foremost.

He is in a position to abuse or cement the confidence of the public, and much depends upon his honesty. In fact when handling a real estate transfer he can, if unscrupulous, decide both sides of the deal.

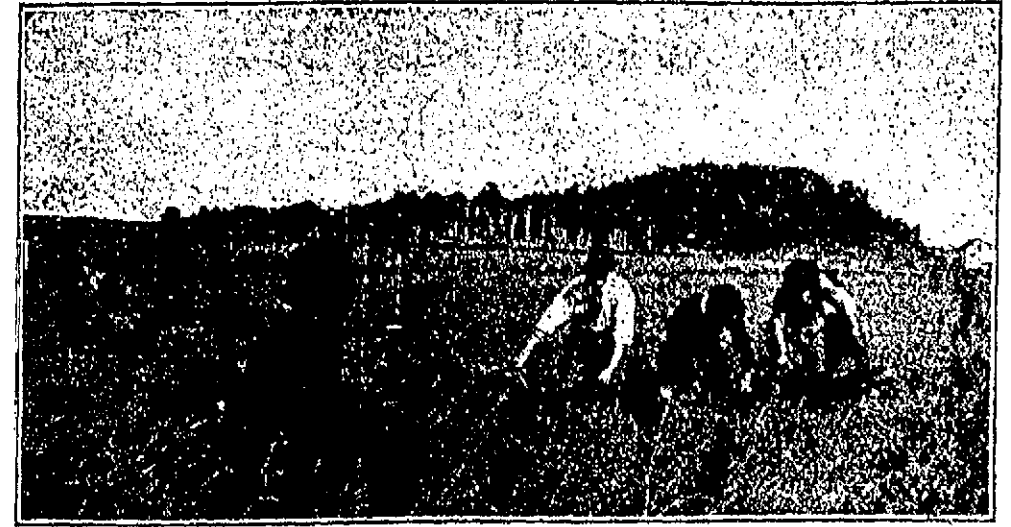

Edward N. Pomainville.

Edward N. Pomainville has established an excellent reputation by his conscientious handling of all deals and the completeness and dispatch with which he disposes of them.

His office is at 103 Grand Avenue. He handles both life and fire insurance, as well as loans and collections, and in the last he is very efficient.

Mr. Pomainville is a member of the U. P. O. E., Eagles, K. of C., C. O. of F., M. W. A. and has been a justice of the peace for the past five years. He was established in 1908. He is one of our popular business men and is a genial citizen.

PROSPEROUS AND BUSY INDUSTRIES

A Few of Grand Rapids Busy Manufacturing Factories That are Helping to Give it a World-Wide Reputation.

The manufacturers of Grand Rapids are of unsurpassed importance. They are not only vast, but varied, and every year adds extensively to the manufacturing interests of the city. Many new industrial enterprises have had inception here within a few years while old plants were re-modelled and their producing capacity increased. Grand Rapids offers to manufacturers, capitalists and investors such facilities of accommodation, transit, light and power as can not be obtained anywhere and men of means and foresight are eagerly grasping the opportunities it would be impossible to present anything like a proper estimate of the extent, value and variety of the manufacturing of this city at the present day without an elaborate compilation of statistics and figures which could scarcely be presented here. The following sketches are a brief synopsis of some of our leading manufacturing plants, wholesale and jobbing houses, and while every line is represented in a creditable manner, there is still plenty room for others to come here and locate, and every inducement will be offered to those seeking a new location, or a place to establish a branch house. Come here and see the many advantages Grand Rapids has over other cities.

This is one of Grand Rapids' big enterprises in the industrial line. They manufacture box shooks, sash, etc., and are extensive handlers of lumber of all kinds. They do a wholesale business only and ship in carload lots to all parts of Wisconsin and Illinois. They also ship sash in carload lots to Chicago and St. Louis. They employ 185 hands and have five teams for local use. They have a large business in wood, both wholesale and retail. Their yards and mills cover 30 acres. They operate a thoroughly up-to-date plant. The factory and warehouse are in sawmill, dry kiln, factory, and have separate buildings. The plant is served by the C. M. & St. P. Railroad and they are in a position to fill all orders, whether large or small, promptly. Much credit must be given Mr. E. W. Ellis, who gives his personal attention to the operation of this enterprise. He is a shrewd business man and knows the lumber and mill business thoroughly. He is a business man of the clean cut type and the excellent condition of his business shows that he knows how to hold his trade by satisfying his city.

Our city can well be proud of this thriving industry. Grand Rapids' prosperity is due largely to the vast operations of the E. W. Ellis Lumber Company, recalling to many of our people the famous reply of Daniel Webster to the latter of South Carolina, after the Hayne had made a stirring attack upon Massachusetts. Massachusetts! She needs no economy from me. There she stands! Look at her! So might we say, dwelling upon the magnificent dimensions of the E. W. Ellis Lumber Company, "There she stands! Look at her!"

Covering ten acres of ground with their yards and plant, doing all their own slaughtering, this firm's "Banner Brand" goods are produced under the most approved sanitary conditions and are known throughout the country. They have their own modern ice plant, which produces 35 tons of pure ice per day. Their packing plant is complete throughout, with all the latest methods and appliances in use. To show to what extent their business goes, we might state that in 1915 they slaughtered 17,000 hogs and in the same time slaughtered 1,000 head of cattle, converting all of these into high grade products that were put on the market under the "Banner Brand". Their plant is served by the St. Paul, North-Western and Soo Lines, so that their distribution facilities are fine. In addition to hogs and cattle they also slaughter sheep, calves, etc. They do a large local business and have three salesmen on the road, covering Wisconsin and Michigan. Their sausages are delicious. The firm was incorporated in 1907. Dr. J. J. Looze is president and manager, N. J. J. Looze is vice-president, F. Reiland is secretary and H. B. Reiland is treasurer, while these gentlemen and J. B. Arpin compose the board of directors. The growth of this firm has been steady and is only the natural outcome of progressive, up-to-date methods and prompt and fair treatment of patrons. Their business is one of the important industries of Wood County, and they are another concern who do much to keep the name of Grand Rapids before the public. The quality of their products is maintained on a high plane and it is such firms as this that uphold the prestige of any community.

Inducements for Manufacturers.

Grand Rapids offers exceptional facilities for manufacturers of all kinds. There are four railroads to serve the public, insuring a service that cannot be secured in any other city in the state. Cheap electric power is another inducement for the small manufacturer, while factory sites can be secured as cheaply as in any city in the country. The city has a Commercial Club that is always willing to correspond with those who have any sort of a proposition to offer, and any kind of information can be secured from this organization.

GRAND RAPIDS FOUNDRY CO.

Any manufacturing concern that ships its products to all parts of the country does its full share in advertising the community in which it is located, and that is just what the Grand Rapids Foundry Company does. They are engineers, founders and machinists and handle paper mill machinery. The firm was organized in 1896. They are also manufacturers of the Roenius coal and wood chutes as well as refrigerating machinery and carbolic systems. To show the popularity of this company, we might mention that they recently installed six, six-ton refrigerators on the U. S. Battleship Texas—the finest battleship in the entire Navy. They manufacture refrigerator machines for all purposes from one ton to one hundred ton capacity. They employ sixty hands and have an up-to-date foundry, which is served by the tracks of the St. Paul & Northern Pacific. The foundry is a two-story structure built of cement block and is 75x100 feet. They have a modern machine shop two-stories high and built of cement block measuring 150x50 feet. The plant of this company occupies about one city block and its buildings are solidly built of reinforced concrete, while the equipment is complete in every possible way for their special line of work. They operate a ton-ton crane in the machine and foundry departments. They also make a specialty of grinding paper mill rolls and do this work so well that they are liberally patronized. They manufacture heavy castings and do a large repair business, their repair department being one of the best in the valley. This company has a force of 250 agents in various parts of the United States and Canada, handling the Roenius brand and square chutes. Each year the company has had to keep up with the demands of the trade.

K. Roenius, Otto R. Roenius, Fred A. Roenius and Oscar E. Uehling compose this firm and are well known in manufacturing circles. They are energetic and progressive business men of ability and have developed an enterprise that is to-day one of the mainstays of our community.

AHDWAGAM FURNITURE CO.

Like its older namesake in Michigan, the Grand Rapids has an excellent furniture industry that sends products to all parts of the country. In the above mentioned concern, they specialize in bedroom furniture, and are successors of the Oberbeck Bros. Manufacturing company, who were established twenty years. The present firm took possession November, 1915, and the management was changed as well as the firm name. Their plant is modern in every way, and they are installing an up-to-date automatic sprinkling system. They employ 125 skilled and unskilled hands. They have all the latest machinery and appliances and have made many improvements since taking over the business. The plant connects with the Soo line tracks, and their products go to all parts of the United States and Canada. The best wood and workmanship combine to produce only high grade dependable furniture in this factory, and the Grand Rapids products have a good hold on the market. The firm incorporated when they took possession last November. H. A. Samson is president, I. P. Wittor is vice-president and George F. La Tour is secretary and treasurer, as well as manager. Under his able direction the firm has forged ahead and is to-day one of Wisconsin's representative enterprises.

BADGER CIGAR FACTORY.

"Patronize Home Industry" should be the motto of every business man and public spirited citizen, for by so doing you are assisting in the forward movement of the city, by assisting the manufacturer to employ more help, the wages of whom are all spent within our community. This should be done especially in cigars, for almost every grown man smokes, and his money should be spent on the home made product, and especially when it is equal, if not superior, to the foreign make. Such is the case with the Badger Cigar Factory, of which Mr. Max Torzowski is the proprietor, and whose factory is located on First Street. Mr. Torzowski is one of the most expert judges of tobacco in this section of the state, and he buys the best leaf for the different brands he manufactures. The tobacco used he guarantees to be equal to that obtained in a much more expensive Havana brand cigar. His principal five cent brand is "Havana Tag," "Lincost," "Town Boost," his ten cent brand is "El Magna." Ask for them when you want a smoke and force the trade to supply them. Mr. Torzowski has been engaged in business in our city for the past four years, and has worked at the trade for the last fifteen years.

CAREY CONCRETE COMPANY.

The use of concrete building blocks instead of the natural stone has been more and more in evidence during the past few years, and in many cases the artificial article is superior to the natural. The concrete block does away with the quarrying, cutting and trimming, and is handled much more easily, at the same time giving a structure free from dampness, at the same time retaining the strength that stone has.

Furthermore concrete blocks are hollow, thus giving a dead air space, which is a non-conductor of heat and cold and are much lighter in weight than stone. In using the Carey Concrete Company's "Waterproof cast building stone," these and other advantages are gained.

Besides their "cast" building blocks, they turn out pressed cement brick, window sills, caps, lintels, chimney tops and caps, burial vaults, lawn vases and benches, posts of various kinds and, in fact, all kinds of concrete specialties. Their cement porch columns, steps, water tables, watering troughs and similar articles are as good as the solid stone, are lighter in weight and much less costly, while serving the same purpose.

W. H. Carey is president and general manager of the company; H. S. Boles is vice-president; P. J. Wood is treasurer and R. L. Nash is secretary. All are prominent among our business element, and a great credit is due Mr. Carey for his good management and the fine plant under his direction.

The Carey Concrete Company is commencing the manufacture of a new brick. This new building material is known as a waterproof poured concrete brick and is the same size as a standard building brick, is light gray in color and a trifle heavier than the ordinary clay brick. This brick is absolutely waterproof. This may sound odd to people outside the building trades, but most bricks soak up a certain amount of moisture. The brick is made with a one side counterunk so that there is absolutely no floating of the brick. This feature alone will appeal strongly to the builders, as it will enable them to make faster progress in constructive work.

The new Elks club house in this city will be constructed of concrete blocks, and then coated with white stucco. The Carey Concrete Company has also secured the contract for supplying the blocks for the new Masonic temple at Mauston. The high-grade of the products put out by this company are bringing lasting fame to the company and to the city where they are manufactured.

This firm has attained a prominent position among our high grade enterprises. They not only do a large local business but ship their products within a radius of 150 miles from here. Their plant is located on Seventh avenue and their office at 348 Grand Avenue.

DON'T BE A KNOCKER, BE A BOOSTER.

—Legal blanks for sale at this office.

GRAND RAPIDS MILLING COMPANY.

"Be a booster and buy flour made in Grand Rapids" should be the slogan of every resident, since flour made by the Grand Rapids Milling Company is as good as any made anywhere in the entire country.

The mill are grinders of feed, bran, middlings, rye flour, etc., and their leading brand of wheat flour is "Victoria," made from Northwestern wheat. The capacity of mill is 250 barrels of flour every day. Their elevator has a storage capacity of 27,000 bushels.

It has been the constant aim of the management to always pay the very highest prices for grain consistent with good business judgment and make and give to the trade the very best flour that is possible for modern machinery and experienced men to make out of wheat. The plant is strictly modern and up-to-date in every respect.

Besides doing a large local trade they have quite an extensive trade outside of city, shipping to Chicago and eastern points regularly.

The business was incorporated in 1898. The officers are I. P. Wittor, president, G. W. Mead, vice president, and J. P. Horton, secretary, treasurer and manager.

Much credit is due the officers of this concern for the success they have made of the business. Mr. Horton, specially, has shown that he knows his business, and by his high-class business policies has made many substantial friends for his firm.

C. W. ROOD CONSTRUCTION CO.

This company whose offices are over the E. W. Ellis of Grand Rapids, operates all over the United States. They specialize in drainage and irrigation ditches and levee building and in all their work operate the well-known Rood Excavators.

The firm was incorporated in 1910 and has grown to immense proportions and are constantly extending their operations. At present they are doing some big contract work in Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin. The officers of the company include C. W. Rood, who is president, C. G. Eklund, vice president, and G. M. Hill, secretary and treasurer. They are the same officers as the Rood Manufacturing company.

They have the big advantage of using exclusively the Rood Excavators, which do the work efficiently and quickly, and as a matter of fact, the quick way in which they carry out their contracts with these Rood Machines has had much to do with inducing other contracting firms to use them.

KELLOGG BROTHERS LUMBER COMPANY.

This concern is one of the largest of its kind in this part of the state. Established twenty-one years ago they have spread out until now they have branches in Almond, Brookings, Endeavor, Nekoma, Oxford, Packwaukee, Wild Rose and Westfield. Their yards are served by the St. Paul road and they have one of the largest retail lumber trades in this part of the state. They have a three-deck, electric lighted storage shed

252x134 feet, with two tracks running through its length. During the building season they keep several teams busy in local deliveries. They receive their lumber in carload lots from California, Oregon, Washington, Louisiana, Arkansas as well as from parts of this state.

An extra large stock in each line is carried. Roofing and all kinds of building supplies are also to be had. The firm are the largest dealers in cement in this part of the state. W. F. Kellogg is president of the firm, C. F. Kellogg is vice-president and treasurer, and E. C. Kellogg, whose home is in Nekoma, and has charge of the plant there, is secretary, and is a son of C. F. Kellogg. These gentlemen are among the best known business men of this part of the state and are certainly entitled to mention in the "Booster Edition," of the Tribune. They are live and progressive citizens and are always interested in all enterprises gotten up for the betterment of this city and section.

ROOD MANUFACTURING CO.

Grand Rapids is the home of a number of enterprises that have gained prominence, and one that has become known extensively in the states that are still developing is the Rood Manufacturing Company.

The office of this firm is over the Bank of Grand Rapids and they are manufacturers of the well-known Rood Excavator, one of the best on the market to-day for excavating ditches where sloped sides are required.

They turn out a dry grade, powerful excavator for dry land ditches for drainage and irrigation purposes. These are used extensively in Wisconsin and Northern Minnesota.

They are used to a great extent in reclaiming swamp lands and for ditch work in connection with state and rural highway work. Several of the most important contractors for this kind of work in the country use these. The excavators they manufacture are of different dipper capacities, ranging from one-half to three-fourths and one cubic yard. They also manufacture a machine known as the cleaner, for a machine known by other types of machines.

C. W. Rood, president, C. G. Eklund, vice-president, and G. M. Hill, secretary and treasurer, who are the officers of the firm, are also proprietors of the C. W. Rood Construction Company. The company was incorporated in 1914.

The members of this firm are progressive business men who have built up a big enterprise on merit. They are among our substantial men of affairs and all are prominent socially as well as in business.

F. MacKINNON MANUFACTURING COMPANY.

Imagine turning out 100,000 sets of hubs and 2000 wagons. That is the annual capacity of this firm, and their business is still growing. Their products go to all parts of the United States and Canada over the St. Paul, Northwestern and Soo lines.

This is one of the best equipped plants in this portion of Wisconsin and the firm is one of the large ones of our community. They build farm and freight wagons as one of their specialties, and these are known,

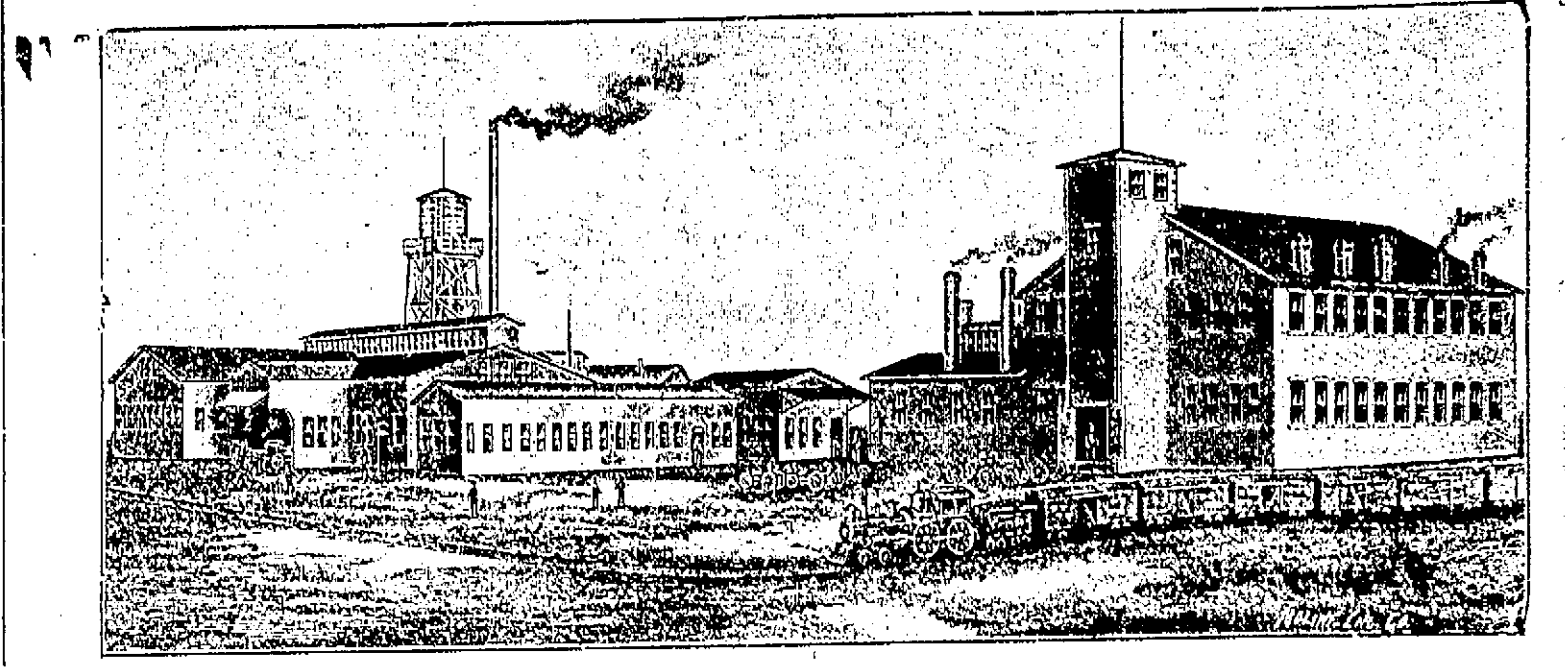

every where, through their good construction and service.

This firm started in a modest way in 1879 and has grown steadily until to-day it has a reputation covering the American continent. Their goods are known everywhere, as we have stated. They always put the best material into their hubs and wagons, these being closely inspected before shipment.

Their main office is at 717 Grand Avenue and this is in incorporation. F. MacKinnon is president, John Schnabel, Sr., is vice-president and general manager, and George W.

Mead is treasurer. These gentlemen are directors, as well as I. P. Wittor, L. M. Alexander and F. M. Schabel, who is also secretary of the company.

The typical American spirit of "if there's a will, there's a way," and the policy of giving the goods for the money has not only augmented the sales department but has held the trade, prompt shipments putting finishing touch to the whole system. The men behind this enterprise are business men of the highest character.

GRAND RAPIDS BREWING CO.

The purest milk is harmful if it is abused, and the same is true of beer. As a matter of fact beer is often prescribed by physicians as a mild tonic, and if it is used moderately and is bought PURE it is healthful.

That is probably why so many people like to drink the Grand Rapids Brewing Company's product. The firm sells thousands of bottles of their "Grand Rapids Special" bottled beer every week. They also sell large quantities barkeled.

Their big auto trucks can be seen daily delivering their goods. Practically every bar in the city sells their beer. Indeed this beer has a smaller percentage of alcohol in it than other brands, and it is vastly more pure, for selected and inspected ingredients enter into Grand Rapids beer.

They have one of the best brewmasters in the state, and their plant covers two acres of ground. Their brewery is up-to-date in every capacity of 16,000 barrels, while 20 skilled men are employed. They use pure spring water only. They also manufacture soft drinks and carbonated waters.

The business was incorporated in 1904. The officers of the company include Mayor J. A. Cohen, who is president; H. A. Sampson, vice-president; F. L. Rourke, secretary, N. Reiland, president of the Reiland & Aekling Co. who is treasurer and Jacob Lutz is manager. The progress and excellent standing of this firm shows that the public regard this as one of the leading firms of our city as well as one conducted on the basis of integrity.

The Grand Rapids Brewing Company is a good example of the firm that operates on a good business basis with a determination to give the public pure goods.

WEEKS AND WEEKS.

There is no spot on earth more sacred to man, whatever his civilization, than that which shelters the dust of those who are dear through kin or friendship, and here is found the reason why so much attention and such vast sums are expended in beautifying and rendering attractive our cities of the dead. It is safe to assert that few branches of industrial art, while exciting so many rare qualifications from its followers, has greater or more substantial rewards in store for them than that of the monumental sculptor, or the dealer in these ornate monuments.

Among the most favorably known in this section of the state, is Weeks and Weeks, of which Mr. R. A. Weeks is sole proprietor, he is a producer of high grade artistic cemetery monuments, and building work, as well as all manner of monuments, markers, tablets, headstones, the range of styles including work of every description, plain and ornamental. Some of the very finest work in his line in the city and throughout surrounding country bears evidence of his neat handwork and clever ideas in manipulation.

His shop is equipped with pneumatic tools and all up-to-date appliances, which insures work of the most artistic character and enduring quality. Mr. Weeks not only does a large local business, but his products are shipped to many other states well.

Mr. Weeks is an enterprising man and is highly esteemed by all classes in the community.

KAYE CARVING CO.

Three years ago Gus Kaye established his business on Second Street and he has done much better than expected.

His plant is well-equipped with all up-to-date machinery and he does all kinds of fancy carving and scroll work. Besides this he manufactures some of the most beautiful carvings in the country.

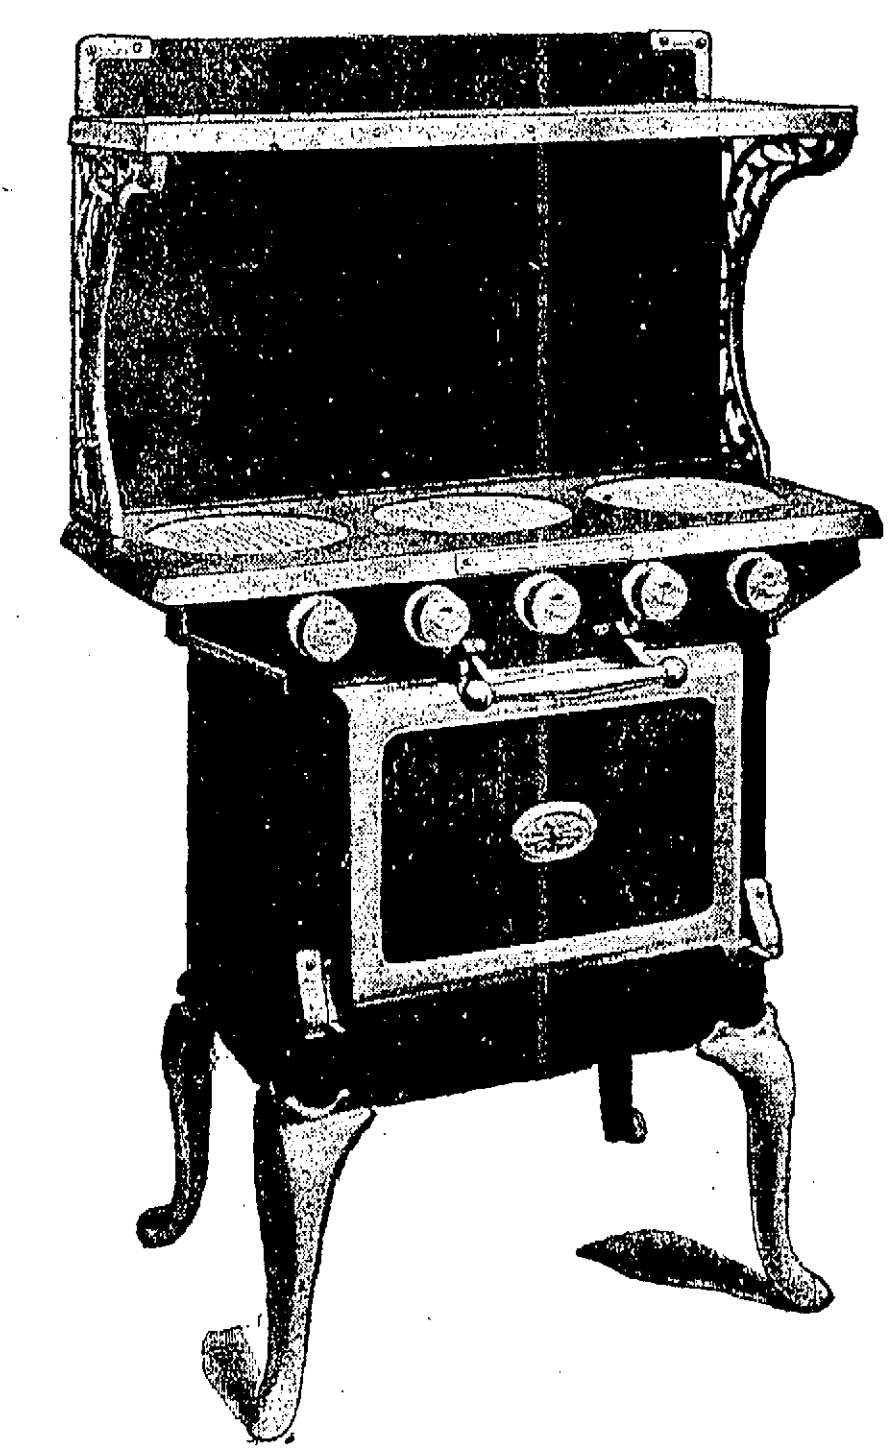

In the time he has been established he has developed his business such an extent that he has a sale of his goods in all parts of the country. His facilities for fine scroll work are practically unlimited and he does a large business in this part of Wisconsin in particular.

Mr. Kaye has established an excellent reputation among local business men not only for his efficiency but on account of his excellent dealing with patrons and promptness with which he delivers orders. He is an energetic and public spirited citizen.

GRAND RAPIDS.

It is near the center of state. It is made up of the better of best citizenship. It is free from strikes and labor disturbances. It has an abundance of cheap electricity. It has perfect transportation facilities, at low freight rates. It has four sound banks. It has a highly efficient fire department.

We make a specialty of COOKING by electricity.
"Our Slogan, 3c Rate for Cooking."

GRAND RAPIDS ELECTRIC CO

W. H. BARNES.

Oh, Barnes' Chocolate Candy, Cries down the street, Isn't it a dandy! Each kid we meet: Ain't it sweet? It can't be beat; So good to eat; It's quite a treat, Is Barnes' Chocolate Candy. Candy? Rubbish. It is no such thing. Sugar is one of the most wholesome articles of food one can put into one's stomach. It is quite possible that there is something injurious in some of the coloring matter used to tempt the children, or adulterations can be used in candy as in any food that is injurious. Pure candy is never injurious. Penurious fathers and stingy mothers trump up stories about candy being injurious so that they must not have to buy any of it for their children. So much said, we pass to the next lesson and that is, that, if you want the very best grade of chocolate made, call on Mr. Barnes at 111 Second Street South.

He only carries the purest and best on the market, and made under the United States pure food laws, he handles no cheap truck, his products being all high grade, his motto is: "Not how cheap, but how good." In addition to his line of candies he operates an ice cream parlor in connection, where he serves the best of creams, made by himself on the premises. He also has a soda fountain where he serves all kinds of cold and refreshing drinks. He also carries a stock of souvenir postal cards, as well as a nice line of the standard brands of cigars. Mr. Barnes established the business seventeen years ago, his establishment being known to nearly every resident in city.

ABEL & PODAWITZ CO.

Within four years this firm has become one of our most up-to-date establishments of the kind. They have one of the most conveniently and attractively arranged pieces in Grand Rapids.

They handle the well-known Hirsch-Wickwire Company Society Brand and Sincerely brand clothing and these are always kept in neat cabinets that are dust proof.

This store, which is on Second Street, has one of the finest lines of clothing and gent's furnishings in our city, with everything of the best quality and in great variety. P. D. Abel is president of the company and H. A. Sampson, Jr. is vice-president and treasurer and M. Fridstein is secretary. Messrs. Abel and Fridstein have active charge of the business and deserve much credit for the manner in which they have developed their establishment into one of our representative stores. Courteous treatment and fair dealing have been potent factors in the success and upbuilding of this business.

MRS. E. M. ALLERTON.

That the wants of the gentler sex in our city have been fully studied, and the requirements quite as fully met, is demonstrated by the existence of the many houses which cater only to that class of trade. A lady who stands in the front rank in the millinery line, and one who commands a large and constantly increasing trade, is Mrs. E. M. Allerton, whose place is at 139 Second Street N. The store she occupies is nicely appointed, and contains a choice stock of millinery goods, hair goods, and toilet articles. The latest and most correct styles of all kinds of hats are to be found in this up-to-date shop, while her prices are within the reach of all.

Mrs. Allerton is a practical milliner, with twenty-one years experience back of her, she conducts the oldest millinery establishment in city, she has patrons who still trade with her, who were customers with her when she first started.

Located on Second Street, and also conveniently situated for the residents in the eastern part of city, is the grocery store of Mr. H. F. Gaulke, one of the most reliable exponents of the trade in Grand Rapids. This store is admirably arranged and shows the careful manner of the proprietor in its neat and inviting condition, and is constantly the headquarters for the best line of groceries, flour, feed, crockery and glassware that can be obtained.

A well-assorted stock of fine staple and fancy groceries including the best grades of flour, etc., is always kept in abundance, and the lines of fruits and vegetables and general provisions are always fresh and in the best of condition.

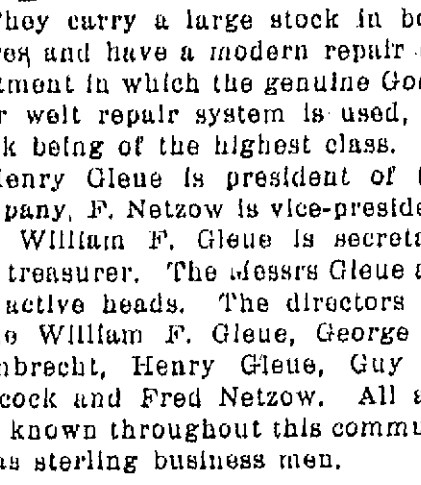

This business was established seven years ago, and has always enjoyed the best patronage and good will of the community. Mr. Gaulke has by fair dealing and honest methods and selling only fresh and pure goods won for himself a very enviable patronage and many friends.

Advertising in The Tribune is an investment, not an experiment.

GLEUE BROTHERS.

Good shoes are almost as essential as good food for if the feet are not properly cared for they will affect the whole body. You can take it for granted that the fellow you saw yesterday going along in squeaky, badly-fitting shoes did not get them from Glue Brothers.

This firm, which was incorporated in 1911, has one store in this city, at 102 Second Street South, and another at La Valle, Wis. They handle their own brand of shoes, every pair being guaranteed, and do a big trade.

They carry a large stock in both stores and have a modern repair department in which the genuine Good-year welt repair system is used, all work being of the highest class.

Henry Glue is president of the company, P. Netzow is vice-president and William F. Glue is secretary and treasurer. The Messrs. Glue are the active heads. The directors include William F. Glue, George P. Hambrecht, Henry Glue, Guy O. Babcock and Fred Netzow. All are well known throughout this community as sterling business men.

HOWARD'S VARIETY STORE.

This establishment is well known to our citizens as one where you can get a thousand and one things at reasonable prices. Located on Second Street South, it is patronized by a large number of people who like to go there because they are sure to get what they want.

S. W. Howard is proprietor. There are 5 and 10 cent counters, which are his specialty, he also sells a great variety of higher-priced goods. Mr. Howard took possession of this business, which is an old stand, one year ago. He has built it up so that he has many departments. All sorts of articles in the way are sold. Full lines of crockery, glassware, tinware, graniteware, notions and jewelry are carried, as well as many other articles. The store is conveniently arranged for purchasers and courteous treatment is accorded all who go there.

Mr. Howard maintains a large main store at Janesville, carrying similar lines to store here, he never loses makes Grand Rapids his home. He has had 15 years experience in his present line of business and is considered by jobbers as a shrewd buyer.

THE BOSSERT COAL COMPANY.

One of the important things in our everyday life is the matter of fuel, and in purchasing coal and wood the consumer naturally wants the very best.

In the same way those who buy hay or use cement wish to obtain these where they know they can get the best grades.

That is why Fred Bossert has such a large trade throughout our city in coal, wood, cement and hay. And that is why it takes three teams to handle his deliveries throughout the city.

Mr. Bossert has been established twelve years. He has built up quite a large business in cement sidewalk construction and much of it can be seen here. His headquarters is on Seventh Avenue, South.

Mr. Bossert is one of our progressive business men who consider their reputation and service to patrons above personal gain. He has always followed out this spirit and as a result is one of our really popular business men.

POTTER'S CITY LUNCH ROOM.

When you have that "vacant feeling" you naturally want some good place where you can drive away this uncomfortable companion.

You don't need to ask too many people where a good place is, for the first one will probably tell you to go to Potter's City Lunch Room at 347 Grand Avenue. He has been established three years.

E. S. Potter is responsible for this "hunger-chasing" emporium, and he is ready to do it at any hour you may visit his place. You always find everything clean and wholesome, too.

There are tables, if you have some of the lady folks along or prefer a table yourself, and if you are in a hurry and like to sit at the counter it's there. Short orders are a specialty.

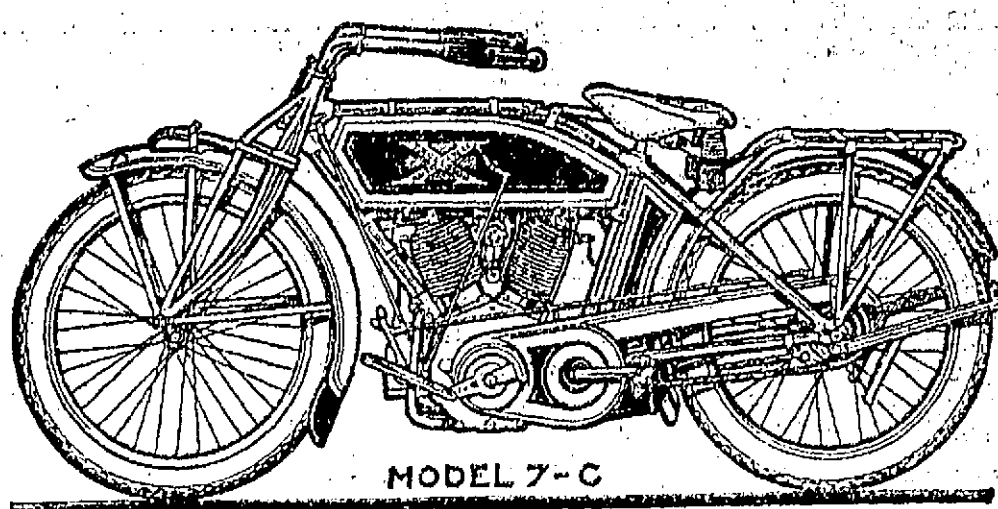

Mr. Potter knows how to cater to the public and is liked very much by his many patrons. He is courteous, pleasant and affable, gives best care and attention to his many patrons, and allows none to leave his place dissatisfied.

A. BANKERT.

The well and tastefully dressed man always commands respect, and many a man of mediocre ability has carved his way to success by a neat appearance. The prime factor in neatness is perfect fitting clothes, and these cannot be obtained from other than a first-class merchant tailor. In this connection we wish to give prominent mention to Mr. Bankert, located at 339 Grand Avenue. His well equipped establishment is stocked with a fine line of imported and domestic goods, in the very highest grades manufactured, and in all the latest styles designs and colors of the season, and his prices on all work ordered are the very lowest in accordance with the high class workmanship. He also does cleaning and repairing.

Mr. Bankert does all his own designing, cutting and fitting, and in fact, completes the garment from start to finish. He has been established in business here for the past twenty-eight years, and has worked at the trade for the past forty-five years, every garment leaving his place is guaranteed as to price, workmanship and fit.

Excelsior Motorcycle, Eugene Miller, Agent.

EUGENE MILLER.

Go to 180 First Street when you want some good repair work done on that bicycle or motorcycle, or if you are thinking of buying a new one of either.

Eugene Miller is proprietor of the establishment at that address, and he has a fully-equipped plant for all kinds of work.

Mr. Miller carries the largest stock of auto supplies in the city and operates a Bowser sidewalk gasoline pump, and this is always ready for business.

This business has been established for fifteen years and Mr. Miller has resided here since he was two years old. He has built up a large repair business and agency business as well.

While he does a big jobbing trade in bicycle tires he carries all standard makes of cycles and is agent for the Dudley cycle car, Case automobile and Excelsior and Pope motorcycles.

Mr. Miller is popular with hundreds in our city, for he is a genial business man who "delivers the goods" and makes himself agreeable to all.

J. R. RAGAN.

The calling of the undertaker has developed into a veritable profession, some of its features being now conducted upon scientific principles, as for instance embalming, while as a matter of funeral outfits, etc., this branch is equally marked with a degree of skill and perfection, and one to attain the highest results must keep himself posted upon the improved methods used in the practice of scientific embalming, and without the least idea of reflecting upon the abilities of others, we would like to call particular attention to the facilities controlled by J. R. Ragan, who has for the past seven years been located in the Spafford building occupying two floors each 280x100 feet. He is a thorough skilled undertaker and embalmer, and keeps constantly on hand large supplies of funeral outfits and is prepared to take entire charge of funerals at a moment's notice. He also in connection conducts a first-class furniture store, carrying one of the largest and best stocks. The stock carried embraces every conceivable article in the furniture line, all the new fads and fancies being fully represented. Furniture novelties and their way here almost as soon as they are introduced upon the metropolitan markets. Mr. Ragan quotes prices on furniture that are almost impossible to duplicate for the same grade of goods anywhere in the county. He also carries a full line of carpets, rugs, linoleums, matting and bedding as well, the entire second floor being devoted to these special lines.

The success he has achieved in his line of trade is an honorable one, and is the outcome of legitimate enterprise and honest endeavor.

A few lines placed in the Tribune want columns will probably secure what you want.

D. M. HUNTINGTON.

For thirty years Mr. Huntington has been active in our local business life and he has the oldest garage in the city.

His place attained prominence years ago, for in the early days of the auto he foresaw the wonderful advantages of the business and acted accordingly.

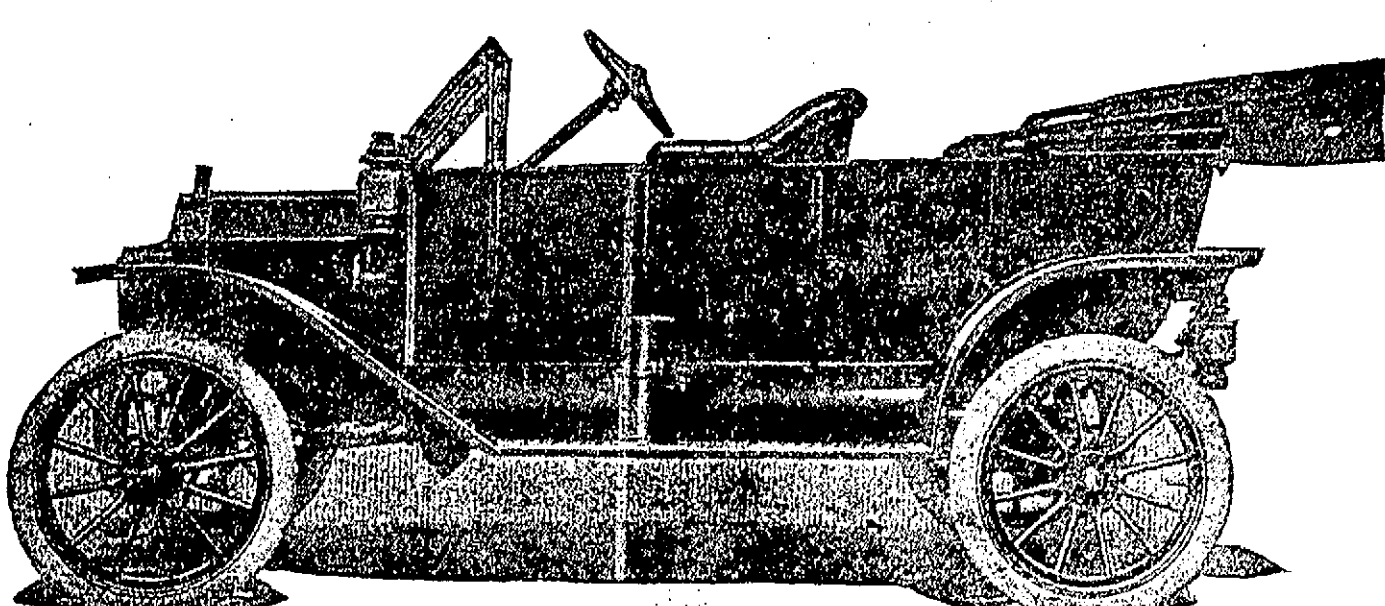

All kinds of repair work is done at reasonable prices and in an efficient manner. Auto supplies and lubricating oils of all kinds are sold as well.

A good stock of standard auto tires and tubes are always carried in stock, as well as gas tanks. Mr. Huntington is also agent for the Ford car and has sold twenty-five this season thus far and it looks as if he will double that number before the end of the season.

Mr. Huntington has been a resident of our city for forty years. He has been engineer of one of our fire steamers for thirty years. Indeed almost everyone knows him and he is universally liked.

Not only is he one of our oldest citizens and business men but he has kept up with the times and has a modern establishment in all respects.

Grand Rapids' public schools are thorough in every department.

McCAMLEY & POMAINVILLE HARDWARE COMPANY.

Two years ago this firm started in business, and their place at 121 First Street, North, is known to thousands of our readers.

K. P. McCamley and E. N. Pomainville have developed their enterprise into a large one and have established a reputation for reliability in the hardware line.

They occupy two floors and carry a large stock of all kinds of hardware, including shelf and heavy hardware, stoves and ranges, tinware, cutlery and sporting goods. They carry a full line of granite-ware and fishing tackle, etc.

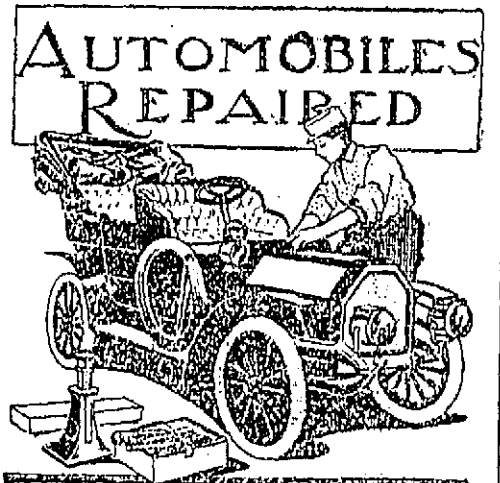

In fact everything that is found in an up-to-date hardware store is to be had there, and if there is any standard article, no matter how hard to find, you can get it there.

Mr. McCamley has charge of the business, while Mr. Pomainville has a large real estate business that takes up practically all of his time. Both are energetic business men of the clean-cut type and have the respect of the entire community.

CITY GARAGE.

The up-to-date garage is a necessity of every city and town of the country, now, for the universal use of the automobile has made it as necessary as a hotel.

Naturally the garage that is conducted on the latest plans and is equipped for first class service in every respect is the one that is patronized.

That is why the City Garage, of which E. C. Jacobson and V. L. Holliday are proprietors, is serving so many of our citizens and visiting motorists.

The City Garage, on Vine Street, has been established one year, yet in that time they have built up a large business. They carry a full line of auto supplies and are agents for the Buick Auto here.

The proprietors of this garage have made themselves popular by their willingness to serve the public and by the excellence of the goods they sell. Both are popular in our city.

GRIESBACH AND KEIP.

Any one who has a good horse—and is a good man himself—takes pride in that horse, and wishes him to have the best treatment possible, that he may make the best appearance, and do the best work that is in him, as well as make a good display of his qualities. Bad shoeing by a bungling blacksmith is the cause of a great deal of the bad traveling and ungraceful carriage of a horse. If such qualities are manifest, and good shoeing will cure it where either bad shoeing is displayed.

This is rightly claimed to be so by Messrs. Griesbach & Keip, who are located on Jackson Street, where they do practical horseshoeing and general blacksmithing, and do all their work in these lines well. The firm has been established in business here for the past four years, the members of the firm being E. W. Griesbach and C. R. Keip, and they have become well known by means of the careful and effective work done in the way of shoeing the horses of our best people.

It is claimed by them that proper horseshoeing will stop knee banging, interfering, forging, and stumbling, and also cure lameness caused by previous bad shoeing, and surely good shoeing as well as general blacksmithing is always done here in a scientific manner. All work being guaranteed.

They occupy their own two story modern brick building, it being one of the best equipped shops of its kind in this section of state.

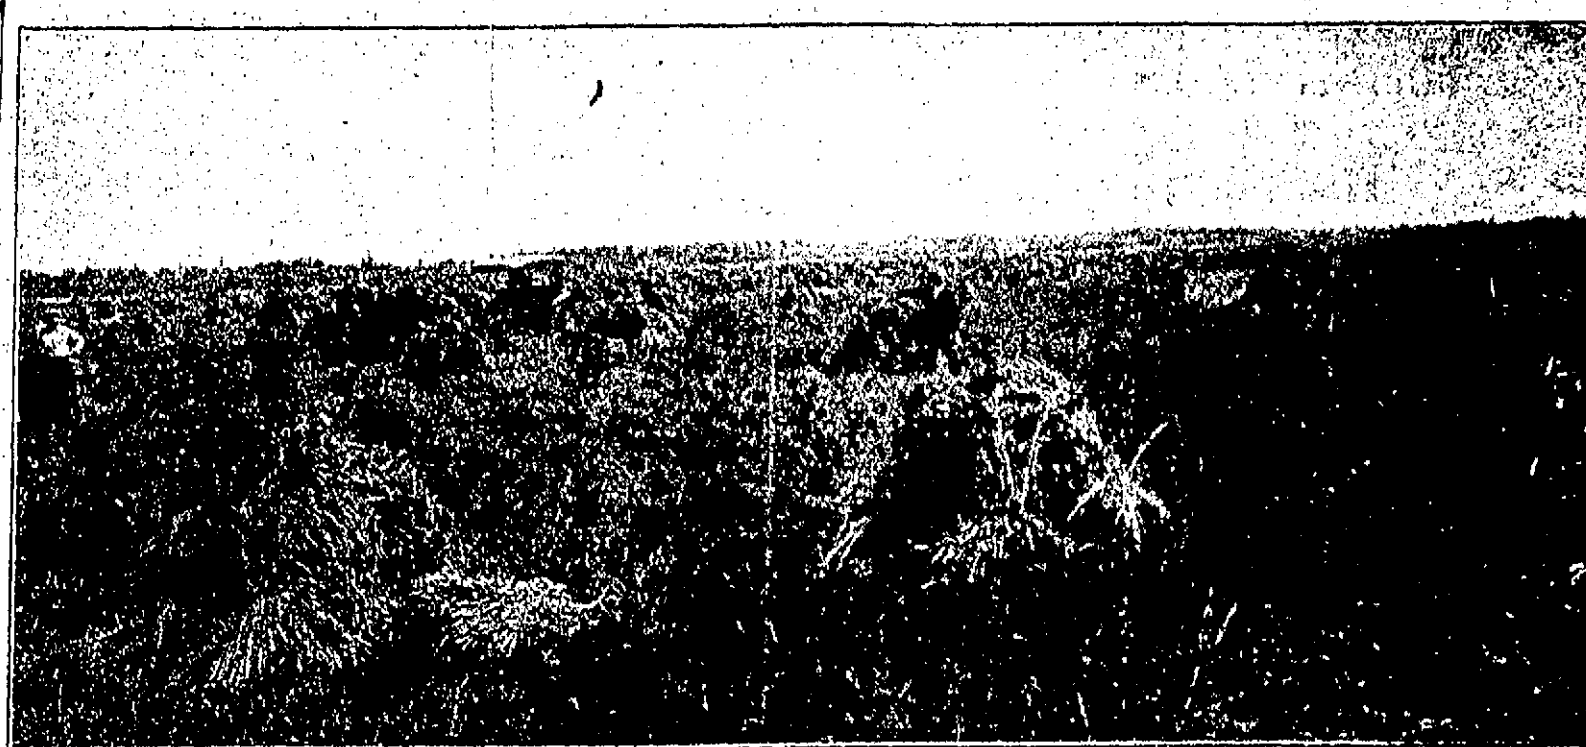

"It is no use advertising unless you have the goods; but it is no use having the goods unless you advertise."

H. F. LOOCK.

Conspicuous among the numerous groceries of our city, and one which is well known to the local trade, is the grocery store of Mr. H. F. Loock, South. It was one and one-half years ago that he established the business, and from the beginning it has gained popularity and prestige for quality goods, large variety and general excellence.

The premises are neat and the stock is large, consisting of everything pertaining to a first-class grocery. His stock consists of staple and fancy groceries, flour and feed, fruits and vegetables, confectionery and cigars, garden seeds, etc. All patrons are waited upon promptly and in a polite manner and orders are delivered to any part of the city.

Mr. Loock is thoroughly posted as to the requirements of the trade which he caters to, and that he is meeting with success is made evident by the large patronage enjoyed. He is a hustling and capable business man, has one of the leading stores in the city and holds the esteem of all.

Farming On Drained Marshes near Grand Rapids.

GRAND RAPIDS BAKERY.

"Everything good in baked goods" is their motto, and when you buy from them you see why they say it. J. J. Coates, and F. C. Williams are the proprietors they took over this old stand March 16, 1914.

They conduct a wholesale and retail business and their plant, which is modern and operated under the strictest sanitary conditions, the bakery has a capacity of three thousand loaves of wholesome bread daily.

Their place at 334 Grand Avenue is patronized by many of our most discriminate people, because they know that the best pies, cakes, bread and other bakery goods are produced there. Everything is nice, clean, and sanitary in the bake rooms, and their big oven is up-to-date in every respect.

Mr. Coates, the manager, has had sixteen years of practical experience and is a first class baker, and the fine goods they offer the public show it, too. Both gentlemen are liked by their many patrons, and their trade is increasing day by day.

NATWICK ELECTRIC CO.

Two years ago F. J. Natwick established the Natwick Electric company and since that time has built up a large business through doing good work.

He is an electrical contractor, doing installation work, wiring, repairing and carries a large line of electrical supplies of all kinds, his store is located at 342 Grand Avenue.

He also carries a fine variety of electrical fixtures, for the store, office and home and does a big contracting business not only here but in the surrounding country. If you want a dependable generator, motor or spark coil, this firm has it, and everything in the way of batteries, bells and spark plugs is also carried in stock.

Two branch stores are operated, one at Stevens Point and the other at Marshfield, where the same high grade stock and excellent services prevail. Mr. Natwick is an energetic business man and first class practical electrician in all branches and can be depended upon no matter what the work is.

An Ad in the Tribune is a message to every man who has something to sell. Those who send the most messages get most answers.

PEOPLES' TAILORING CO.

One price to all is a trade-builder, as is shown by the large patronage of this concern, located at 105 Grand Avenue.

Their standard price for suits and overcoats is $16.50—no more, no less, and their goods are made on the premises.

A large line of piece goods is carried, from which customers may select, so that the latter can see just what they are getting for their money. C. R. Matthews is the popular manager of the enterprise.

They also carry a full line of gent's furnishings of standard makes at attractive prices. These are in style and of the best materials.

The work done by this firm, which has been established in Grand Rapids for two years, has made an excellent reputation for them.

Mr. Matthews is entitled to much credit for his able management of the business. He is full of real energy and makes himself agreeable to patrons, so that they like to deal with him.

PAUL, THE FLORIST.

The love of flowers and plants shows that the one with those qualities possesses refinement far above that of the mere cold who seems worth in nothing but the coarse and entirely practical. But, as to that, the love of flowers has a practical side, when turned to the cultivation of the beautiful blooms for a monetary consideration. Hence this cultivation in turn encourages the love of the beautiful and the accompanying refinement of the hearts of those—those homes with the floral exhibits.

At the greenhouses of Paul Beusa, 1405-407 Sagadahoc Street, in the rear of the Methodist church, there is always to be found a fine display of cut flowers, plants, funeral and wedding designs, as well as special collections and arrangements for parties and smaller gatherings, not to speak of the dinner tables and the home gatherings are always popular, and all his work is original and up-to-date, his fine designing being a specialty and very artistic.

Mr. Beusa has three greenhouses, with seven thousand square feet of glass in them. He also raises early vegetables. He has been engaged in his present line of business for the past two years, each year becoming more popular.

DR. J. S. SAYLES.

The care of the teeth is a duty that everyone owes themselves, and only the highest class work should be done at any time. The teeth form such an important function in the general health that it is hard to understand why any one should be guilty of neglecting them, but on the contrary there is no part of the human anatomy that should receive more careful attention. Teeth should be regularly examined by a skilled dental surgeon, and when the slightest defect is discovered it should be immediately attended to.

A dentist whose work is unexcelled in this city is Dr. J. S. Sayles. His office is located in the Cohen Building, and is equipped with all the most modern instruments and appliances known to the profession. Dr. Sayles has been practicing his profession here for the past six years. He undertakes all classes of dental work and carries it through with the greatest ability, while he is a specialist in crown and bridge work, on difficult dental operations, the preservation of the natural teeth, in fact he does anything and everything in modern dentistry, guaranteeing all his work.

He is enjoying a practice that only comes by giving the highest work.

HOTEL JULIEN.

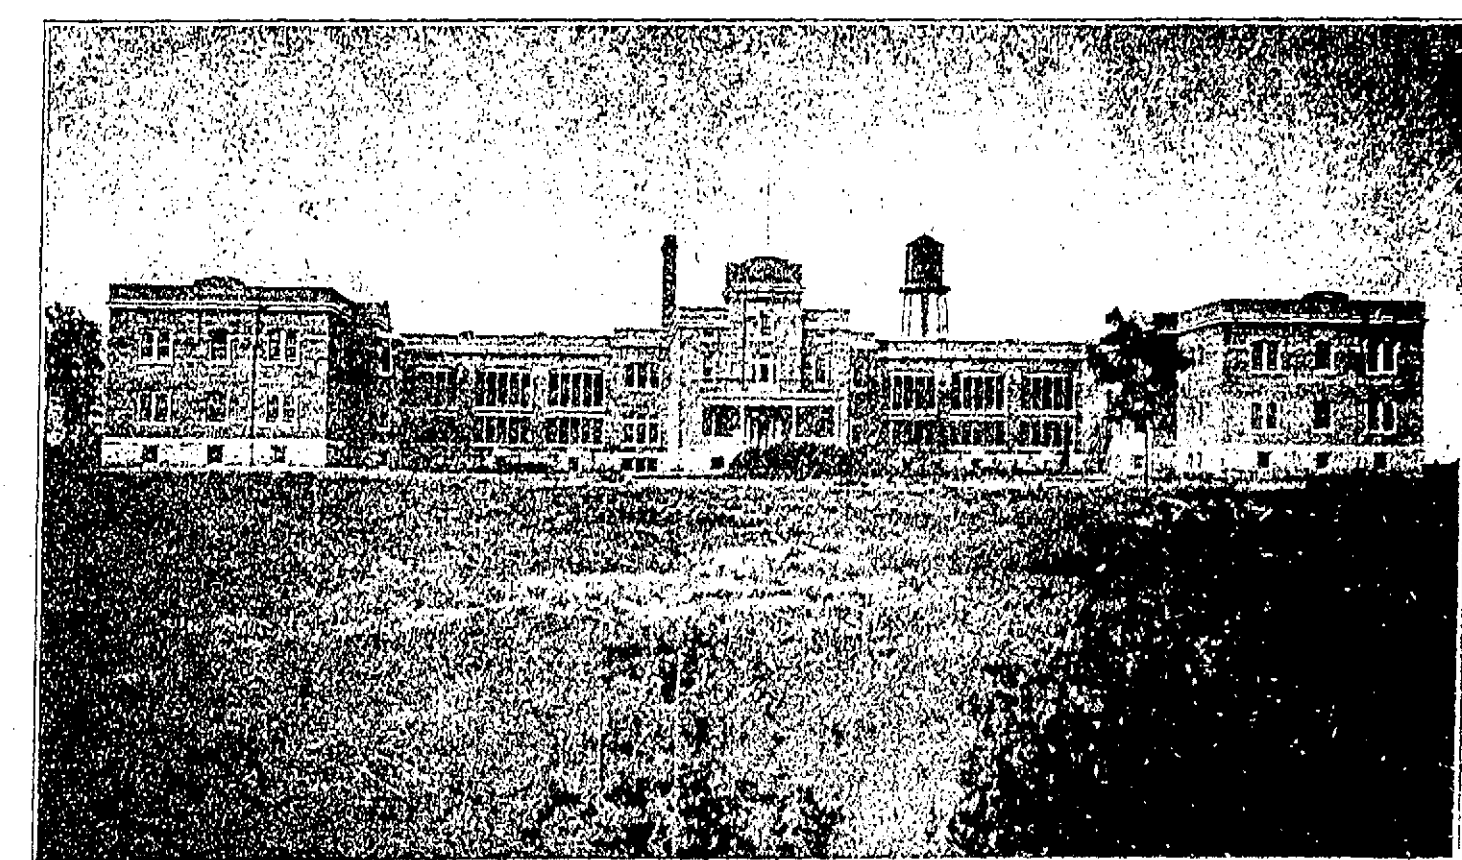

Located in the heart of the city, opposite the Chicago & North-Western depot, at Grand and Fourth Avenues, this hotel was built in 1894. G. J. Hayes took possession of it four years ago.

The building is three stories in height built of brick and is fully equipped for first class hotel service, and the guests of this house get it, too. The Julien is run on the American plan, the rates being $2 per day. The building is heated by steam and lighted by electricity and both systems are always kept up to the standard.

There are spacious sample rooms. The office, writing room and dining room are on the ground floor, and a first class buffet is operated in connection.

Mr. Hayes is a thoroughly experienced hotel man. Before taking possession of this hotel he conducted the Great Western Hotel, at Dubuque, Iowa.

He is a man who looks to the welfare and comfort of his guests and is quite popular among the traveling public.

Wood County Insane Asylum.

JOHN NILLES.

The farmers and horse owners generally, appreciate a good harness shop, and when they find one it usually holds their trade. Such has been the good fortune of the house operated by Mr. John Nilles at 339 Grand Avenue. Mr. Nilles has been in business for the past twenty-five years, and being a practical man of great ability has met with most pronounced success. He appreciated the fact that the people want the best goods at the most reasonable prices, and being a keen business man he gave them what they wanted, and in every case guaranteed satisfaction.

Mr. Nilles is a manufacturer and dealer in harness, whips, and saddlery of all kinds, he also does repairing in a most skillful manner. He carries large and complete lines in each department. Not only does he do a large local business, but his trade extends to all parts of the country.

Mr. Nilles is a conscientious business man, and has the respect of all, and is a worthy citizen.

REILAND & FERRODIN

"If anything should be wrong with this purchase return to us at once and we will cheerfully rectify the same."

This is the way in which this progressive firm does business. They do a large business in fresh, salt and smoked meats, they are located at 125 First Street North.

They have been established four years and in that space of time have made themselves known all over our city owing to the quality of their goods and their courteous treatment of patrons. They control a large trade.

They make their own sausages and smoke their own meats and conduct a strictly sanitary market. Both members of the firm are affable and know how to treat their customers and, as a result, are popular.

D. Reiland and A. P. Perrodin are popular citizens, and as business men rank high in the commercial world.

R. F. MATTHEWS.

The tailor-made man can always be distinguished from others. The quality, the hang and the fit as well as the style of his clothes does the trick.

In the Old Wood County Bank building is the establishment of R. F. Matthews, one of Grand Rapids' leading tailors, who dresses some of our most prominent business and professional men.

Mr. Matthews has been established four years. He is a ladies' tailor as well as a draper of men. He is an expert designer and cutter as well as fitter, doing all this kind of work himself.

All goods are made on the premises and Mr. Matthews employs four to five hands. A large stock of piece goods is carried, including the weaves of some of the best-known producers.

Mr. Matthews is conscientious in all that he does and as a result has the respect of those who patronize him. He is affable and accommodating and is liked.

IN PRINTING, LIKE EVERYTHING ELSE, YOU WANT THE BEST. THE TRIBUNE IS THE PAPER.

This issue of the Tribune is representative of the varied interests of Grand Rapids. Thousands of these copies will be circulated throughout the country and to foreign places. It is a credit to the city and to those who have helped to make it such.

TRADE WITH HOME DEALERS

Every reader of The Tribune is urged to give his or her patronage to local merchants, regardless of inducements offered by mail order houses and organizations. When a proposition is made to you by outside houses or other representatives carefully weigh it before making a move that binds you to the payment of a single penny, submit it to your dealer and ask him if he cannot meet it. Almost any local merchant will gladly undersell mail order houses on large quantities, and quality considered, sells you regularly just as cheap as do the outside houses.

Self interest as well as your pride in your home town indicates that you do not buy from mail order houses. The dollar spent at home may come back to you; the dollar sent away will never reach you again. Remember this when you get an alluring circular from the "mail order man." The mail order house wants your dollars at once, your home merchant wants your good will and your continued trade. Give it to him—he deserves it.

Don't be misled by any such proposition; buy of your local merchant, whom you know and can trust. Let the mail order houses do business where they pay taxes.

There are also a few things the home merchant should remember. Who stands by you through thick and thin? Who brags on your stock? Who makes it plain to the people that it is their interest as well as their duty to trade with the home merchant? Is it Sparks & Sport, or is it your home paper? When a new enterprise is to be put on foot who do you ask to whom it up, some cheap print shop, or your home paper? When the schools are to be graded, when good streets and sidewalks are to be advocated, when the advantages of the town are to be held up as a market center and trading point; when the fertility of the soil and the opportunities offered by the city are to be heralded to the world, who is expected to do it? Is it the outside printer, or your home paper?

It is the home paper every time, and let it be remembered that the home paper is entitled to the patronage of the home merchants over outside printing firms, just as much as the home merchant is entitled to the business over mail order houses.

O. P. MENZEL

O. P. Menzel is the oldest photographer in the city in time of service, he having been established nineteen years ago. He is a most popular and reliable artist, and lives up to his well earned reputation for doing all kinds of photographic work in a thoroughly artistic way, it always being high-grade work, special attention being paid by him to fine portraits. He has built up a substantial patronage among the better class of our people, and making particular effort always to please his patrons.

He is not only a thoroughly competent and high-class artist in his chosen profession, but is also an up-to-date business man also—a combination of the practical and the ideal that is seldom united in this world.

His studio is over Steib's drug store, and is filled with the portraits, cabinets and enlarged sizes, of some of the most prominent business and society people of our city and county—a collection well worth seeing, and which frequently takes the old-timer back to the early days.

Mr. Menzel is well and favorably known to most of our citizens, as an upright business man and citizen.

TWIN CITY DYEING & CLEANING PLANT.

An indispensable necessity in any community is the man who does the dyeing and cleaning, and in summing up the resources of Grand Rapids in the industrial line one cannot overlook the above named establishment, as adding to the utilities of our city.

Although an old stand, the present proprietor only took possession one year ago, and since has gained a large patronage, from the thorough character of the work done, with the result that the premises occupied on Second Street S., are equipped with all appliances known to the trade, in order to do that kind of work.

Here are cleaned by the new French process, as well as pressed, dyed, and repaired, party dresses, organdies, silks, velvets, laces, and ladies' and gentlemen's goods of every description.

B. J. Hager, the proprietor of the place, is a man who is well and favorably known to the community, where his standing as a business man and as a citizen is too well known to need any corroboration from The Tribune.

GEORGE T. ROWLAND & SONS.

A well-appointed department store with courteous employees is always sure of good patronage, and George T. Rowland & Sons' store comes within this class.

It is located at First, Baker and Second Streets, and since the establishment of the business in 1905 has grown steadily in popularity among our citizens and visitors from surrounding towns.

The firm occupy two floors, the second being occupied principally for storing their surplus stock. They own the building they occupy.

There are complete grocery, dry goods, flour and feed departments as well as one for a general line of gent's furnishings and shoes.

George T. Rowland and his sons, R. G. and W. A. compose the firm. These gentlemen have established themselves as reliable business men of integrity, and they are liked by all who come in contact with them, being affable and attentive to the welfare of their patrons.

In every house there is a discarded article of furniture that can be sold through The Tribune want ads.

ANDERSON BAKERY AND LUNCH ROOM.

Two years ago A. J. Anderson started Anderson's Bakery and Lunch Room at 313 Grand Avenue, and since then he has had a large number of our citizens' and retail bakers, too, and is patronized by many of our families and retailers who use and handle first class bakery products.

Mr. Anderson is a practical baker and his goods are known far beyond the confines of Grand Rapids, for he ships large quantities to nearby towns.

The strictest sanitary rules govern the operation of the bakery and that of the lunch room, where only dairy lunches are served.

The quality of the goods produced in this establishment is guaranteed by the fact that Mr. Anderson does all his own baking, in which he is an expert.

He is a progressive young man and not afraid to work and knows how to please his patrons.

VETERINARY

DR. V. P. NORTON, D. V. S. M. S. GRADUATE VETERINARIAN.

The horse, which is now considered man's most valued servant, has not failed to receive the attention his importance demands, and able minds have devoted themselves to the field of scientific research that he may receive all the benefits of man's wisdom.

The veterinary surgeon of days gone by was a mere caricature of modern professors. Schools now science them in the manifold operation of veterinary surgery, and they perform their duties with the utmost skill and care.

The most able exponent of this profession in our city is Dr. V. P. Norton, whose office and hospital is located on Market Square. The Doctor has had an extensive experience as a veterinary surgeon, and a superior education in his chosen profession.

He is not only skilled in the treatment of the diseases of the horse, but is also thoroughly familiar with complications of all domestic animals.

Dr. Norton is proprietor of the Grand Rapids Veterinary Sanitarium, it being the best equipped institution of its kind in central Wisconsin. He makes a specialty of surgical operations, having a special equipment for this class of work, having received private instructions from the leading veterinary surgeons of this country, along these special lines. Anesthetics are used in all operations.

Dr. Norton is most thoroughly proficient in his line, and during his eighteen years practice here has demonstrated his ability by some very successful cures. The Tribune takes pleasure in recommending Dr. Norton to their many readers as one of Wood County's ablest veterinary surgeons.

J. A. Weigen, D. V. M., who has just completed a three years course at the Chicago Veterinary College, while there was an assistant of Dr. E. L. Quitman, professor of Materia Medica and Therapeutics, thereby receiving special instruction in the practice of veterinary medicine, although he is a recent graduate, he is fully equipped with the knowledge to treat domestic animals scientifically, and comes with the best of recommendations in his chosen profession, and has located with Dr. V. P. Norton permanently.

OFFICIALS

SHERIFF A. J. COWELL.

No office under the gift of the people of a county requires more personal attention or the exercise of more vigilance than that of the sheriff. A man to occupy the position must be a man of honor, as well as one possessed of coolness and determination. In Sheriff Cowell our community possesses a sheriff who is unfaltering in his duty, brave in his performance, and never afraid to bring the guilty to justice or protect the weak. Duty with him is paramount—that is his watchword and thoroughly he holds it.

A. J. Cowell.

Since his election to office in 1912, he has fulfilled his duties in a most admirable manner, giving great promise that he will at the end of his term win the name of being the most conscientious, honorable, and capable sheriff who ever filled that office. Of one thing we are assured that he will let no personal considerations serve him from the most difficult and disagreeable tasks, and will show partiality to none, but according to justice to all.

As a citizen Sheriff Cowell enjoys the esteem and confidence of the public, as an official of the city and county, he has won distinction, and as sheriff he fills the position with credit and honor.

REGISTER OF DEEDS E. E. AMES.

No office in the gift of the people is of such importance and responsibility as that of Register of Deeds, as in his manifold duties he has to keep in touch with all classes of our citizens, as well as aid efficiently in the work of civil government. We do not hesitate to say that the office is filled to the satisfaction and approval of all citizens of Wood County by Mr. E. E. Ames, and who is now serving his third term in his present capacity. Mr. Ames possesses every qualification necessary to discharge the duties efficiently, adding to a general and courteous manner a sound business training, and is recognized as being well posted on every phase and feature of civil government.

He is thoroughly upright and honorable, seeking only in the carrying out of his duties the true interests of the people which is logically "the greatest good to the greatest possible number." The Tribune gladly places on record its belief that the office was never as competently or more satisfactorily filled than at present.

FOR SALE

Farms and Unimproved Land.

—One farm consists of 401 acres with good buildings, 130 acres of which is under the plow, about 160 acres in timber, mostly hard maple, and the balance of land is pasture and brush land. All of the land is slightly rolling and there is no waste land on any part of the 401 acres. The farm can be easily subdivided into 2 or 3 separate farms. There is a cheese and butter factory within one mile from the house, and the house is three miles from Sherry station, on the Soo Railway.

I also have a large amount of land which is known as "cut over" land and will be sold in large or small tracts to suit the purchaser. These lands are situated in Wood and Marathon counties.

CLERK OF COURTS A. B. BEVER.

The right man in the right place is the unanimous verdict of all who have witnessed the career of A. B. Bever in the above named office. He is making a record which will be good capital for him when he shall be inclined to seek the suffrage of his fellow citizens at some future day.

The relations which the clerk of courts holds to the community at large is a most important one. There are kept the records of cases which have been disposed of since incorporation, such as judgments, divorce decrees and civil cases. That these should be kept and cared for correctly, a competent man should be secured, and such a man has been secured in the person of A. B. Bever, who was elected to that most important office in 1912.

Wood County is proud of the office of the Clerk of Courts as it is managed, and it may challenge comparison in all respect with that of any office.

COUNTY CLERK F. H. EBERHARDT.

One of the highest important positions in the transaction of the business of a county is that of County Clerk, to fill which properly requires a man of wide experience in addition to being honorable and an upright citizen. It is quite safe to say that no man in Wood County probably was better qualified to execute the duties of this office than F. H. Eberhardt, who is now serving his third term in office. He is a commendable official, and deserves the thanks of the community for the successful manner in which he has fulfilled the duties of that important office. His sound training and experience has been invaluable to the county while his urbane and genial manner in carrying out his duties has been greatly appreciated and favorably commented upon by all who have been brought into contact with him.

He is one of our ablest county officials, as well as one of our most progressive citizens, who has long been a friend throughout the county.

How Empress Punished.

"The first person I saw punished in the palace at Peking was a servant girl; she had made a mistake about her majesty's socks and had brought two which were not mates. Her majesty finding that out, ordered another servant girl to slap her face ten times on each cheek. This girl did not slap hard enough so her majesty told the one who had been slapped to slap the other. I thought that was too funny for anything and wanted to laugh the worst way, but did not dare."—Two Years in the Forbidden City, by the Princess Der Ling.

House Boes in Egypt.

Old Mr. Egyptian carried a stick or a small club about the house with him and laid it upon his women like a thousand of brick whenever they disobeyed or displeased him. In the graves the mummies show that nearly every woman had a forearm fracture. When Mr. Egyptian came home in a bad humor he would sail into her with a stiff stick, and as the arm was thrown to protect the face it was generally broken while warding off the blow.

COUNTY TREASURER NATE ANDERSON.

Nate Anderson was elected to the important office of County Treasurer in November 1912, and the choice of the county seems to have been a good one, as no public official in Wood County is filling his office with more general satisfaction than he is. He is one of our best known and most public-spirited citizens, progressive to the degree called for to-day.

These qualities are qualifications for the successful administration of the duties, as every one must acknowledge, and Mr. Anderson is making thoroughly efficient in the performance of his duties, he is affable and polite, courteous and considerate to all who have official business with him, besides possessing the confidence of the moneyed interests of the community, which gives him the inside track in the performance of the outside duties of his office.

Mr. Anderson has given evidence as to his ability in office of County Treasurer and is to be congratulated.

NEWSPAPER DON'TS.

Don't put your home paper. It is the most active and powerful factor in building up your town, and to support it would involve you in the work.

Don't pay for it if you take it. Newspapers are run on wind, and the editor wouldn't keep the money anyway. He'd most likely pay it on his bills.

Don't fail to tell the editor how to run the paper. He has nothing to do but to listen and keep his temper sweet.

Don't put your name to what you want published. It's the editor's business to expose unpopular causes and take your chestnuts out of the fire. What hurts your business might also hurt his—but that's different.

THE EMPIRE BUFFET.

This business house conducted by Messrs. Andrews & Bodette, at 167 First Street, North, and known as The Empire Buffet, is one of the busiest and at the same time most popular buffets in the city. In the first place, its furnishings and general air are inviting to patrons; its goods are of the most desirable character, including just the very choicest of fine wines, ales and brandies, both foreign and domestic, the best known brands of bonded whiskies, to say nothing of good beers and a line of cigars that is fully up to the requirements of the most particular. In a word, this is one of the really worth while places of its kind in the city, and is conducted in such a manner as to reflect such credit upon its proprietors.

It naturally follows, therefore, that its patrons include the better class of men, men who believe themselves entitled to the best they can buy as well as a service and surroundings that are at all times fitting to gentlemen. It is these things that have made the Empire Buffet so popular and brought to Andrews & Bodette their present prosperous and growing business.

PRINTED STATIONERY

NECESSARY TO FARMERS

Every farmer who owns fifty or more acres of land ought to have printed stationery, with his name and address of his farm and postoffice address properly given. The printed heading should also give the names of whatever crops he specializes in and of what varieties of seed, seed or whatever breeds of hogs, cattle or poultry he keeps. Printed stationery gives you a dignity befitting the fact that your name and address will always be given properly and in full.

The Tribune makes a specialty of stationery printing. We have type and paper styles to please any taste and guarantee you satisfactory work at right prices.

Let us assist you in preparing copy for a neat job.

Men Need Help—Not Charity.

There is a higher duty than to build almshouses for the poor, and that is to save men from being degraded to the blighting influence of an almshouse. Man has a right to something more than bread to keep him from starving. He has a right to the aids and encouragements and culture, by which he may fulfill the destiny of a man, and until society is brought to recognize and reverence this it will continue to groan under its present miseries—Channing.

Fear for Industrial Necessity.

Bauxite powder, the chief ingredient in all cutting wheels in cut-glass factories, is found only in Russia and Virginia. The Russian beds, however, are being rapidly depleted. The wheels are made at Niagara Falls. They last only a few weeks.

GRAND RAPIDS PLUMBING & HEATING CO.

High grade plumbing is one of the vital things of any building, whether private dwelling or public edifice, so that it is of utmost importance that a high grade plumber is secured to do this kind of work.

The wise individual will not have any old Tom, Dick or Harry to his plumbing work, he will go where he KNOWS it will be done right, and that it will be done by one of our city go to above firm.

William Rogers is manager, and he is an expert plumber, holding a certificate from the City of Chicago, dated September, 1899, as a master plumber, and another from the State of Illinois, dated July 1896.

He stands at the head of his business and has headquarters at 304 North First Street. He has been established six years and does all kinds of modern sanitary plumbing, steam and hot water heating, etc.

From four to six skilled hands are employed, and they are under Mr. Rogers' personal supervision, with his 26 years of experience back of him. A large line of plumbing, and bath room supplies is also carried.

Mr. Rogers is a high grade business man who is well liked and is conscientious in all he does. He is one of our most popular business men.

If you desire to establish a home in the neighborhood of good schools come to Grand Rapids. There are great and growing business interests here but these are not allowed to eclipse educational matters.

J. W. NATWICK.

"The Booster Edition" of the Tribune would not be complete without mention of J. W. Natwick, whose establishment is located at 342 Grand Avenue.

Established in 1886, he has built up a large business and is patronized by many of our people who know where to go when they want good furniture, bedding, sewing machines, etc.

Mr. Natwick is agent for the New Home and Free Sewing machines and has a large trade in these alone. He has a big business and sells for cash and easy payments.

Few, if any, of our business men are better known than is Mr. Natwick. He served as city clerk for three years, city treasurer for one term; was assistant postmaster for four years and then became postmaster, which he was for four years.

He is popular and well liked by all who come in contact with him.

TO OUR READERS.

The Tribune is being sent out this week to a large number of people who are not regular readers of the paper. We want you to like the paper over. If you like it, let us know. "The Tribune" is always looking for new subscribers and if you care to take a Grand Rapids paper we should be pleased to number you among our list of readers. The subscription is only $1.50 a year, not enough to break a man if he has any sort of an income. We will be pleased to send you a sample copy of the paper at any time. Drop us a line if there is anything in our line that you need.

LEWIS J. ERON.

The whole history of modern sanitary progress is written in plumbing. Compare the work done now with that of 25 years ago; you will say the modern is the better of the two.

Taking large contracts of the work within the resources of the Lewis J. Eron on Third Avenue South near Grand Avenue. For many miles around you will not find another plumbing plant with such facilities as he can put at your command. He has expert knowledge, long experience and modern tools, enabling him to do all kinds of practical plumbing, steam fitting, sewerage and venting, at it should be done—economically and well. Mr. Eron is a licensed master and contractor, and furnished estimates in anything in his line. He makes repairing a specialty.

He carries a line of bath tubs, water closets, steam fixtures, etc. Mr. Eron has successfully conquered this business for two years, if you take him your plumbing problems, no matter how important or unimportant, he will guarantee satisfaction in every case.

"A fellow who tries to attract business without advertising is like the fellow who throws his sweet heart a silent kiss in the dark. He knows what he is doing, but nobody else does."

There are thousands of readers of the Tribune who want your goods. Why don't you tell them what you have.

THE PAINT SHOP.

This is the time of the year when people, whether they own the houses in which they live or not give much attention to painting and wall paper.

Naturally they want the best on the market, and that is why so many of them go to this establishment, which is owned by R. C. Getts, at 104 First Street, North.

Mr. Getts has been established one year, but he has already built up a large following, and he has built up a large patronage in the contracting field as a paper hanger and painter.

This is one of the most complete establishments in the city for wall paper, paints, oils, glass and affiliated articles, and what you buy there can be depended upon entirely.

Mr. Getts has established a good reputation for handling first class goods and doing good work. He is one of the leaders in his line of work in our city, what work he does, he does first-class, and his prices are low, consistent with good honest workmanship.

H. LELOFF.

To get that tailor-made suit go to H. Leloff, 332 Grand Avenue. He'll measure you, cut them himself, fit you and see that they are made properly and send you on your way rejoicing.

Don't mind it if you are a little too short or too long, whether one shoulder is a little higher than the other, owing to the way you walk. He'll drape you properly.

You can get a good suit from $25 up, cut and made right in his suit shop by experts under Mr. Leloff's eye. Best of all, everything is guaranteed.

Besides this he does his own purchasing of goods, so that in every respect weaves are up to the minute and are high grade. Many samples are on display all the time.

High grade cleaning, pressing and repairing is done, also. This work, too, is supervised by him. As for the clothes he makes, "Every piece of work is done under his personal supervision—that's why Leloff clothes fit."

JOHNSON & HILL CO.

Since 1837 this establishment has been catering to the people of Grand Rapids, and the big success with which they have met shows that they know how to meet the requirements of our public.

Their building, 132 feet square, occupying three stories and employing from 90 to 100 people, is complete in every sense. They do a wholesale and retail business.

On the first floor are dry goods, men's furnishings, shoes, groceries and drugs.

On the second are the offices and crockery, on the third floors are cloaks and suits, millinery, carpets, wall paper and paints.

The hardware department and farm machinery is in a large and complete, is in the basement. They do an immense business in flour and feed, and these departments are in a separate three-story building in the rear of the main building.

They operate an up-to-date lunch room on the second floor, where everything is clean and cooked in the best manner—an excellent place for the shopper to rest and have lunch.

In the rear of the building is also an immense feed barn, for the accommodation of farmers, and where 42 head of horses can be handled. This is free of charge. They do a big mail order business, issuing their catalog three times a year. The entire building is equipped with automatic fire sprinklers.

G. M. Hill is president of the company, Mrs. N. Johnson is treasurer, C. F. Kruger is secretary and A. M. Wilson is general manager.

READERS' QUERIES AND COM-

A placid note writes:

"Is it not true that the free lunch counter fork is as great a menace as the common drinking cup and the public roller towel? While the latter have been made less common, the common fork is still to be found in many saloons. They are usually partly immersed in a tumbler of cold water. Some patrons will eat salad, beans, etc., off the platter, and when satisfied, or when the bartender protests on the ratio of food to drink they return the fork to the tumbler to be similarly used by other patrons. It is a disgusting procedure. Those whose sensibilities permit of such practice, are, of course, individuals who would be most likely to harbor vile, filthy diseases in their mouths and systems. Will you not turn on a little of 'The light of publicity'?"

REPLY:

Your position is well taken. The New York Health Department is conducting a campaign of extermination against these forks. They are also giving attention to the washing of saloon and soda fountain glasses. The perfunctory rinsing of eating utensils is little, if any, better than serving a common drinking cup. This is particularly true of the sticky, syrupy, ice cream soda glass.

A man writes:

"Why is it that a woman can wear 'flow necks and short sleeves,' expose herself to draft, cold, damp and wet, and not catch cold? How can she safely change from high shoes and thick stockings to pumps and slippers and live?"

Christian Endeavor Meeting.

Madison, Wis., June 8.—Leading figures in the world-wide Christian Endeavor movement will be seen at the state convention of the organization, to be held in this city June 25-28. The list of speakers is headed by Dr. Francis B. Clark, Boston, the founder and president of the United Society. Others will be Daniel A. Poling, superintendent of the good citizenship department of Boston; Rev. John Pollock, D. D., Belfast, Ireland, president of the European Christian Union; Rev. Norman B. Barry, Chicago; Miss Sarah Haggard, Minneapolis, a successful junior and intermediate superintendent; E. P. Gates, Chicago; Illinois field secretary, C. E. McBurney, Chicago, expert superintendent of Illinois; C. E. Evans-Jones, recently of Ohio, representing the Welsh Endeavorers; Prof. W. A. Gifford, Carroll College, Wausau; Rev. D. J. Williams, Oshkosh, says the attendance will be double that of any other state session. The delegates will be entertained in homes.

The Welsh hour will be a notable feature, with Rev. Daniel Evans Jones as the chief speaker and a chorus made up of Welsh Endeavorers. Dr. Barr and E. P. Gates will have charge of the early morning sessions for older boys and young men. Some of the young men will bring tents and camp out on the shores of the Madison lakes. For juniors and intermediates there will be special sessions, with training in their work, games, songs, story hours, etc. On the evening of June 26 there will be a red and white parade, with floats, and athletic meet will be held Saturday afternoon, June 27, under the direction of University Coach T. E. Jones, and in the evening a banquet will be held in the University gymnasium.

Rev. E. T. Farrell, Milwaukee is state field secretary in charge of plans for the program.

MEEHAN

A. P. Ben of Amherst was a business caller here Friday.

The Misses Grace Clusman and Mable Gross were among those who attended the exercises at the Stevens Point Normal Saturday and also received diplomas.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fields and Mr. and Mrs. Will Fields of Plainfield were callers here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Ward of Amherst Junction spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Ward's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Fox.

The recent hard rain storms and high water of the Wisconsin river have done much damage here, destroying potatoes that were just planted and also damaging oats and seedling along the river lands.

Orrin Clendenning had a narrow escape from deep water when a boat capsized with himself and four others while moving live stock to higher ground.

A. E. Swensen of Chicago arrived here Saturday and will proceed at once to build a new modern stock barn and silo on his farm. He expects to have a crew of workmen at the job this week.

During the electric storm of last Wednesday night Elmer Thompson's barn was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. His best horse was also killed by the shock. His corn crib and machine shed were also burned with a quantity of corn and feed. The loss was partly covered by insurance in the Stockton Town Insurance company.

Question:

A. P. HIRZY, Jeweler, Vine Street, Grand Rapids, Wis.

Dear Sir:

Purely as a matter of curiosity I am taking the liberty of writing you to find out which is the largest Diamond in existence today.

Yours very truly,

Answer:

Grand Rapids, Wis. June 10, 1914.

Dear Madam:

This is in reply to your letter just received regarding the largest Diamond in the world.

The largest gem yet discovered is called the "Cullinan" or "Premier" Diamond, which was found in the summer of 1905 in the Premier Mine, South Africa. This stone weighs 3 1/2 carats, or 1.37 lbs. and is four inches long by two inches high. It is utterly impossible to place any value upon it but it is considered to be worth more than all the other famous gems put together.

While Mr. Wells, the manager of this company, was strolling through the mine one day he noticed a bright glitter from a large chunk of clay, and stooping down he picked up a huge crystal, which, much to his amazement, proved to be the largest diamond ever discovered, and worth more than three times as much as the whole capital stock of the company. It was purchased by the Transvaal Government in 1908, and through the suggestion of Premier Botha it was presented to his Majesty King Edward VII. in recognition of his grant of a constitution to the colony.

After its presentation Diamond experts from all over the world were called together to find out how the stone could be cut at a minimum loss of weight. This task was entrusted to Heral Koe, the King of the Diamond cutters in Amsterdam, and he, with two assistants, took two years to complete its cutting. They worked in a locked room, with a watchman continually guarding the door, and night and morning an escort of ten men superintended the conveyance of this priceless gem to and from its place of safe keeping.

Since cutting it is pear-shaped and has its permanent abiding place in the crown of his Majesty King George V.

While we have not any "Cullinan" Diamonds in our stock, we have many exceptionally valuable gems, which will be a revelation to most of the citizens of Grand Rapids and vicinity, and a cordial invitation is extended to anyone who is at all interested in valuable gems to inspect our stock at any time.

Yours very truly,

A. P. HIRZY JEWELER

HOGAN THE HERO

By HAROLD CARTER.

Hogan "squealed." There could not be any greater crime in the policeman's decalogue. And nobody had thought it possible of Hogan. Only six months on the police force, he had already begun to attract attention as a clean, spruce dresser. He was just the kind of man who would occupy a sergeant's desk some day. And now he had "squealed."

It was at the inquiry about Pat Grady, who had been given the "third degree" in the station house. The other policemen had denied all knowledge of it, but Hogan had corroborated Grady's testimony word for word. Though the man was a miserable sneak thief, without a friend in the world.

"What did you do it for, Hogan?" they asked him afterward. And Hogan answered that he had never told a lie and was not going to begin.

That was the beginning of the boy's career. There were worse things than that. Hogan could never be sure, when he went to his cot in the station house, that he would not wake to find himself on the floor, with the bed legs sawed through. Or that his locker would not have been broken into. Or that his uniform would not be a mass of tattered rags. Or his white helmet painted green. Or his gloves fingerless. Or something worse.

He meant to stick it out for Nora's sake. Nora was to arrive from Ireland the following month, and they were to be married at once. If he gave up—he did not know what sort of job he would be able to get. It would mean, not only the postponement of their marriage, but a career spoiled.

Hogan was thinking all that over as he went on duty. James, who patrolled to his corner on the avenue, had been a good friend to him in the first days of his duty when he was a green patrolman, but there were no more friendly chats on the street corner when the men met on their patrol. James passed him as though he did not see him. Who was going to speak to Hogan, except on matters of duty? Who would be seen talking to a "squealer?"

Hogan resumed his solitary beat. He was walking with squared shoulders and trying to look his future in the face. He knew that it would take him years to live down his reputation. If he ever did. If it were not for Nora he would get off the force.

Tap-tap-tap! It was the sound of James' nightstick upon the sidewalk. There is no mistaking that sound, and the signal is never given except in desperate emergency.

Hogan spun round and began running along the avenue toward his fellow patrolman. At the further end was a gathering mob of men. Hogan reached the outskirts of the crowd and began to force his way through.

"What is it?" he bellowed. "Man murdered his wife! Crazed with dope!" he heard somebody say, and pushed to the open door of the house.

Upon the bottom step James lay. There was a bullet wound somewhere in his body, and he was drenched in blood. And at the top of the stairs, a crazed madman, brandishing his revolver, was shouting defiance to all who dared try to take him.

Hogan did not pause "just an instant." He did not pause at all. That is not the way of the police. Up the stairs he ran, three at a time, and as he reached the middle of the flight he felt an odd twinge in his leg and heard the crack of the revolver. Another bullet spun past his shoulder.

A third struck the wall, and again Hogan felt that sudden twinge—in his right arm this time. The nightstick dropped from his hand—and he caught it in his left.

Another bound and he was upon the madman, who was fighting like a fury. He swung the empty revolver down upon Hogan's head with a third that felled the patrolman to the floor. Then, with a yell, the manias had darted up the stairs.

Hogan looked down. He saw the frightened mob around the door. He tried to rise, but his limbs failed him, and he lay there, wondering whether he was paralyzed and why he couldn't get on his feet.

A yell broke from a thousand throats below. "He's freed the house!" A thin wisp of smoke crept down the stairs. Then a fiery tongue began to lick the wall above him, and Hogan could hear the madman yelling as he watched the conflagration. Below him he saw James huddled up at the foot of the stairs.

By the Professor. Professor Jones and Mrs. Jones were both of the type colloquially known as strawberri blonds. In accordance with the immemorial custom of professors' families on small salaries at this particular southern college, the Jones family grew space.

The sight of him seemed to give Hogan new vigor. He got on his feet and began descending the stairs. He bent up and found that he had unconsciously picked up his nightstick.

He never knew how he reached the upper floor. But when he got there the madman was too busy to notice him, for he was standing over a woman's body and chuckling at his last spreading fiasco. With his last reserve of strength Hogan leaped at the man and brought the night stick down upon his head. He felt like a stricken ox.

Hogan picked up the body of the woman and staggered down the stairs with her. He saw that she was still living. The bullet had only pierced her arm, but she was as unconscious as though the blow which Hogan dealt had fallen on her own head.

A roar of cheers greeted him as he carried the woman out into the street. Men flocked around him and tried to grasp his hand. But Hogan turned and made his way slowly back into the burning building. They tried to stop him. He pushed them away.

Up, up he went, through drifting clouds of smoke and scorching fire. Now he was on the upper floor of the drug-store. He swung him in his arms, but the weight was too heavy and Hogan pulled him down the stairs after him, wrapped in his own tunic.

The smoke filled his nostrils and Hogan dared not breathe, because as all fire-fighters know, an inhalation of flames consumes the body within and kills more swiftly than a bullet in the brain. He held his breath and he pulled the madman through that Gehenna of fire.

Down, down—and the breath came from his lungs, and Hogan drew in one gasp of fresh, life-giving air. He laid the body on the sidewalk just as an ambulance was hurrying up. A surgeon leaped from the vehicle.

"Will he live?" asked Hogan. "He's dead," the surgeon answered, giving the body a cursory survey. Hogan almost swore—only he remembered that he was a policeman.

"Not him," he said, and pointed to the body of his friend. "Oh, I beg pardon," said the surgeon. "Yes, it's only a flesh wound. He's coming to now. Why, what's this on your coat?"

"Never mind me," gasped Hogan and fell into the surgeon's arms. And it was odd, but the first thought that came into his mind after that was the fear that somebody had sawed through the legs of his bed.

The man at his bedside must have understood, for he stretched out his hand and took Hogan's in his. "Glory be, my lad, you're coming to," he said. "No, there won't be any more bed-savings, Hogan. Say, lad, you've got to get well as quick as you can, because the boys are waiting to give you another sort of reception at the station house."

"I've always competed with myself, and I think that's what helped me get ahead. There's an element of selfishness in competing with friends or business associates, but you can compete with yourself and get only solid good."

It makes one think of a game of solitaire, doesn't it? Never mind, solitaire is a mighty good game, and teaches a heap of quick observation, patience and other things worth developing. Competing with yourself in the job you are on will keep you right up to the mark, for one thing. You'll have a constant eye on yourself, see where you fall down and how you can do better.

You'll never be content to do only as well one day as you did the day preceding. Yesterday's self is the self against whom you compete today, and you'll be determined to go it one better.

You want to think of yourself as a growing plant, not as a brick or stone that is to remain just what it is till it disintegrates. Don't stunt yourself. Don't be content with yourself.

"I would rather win my own approbation than that of my king's," said an old French philosopher a good many years ago. But you need to make that approbation mighty difficult to win. Compete with yourself.—Kansas City Star.

The Better Thing. O tolling hands of mortals! O unwearied feet, traveling ye know not whither! Soon, soon, it seems to you, you must come forth on some conspicuous hilltop, and but a little way further, against the setting sun, decry the spires of El Dorado. Little do you know your own blessedness for to know your own is a better thing than to arrive, and the true success is to labor.—Robert L. Stevenson.

By the Professor. Mrs. Jones longed for just one black-haired one. When the learned professor of doped from the scientific department dropped in for supper, Mrs. Jones almost tearfully propounded to him a question.

"O, doctor," she asked, "do you think it must always be hereditary?" The doctor looked from the auropoles of Professor and Mrs. Jones to the successive four alarms of fire-red hair on the little Joneses.

"Not so much that," he assured her at last, "as redhattery."

NEST OF LINGERIE

UNDERTHINGS ARE OF DAINTIEST POSSIBLE MAKE.

Delicate Combination Slip That May Be Made Up Either in Crepe de Chine or Fine White Batiste—Easy to Copy.

Although underthings are as conspicuously negligible as possible, they receive more consideration than ever. It is important not only that each separate article shall incorporate the minimum of weight and bulkiness, but also that the lines of it shall be quite perfect. Just now, when empire effects hold sway, similarly waist lines of undergarments are raised, and of course, there is no great amount of fullness in petticoats to interfere with the "hang" of a skirt. Every one knows the inconvenience experienced in adjusting the regular corset cover to the low-cut evening gown. Greatly preferable is a model that consists merely of a straight strip, with eyelets along the top through which is threaded a narrow tape of elastic. If the design of the gown permits it, bebe ribbon may be tied over the shoulders and a satin ribbon substituted for the elastic, which will not then be required.

All sorts of pretty concepts are being shown in the fascinating specialty shops in Vienna in bodice and petticoat slips to wear under transparent lacy dresses, and in themselves they are so charmingly dainty that it would seem a shame if they didn't show just a little bit through the veiling of one's gown.

For example, there is this very quaint and delicate combination slip of the sketch, which is made up either in crepe de chine or finest white batiste. The short-waisted bodice is taken in to a narrow shirred belt and is topped by a narrow heading of itself, through an inner stitching of the hem. The shoulder straps and arm shields are of fine net puffing and they are caught to the cover under flat chiffon roses. The fastening is down the center back, made invisible by the use of very small snappers under the flap.

The petticoat has its upper portion only of the crepe de chine, for the remainder of the length is composed of strips of lace and bands of net puffing. The matching ruffle is of net, and this continues up the side slashing and is topped by two chiffon roses.

Naturally these elaborate underthings are exorbitantly expensive in the shops, but if one is at all handy at sewing they are really quite simple to make and can be turned out at little expense. Anyway, it seems as if every woman should treat herself to one, or possibly two, of these lovely slips just to keep specially for her finest frocks, for in these days of delicate lacy undergarments fine lingerie is absolutely necessary.

If the model I have sketched seems just a little elaborate for your own particular requirements, it can readily be copied in plainer materials and made quite as attractive and effective. But I really couldn't resist sketching the very prettiest one to be seen in one of these alluring little Viennese white shops.—Lillian E. Young, in the Washington Star.

NEWEST VESTS AND COLLARS. Severe Little Fittings of Pique Give Charming Effect to Almost Any Kind of Costume.

The extreme value of the white linen waistcoat front of pique has been proved, especially when fitted with the stiff outstanding pointed collar.

With navy blue gowns, black and white check coats and all materials, these severe little fittings are indestructibly attractive. They look so fresh and crisp, and are so easily renewed, although they are naturally a little trying to brunettes.

Quite a number of black and white and dark blue and white check coats and skirts are specially ordered, and the coat was just a long, vague little affair, his length, and closing with one large barrel-shaped cut let button just at the waist, and so revealing one of the above-described vests and stiffened collars.

Question Whether Brown Bread Is Superior to White Still Forms Subject for Argument.

White bread was said by experts, or by those who claim to be experts, to be much superior to brown bread a few months ago, and we were told that the idea of eating graham bread or any bread containing part or all of the bran of wheat and other portions of the grain which are taken out in the bolting process was old-fashioned and might lead to injury. Now come the medical inspectors of the French army, a group of very distinguished physicians and scientists, who say that bolting pushed beyond a certain limit eliminates the useful element of flour in more than one respect and does nothing, but improve the color of the bread. When white bread is used exclusively they have found that the men eat and need more meat, but when the flour is only partially bolted and only the coarser particles of the bran are removed the soldiers are in better health and they eat less meat, which results in superior economy and efficiency at the same time. The method of bolting flour was invented some centuries ago, and it seems about time that the relative values of white and unbolted flour were settled, but the doctors can no more agree about it than they can about the therapeutic value of alcohol.—New York Commercial.

What He Needed. After Jack Sullivan, the witness who charged that Becker was "framed up" by the gamblers, left the witness stand, it took him considerable time to cool off. Sullivan created an uproar in court by defying every one and giving his answers as he saw fit. Some friends met him on the street outside the court building.

"Jack," said one, "come over at the corner and get something cool to drink."

"Not me," he replied, wiping the perspiration from his face. "If I took a drink now in my condition I'd crack a boiler. What I need is a two or three days' snooze in somebody's icehouse."

"No, we're not like the duchess, whose little daughter, Lady Ann, said: 'Mother, why do people have noses?'"

"Common people, dear Ann," the duchess answered, "have noses to smell with; but high-born people like us have noses wherewith to express contempt for common people."

Concerning Clothes. "These new fashions," said the severe woman, "are positively burlesques."

"They do seem rather in the nature of travesties on good things," replied Miss Cayce, "but wouldn't you rather describe some of them as mere take-offs?"

IN NEED OF ITS TEACHINGS. Able Seaman Had Not Read "Little Book," but Evidently It Might Have Done Him Good.

The chaplain of one of our cruisers had a luncheon of presenting small Bibles, neatly tied in a parcel, to men on the upper deck. That it contained a Bible he carefully refrained from mentioning, merely saying, "Here is a little book you'll like." He gave one to Able Seaman Spikes. One day, a week later, he approached Spikes as the latter was smoking on the upper deck. "How do you like the little book, Spikes?" Spikes' mind flew to his dial-box, in which the little parcel, still intact, reposed. He slowly removed his pipe. "Very interesting, sir—very." "Glad to hear that you have started reading it," said the person. "Started, sir? Why, I've finished it (Spikes had no idea what the book was). I don't take the time to read a book, sir, especially a good book. But there, sir, it ended like all the others—got married and lived happy ever after."

Gave Him the Idea. The sweet young thing sat in the stern of the boat, unmindful of the agonies of the inexperienced man, who tugged and blundered himself at the oars.

"What do you suppose we'll have for supper in camp?" she panted sweetly. "Floating island, I think," panted the young man grimly. "The same island has passed here, going upstream, three times since I've been trying to make it to the landing."

LOST OCEAN LINER EMPRESS OF IRELAND

Great Liner Goes to Bottom at Mouth of St. Lawrence River Following a Collision With a Collier.

Limouski, Que., May 31.—Nine hundred and sixty-nine persons lost their lives Friday morning when the great Canadian Pacific twin screw liner Empress of Ireland was rammed amidships in a thick fog off Father Point in the St. Lawrence and sunk by the Norwegian collier Storstad.

Four hundred and eighteen survivors were picked up from floating wreckage and two lifeboats.

Only 12 of the saved are women. Gathered piecemeal from survivors the horror of this wreck grows with the telling.

Waters Quickly Engulf Ship.
The doomed ship had little time even to pray. They were engulfed by the crushing waters that swallowed the big ship inside of nineteen minutes from the time she was struck.

The wireless operators on the Empress, sticking to their posts to the last, had time only to send a few "S. O. S." calls for help when the rising waters silenced their instruments.

That silence told the rescuers miles away more potently than a bugle that doom had overtaken the ship.

Only six hours before this fateful collision the passengers sang as a good-night hymn "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," played by the Salvation Army band on board.

The members of that band and most of the 165 Salvationists were among the lost.

Survivors Tell of Fog.
It was foggy, according to survivors, when the Empress of Ireland, a steel-hulled, steel-bulkheaded ship of more than eight thousand tons, left Montreal at 4:30 Thursday afternoon in command of H. G. Kendall of the Royal Navy Reserve, one of the most skillful of transatlantic navigators.

Forest fires also obscured the atmosphere and the big ship, in charge of a pilot, proceeded slowly on her way to sea. At midnight the pilot aide left near Father Point, shouting a merry "Don't Voyage" as he went down their ladder to his waiting boat.

The darkness at this time was intense and the ship under the slowest speed possible with staterooms held her course. Her decks were deserted. The passengers had all sought their berths with no thought of impending death.

Out of the darkness, on the port side, soon after 2:30 in the morning loomed the little Norwegian collier, not half the size of the Empress, but not to be her destroyer.

Not until the collier was almost abreast of the big liner was the danger known on either ship. The fog had blotted out the lights as well as the port and starboard lights of both ships. Quick orders trumpeted on both vessels were heard. But they came all too late.

Strikes Ship Amidships.
The steel-pointed prow of the Storstad struck the liner amidships and then forged aft, ripping and tearing its way through the Empress of Ireland.

Clear to the stern of the Empress of Ireland was the great steel shoving out from her side, from the top of the hull far below the water line. Into that rent the water poured with the force of a Niagara.

The bow of the Storstad smashed its way through berths on that side of the ship, killing passengers sleeping in their berths and grinding bodies to pieces.

Reaching the stern of the big liner, the Storstad staggered off in the darkness, her bow crumpled by the impact. Her commander was ready a few minutes later, when he found his ship would float, to aid the crippled and sinking Empress, but he was too late to save the majority of those on board.

Carried to Bottom.
The Empress of Ireland reeled almost on her starboard beam end under the blow of the collier and passengers were flung from their berths against the walls of their staterooms.

Many were stunned and before they had time to recover were carried to the bottom with the ship.

The vast torrents pouring into the great gash on the port side, aft, filled the corridors and flooded every stateroom about the midship section inside of four minutes.

There was never a chance for the helpless ones in the after cabins and staterooms of the liner. With her port side laid open for half its length from the midship section to the stern, the Empress of Ireland, and the trapped passengers in that after section were doomed from the moment the Storstad struck.

Reeling from the blow the ship began to settle almost immediately as the water rushed into the big rent.

From the forward cabins, however, men and women in night attire stumbled along the corridors and up the companion way to the promenade deck—the deck below, the one on which the boats rested.

Up they swarmed on deck in their night clothing to find the ship heeling away to port and the deck slanting at a degree that made it almost impossible to stand even clinging to railings.

Men and women, shrieking, praying, crying for aid that was fated to arrive too late, fell over one another in that last struggle for life on board the doomed Empress of Ireland.

Frenzied mothers leaped overboard with their babies in their arms. Others knelt on decks and tried to pray in the few moments left to them. Some were flung overboard by the heeling of the sinking ship and some broke their legs or arms in trying to reach the lifeboats.

Above the din of the struggle on the great promenade deck could be heard Captain Kendall shouting commands for the launching of the lifeboats. Several were launched in the 19 minutes that the ship floated.

There was no time to observe the rule "Women first" in this disaster, for those nearest the boats scrambled to places in them.

But even as they were being launched, while the wireless still was calling "S. O. S." there came a terrific explosion that almost rent the ship in twain.

It was the explosion of the boilers struck by the cold water. A geyser of water shot upward from the midship section, mingled with fragments of wreckage, that showered down upon the passengers still clinging to the railings forward and upon those struggling in the water.

The explosion destroyed the last hope of the ship's floating until succor could arrive, for the shock had smashed the forward steel bulkhead walls that had up to then shut out the torrents invading the after part. The water rushed forward and the Empress of Ireland, went swiftly to her doom, carrying down with her hundreds of passengers who stood on her slanting deck, their arms stretched upward and their last cries choked in the engulfing waters.

One of the survivors, relating that last tragic scene on the decks of the liner, said:

"I was asleep like most of the passengers when the collision came. There was a sickening crunching of wood and steel and then a grinding, rattling sound as the Storstad smashed her way along the port side of our ship."

"I knew that we had been struck and I rushed to the staterooms of some friends and shouted to them to get up, as the ship was sinking. Stateroom doors flew open all along the corridor and men and women began to rush for the grand companion forward. Those aft must have been drowned in their berths."

Darkness Is Intense.
"On deck officers of the ship, partially dressed, were rushing about urging passengers to be calm. Sailors under orders were trying to launch the lifeboats."

"The darkness was intense and a few minutes after I reached the deck the electric lights went out. At that time there were still hundreds of passengers below trying to grope their way through the darkened corridors to the companionway and reach the deck. Most of them went down with the ship, for the corridors below filled right after the explosion of the boilers."

"I leaped overboard in despair just before the ship went down and managed to find a bit of wreckage to which I clung."

The gray dawn revealed the government steamers Lady Evelyn and Bureka near the scene of the disaster and hastening to aid.

Some of those in the water tried to swim to the Bureka as she neared the point where the Empress had gone down. One woman, wearing only an undervest, swam to the Lady Evelyn, and was helped on board, but died of exhaustion soon afterwards.

The work of rescue still was going on when the sun arose in a cloudless sky.

Men and women were clinging to spars and bits of broken planks. Many of the survivors were injured. Some had broken legs, others fractured arms and still others had been injured internally in that last mad rush to get away from the sinking liner.

Women clinging with one hand to little ones, while with the other they tried to keep clutch to pieces of wreckage, were picked up by the lifeboats and carried on board the rescuing vessels.

Captain Kendall, dazed and unable to give any coherent account of the loss of his ship, was found clinging to a broken spar.

J. W. Langley, rancher, of Canford, B. C., went down with the ship, but held his breath, and, coming to the surface, found a piece of wreckage and clung to it until picked up.

One of the survivors, in explaining the quickness with which the Empress of Ireland went down, said:

Lexington was caught in a hurricane unprepared. All were saved by the help of the "S. O. S." summoned. The Niobe, wrecked off Cape Sable, filled in the intermission until the great sea disaster of the Titanic claimed world attention by the unparalleled summoning of assistance from many different sources.

Some people bear three kinds of trouble—all they ever had, all they have now and all they expect to have.

of which there were enough to accommodate a very much larger number of people than those on board, including the passengers and crew.

"That such an accident should be possible in the St. Lawrence and to a vessel of the class of the Empress of Ireland, with every possible precaution taken by the crewers to insure safety for the passengers and the vessel, is deplorable. Blows Whistle as Warning.
"Then the fog came and the Storstad's lights appeared. I rang full speed astern on my engines and stopped my ship."

"At the same time I blew three short blasts on the steamer's whistle, meaning 'I am going full speed astern.' The Storstad answered with the whistle, giving me an prolonged blast."

"I then looked over the side of my ship into the water and I saw my ship was stopped. I stopped my engines and blew two long blasts, meaning 'My ship was underway but stopped and has no way upon her.' He answered me again with one prolonged blast. The sound was then about four points upon by starboard bow."

Lights Appear From Gloom.
"It was still foggy. About two minutes afterward I saw his red and green lights. He would then be about one ship's length away from me. I shouted to him through the megaphone to go full speed astern, as I saw that the collision was inevitable; at the same time I put my engine full speed ahead with my helm hard aport, with the object of avoiding, if possible, what he came right in and cut the Empress down in a line between the funnels."

"I shouted to the Storstad to keep full speed ahead to fill the hole he had made. He then backed away. The ship began to fill and listed over rapidly. When the Storstad struck the Empress I had stopped my engines."

Should Have Heard Call.
"What was the cause of the collision?" asked the coroner.

"The Storstad running into the Empress of Ireland, which was stopped," answered Kendall.

Capt. Kendall, in answer to a question by a juror, said that when he shouted to the Storstad's captain to stand fast he received no answer. It was impossible for him not to have been heard, he added.

"I shouted five times; I also shouted 'Keep ahead,'" said Capt. Kendall, "and if he did not hear that he should have done it, as a seaman should have known that."

"There was wind?"

"It was quite still. When he backed away I shouted to him to stand by. I did not hear any explosion, but when a ship goes down like that there is bound to be a great deal of air, and the air pressure causes that."

Not His Fault, Says Andersen.
Montreal, Que., June 1.—With its bows crumpled in and twisted around at an acute angle to port, and with a gap showing on the port side only a foot or so above the water line, the Norwegian collier Storstad, which rammed the liner Empress of Ireland, limped into the harbor.

A few minutes later a warrant of arrest, taken out by the Canadian Pacific railway, was nailed to its mainmast by order of W. Simpson, Walker, K. C., register of the Quebec admiralty.

Subsequently a statement based on Capt. Andersen's report, as well as the reports of other officers, was given out.

According to the captain and officers, contrary to what has been stated by the captain of the Empress of Ireland, the Storstad did not back away after the collision. On the contrary, it steamed ahead in an effort to keep its bows in the hole it had dug into the side of the Empress.

The Empress, however, according to the Storstad's officers, headed away and bent the Storstad's bow over at an acute angle to port. After that the Empress was hidden from the view of the Storstad, and, despite the fact that the Storstad kept its whistle blowing, it could not locate the Empress until the cries of some of the victims in the water were heard.

Capt. Andersen denied that he moved a mile or so away from the Empress when his vessel struck the liner. The Storstad had not moved, he said. It was the Empress which had changed position, he declared.

According to the report made by Capt. Andersen to the owners, immediately the collision occurred, he heard Capt. Kendall shout, calling on him not to pull away.

"I won't," shouted the Storstad's captain, as loud as he could. After that the Empress disappeared from the Storstad's view.

Commander of Empress of Ireland Detected Disguise of Murderer.

New York, May 30.—Capt. H. G. Kendall, commander of the Empress of Ireland, brought about the capture of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, American dentist, who was accused of murdering his wife, Belle Elmore Crippen, in London.

Doctor Crippen, with his stenographer, Ethel Clara Laneve, took passage July 22, 1910, on the steamship Montrose of the Antwerp service, at which Captain Kendall commanded at Quebec. Five days later police officials at Quebec received a wireless message from Captain Kendall which said that Doctor Crippen and Miss Laneve were aboard. They had taken passage as "Rev. John Robinson and John Robinson, Jr." Miss Laneve was disguised as a boy.

No American Delegates.

Seattle, May 30.—There were no United States delegates to the Salvation army world convention of the Empress of Ireland. The ten Oregon and Washington delegates and 15 Colorado, Montana and Utah delegates will sail from New York for London on the steamship Olympic tomorrow, according to Salvation army officers here.

Unless you bear with the faults of a friend you betray your own.—Syrus.

HOW THE NEWS WAS SPREAD
Intelligence to Captain Walsh that the Empress had gone down, said:

Madison.—Prohibitionists in state convention here nominated a candidate for United States senator and state officers, except governor, as follows:

United States senator, Charles L. Hill of Rosendale.

Lieutenant-governor, A. J. Benjamin of Green Bay.

Attorney general, Maylen Mott of Neneah.

Secretary of state, M. A. Schmoeyer of Menomonee Falls.

State treasurer, Oliver Needham of La Crosse.

George F. Conings of Eau Claire and D. W. Emerson of Ashland were proposed as candidates for governor, but there was some difference of opinion as to the advisability of having two candidates, and after considerable discussion the question was left open.

A committee on platform consisting of H. H. Tubbs, first district; G. A. Paddock, Second; H. S. Siggel, Third; C. H. Mott, Fourth; A. C. Forster, Fifth; B. E. Van Keuren, Sixth, and J. Walden, Tenth, was named.

EUGENICS LAW CONDEMNED
Resolutions Adopted by German Catholics Also Hit Tendencies Toward Luxuries and Styles.

Shobogan.—The fourteenth biennial convention of the German Catholic Benevolent Societies of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan came to a close after a strenuous session. Racine was chosen for the next convention the first week in June, 1915.

The officers for the ensuing term were elected as follows:

President—John B. Helm, Madison.

Vice president—Jacob L. Deuster, Green Bay.

Recording secretary—August Springob, Milwaukee.

Corresponding and financial secretary—Frank Reiske, Milwaukee.

Treasurer—Joseph Birck, Milwaukee.

Executive committee—Anton Kleinheinz, Marshfield; Henry A. Schmitz, Appleton; John G. Heintz, Milwaukee; F. J. Dockendorf, La Crosse; Max Bach, Menomonie; Peter Mannebach, Shobogan; Math. Schmitz, Kenosha.

The Young Men's auxiliary and Staatsverband elected the following officers:

Spiritual adviser—The Rev. J. Krohn, Elkhart Lake.

President—The Rev. A. B. Salick, Milwaukee.

Vice president—The Rev. J. P. Herbst, Oudahn.

Recording secretary—George Markel, Milwaukee.

Corresponding secretary—John H. Zins, Racine.

Treasurer—Ben Niles, Two Rivers.

Executive board—Peter Pelt, Milwaukee; Eugene Kaudy, Oshkosh; H. W. Langenberg, Appleton; Arthur Butzen, Milwaukee; Marcus Pfalter, Milwaukee.

The organization of the Ladies' Auxiliary was perfected. It was decided to merely select an executive committee of the auxiliary at this time to carry out the work with a committee from the men's organization under the present state officers. After a lively contest for the chairmanship of the board the following were elected:

Amos, Lucy Bruens, Shobogan; August Springob, Milwaukee; James Doster, Green Bay; Henry Fredelake, Racine; Mathew Schmitz, Kenosha.

Resolutions were adopted pledging the full support of the state organization and the individual societies to the laboring class, condemning child and women labor and unnecessary Sunday work.

Strict but reasonable excise laws were recommended and the vigilant prosecution of catfishers to vice urged. It was recommended that all members be temperate in the use of intoxicating liquors and at the same time a protest was registered against prohibition.

A resolution condemning "the growing luxuries and entertainment, and the indecent clothing for women" was adopted.

Laws providing for sex instruction in the schools, eugenic reforms and "other extreme laws" were condemned.

HIG HOLSTEIN MEETING.

Will Be Held at Auburndale on Friday of Next Week.

On Friday, June 26, the Central Wisconsin Holstein Association will hold its annual summer meeting at the farm of J. C. Kieffer, at Auburndale.

With favorable weather this should be the biggest and best farmers' meeting ever held in Central Wisconsin.

A strong program has been arranged for this meeting. Addresses will be delivered by Prof. W. W. Clark of Ellsworth, C. J. Schroeder of Racine, and Geo. Cummings of Eau Claire.

Prof. Clark is the recently elected principal of Wood County's new agricultural school, and doubtless will bring an important message to the farmers of Central Wisconsin. Besides, since Wood County is to have an agricultural school it is desirable to know the principal of that institution. Every one should take advantage of this opportunity to meet and hear Prof. Clark.

Mr. C. J. Schroeder is secretary of the Holstein-Friesian Breeders' Association of Wisconsin and is the live stock editor of the Wisconsin Agriculturist. Nearly all Central Wisconsin farmers are readers of the Agriculturist and will welcome this opportunity to meet and hear the live stock editor of that great farm paper.

The third speaker, Mr. Geo. Cummings is a practical farmer and Holstein breeder. He is a clear thinker and an eloquent speaker. Mr. Cummings addressed a meeting of this association on a previous occasion. Those who heard him will not miss hearing him again.

At the conclusion of the speaking there will be a dairy cow judging demonstration by O. J. Leu, secretary of the local association. Mr. Leu has judged dairy cattle at county fairs and stock shows and will give to those present some valuable information about the show qualities of Holstein cattle.

Besides speaking and cattle judging opportunity will be given for social intercourse. Bring a picnic dinner. Tables will be provided, also free coffee.

Conveyances from the farm will meet all forenoon bus trains at Auburndale.

This meeting will be held to stimulate interest in the world's greatest and most popular breed of dairy cattle, to promote progressive farming and to awaken a livelier interest in the higher things in agriculture.

A most cordial invitation is extended to every one to attend this meeting. The J. C. Kieffer home is one and one-half miles from the village of Auburndale.

CHAUTAUQUA.

Our friends at Wausau have completed their arrangements and will have their Big Annual Chautauqua at the pavilion for the week commencing June 21st and continuing thru to June 28th inclusive. Judging day the excellent program was sent as the 1914 Chautauqua will even excel the previous efforts in that line and will offer a rare treat to all our citizens that are able to get away for a day or two and visit their Wausau friends. We have been asked to assure our readers that Wausau bids them welcome and will do everything in its power to make their stay a very pleasant one. Those who have never seen the magnificent pavilion, south of the city, in which the Chautauqua is being held, will find it worth their while to run up to Wausau for no other purpose than to see this wonderful structure and get acquainted with Wausau's way of putting on big entertainments. The list of lectures includes such known men as Father Cavanaugh, Stanley Krebs, Dr. Willitt, Leu, Beauchamp, Adam, Bede and Ethel Seidel.

A Socialistic Debate, and a great number of well known speakers together with this Chautauqua management is combining these lectures with the very best musical numbers that the country affords, and we can assure our readers that they will get their money's worth.

Beats an Incubator.

C. L. Butler of the town of Richfield was in the city one day last week and while here purchased a half dozen nursing bottles of the Sexton drug store. The size of his purchase caused some wonderment and in explaining he said that he had used for every one of them and probably more as a pure-bred Duroc Jersey sow he owns recently gave birth to a litter of 18 pigs and it was up to him to provide a mother for part of the litter. This is the biggest litter ever farrowed in this section that has come to our notice and we must take our hats off to the mother—Marshfield Herald.

Attails is Doing Fine.

James Case, superintendent of the poor farm brought in a bunch of attails last week that grew on the poor farm, which looks very much as if there was going to be a good crop. Mr. Case states that it is his opinion that the crop will cut about two tons to the acre, which is not considered bad for a starter on the sand land.

It is expected that more acreage will be planted from year to year, as there is no doubt that the crop will prove a valuable one once it becomes established.

Sunday, June 14th, was flag day, time during the day Old Glory was but as it rained more or less of the not displayed to any great extent.

RUDOLPH.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kersten were in your city on Monday.

A big barn dance will be held at the home of Mr. Frank Young next Sunday, June 21st. Everybody invited.

So much cutting has fallen this spring that the farmers have not got their corn in and those who have had to re-plant it.

All members of the E. F. U. lodge No. 42, are requested to be present at the special meeting Saturday evening, June 20th when there will be a large class of initiates into the order. The better halves of the E. F. U. members are invited to enjoy a social dance. The ladies will please bring a cake or cookies to serve with ice cream.

The marriage of Albert Peterson of Sisco, Minn. to Margaret of this place was solemnized at the Catholic church here by Rev. J. A. O'Connell. After the ceremony by Willie Byrns and Miss Ellen Peterson, sister of the groom. A big wedding reception was held at the home of the groom's parents in Sisco. A big band of music, the Imperial Orchestra, furnished the music. Many congenial friends were here. They will live with the parents.

John Rabele returned home Tuesday evening from a ten day visit in Iowa. He returned Wednesday with his auto which he had left in Sisco. He is now at home. He is well again after a severe attack of malaria. He left on the Tuesday morning to spend sometime at the Gen. Hams home in Sisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gokey of Moline are down here. They are attending the Peterson wedding.

The measles are prevalent among the children here. It is a good thing that the schools are out so they won't spread.

Drinking for Nervousness

All Men and Women Who Drink Do So to Quiet Their Nerves.

Did it ever occur to you, drinking men, that the reason you must have just so many drinks each day to quiet your nerves so you can transact your business, is because you are poisoned with alcohol? Did it ever occur to you where that low long drink you land you? Just how long the drinks you take into your system are going to stimulate and not depress you? How your daily number of drinks have increased during the past year? How long is alcohol going to control you and your business? The thing to do is to stop drinking. Get out of your thinking. Don't let another day pass, but go now, and spend a few days taking the Neel Drink Habit Treatment, which will remove the craving and necessity for drink without the use of hypodermic injections. The Neel Home Treatment can be arranged for, if desired. The Milwaukee Neel Institute is one of the sixty splendid institutions in the principal cities of the world. Write for full information. ROADS IN BAD SHAPE FOR AUTO TRAVEL

On account of automobiles, especially of the heavy type, getting stuck into the present time, within the last few days, it occurred to me that perhaps the travelling public would appreciate a little information as to which road to go when traveling between Grand Rapids and Marshfield; also those wishing to go to Pittsville and back from these two larger cities.

The main road between Grand Rapids and Pittsville will be somewhat tore up and under construction all summer, though the road will not be closed to public travel, and anyone getting in trouble passing around a culvert under construction, will be cheerfully helped out by the County Fund, but there is some risk to automobile travelers in taking a chance on roads under repair, and a few miles more or less, is more cheerfully made by an automobile owner than to get stuck in a soft place. Consequently, I would recommend through our local papers that the travelling public use other roads than the main road from Grand Rapids to Pittsville.

The road from Marshfield to Pittsville, by way of Klondike, will also be under repair from now on for almost the rest of the season, so anyone passing between Pittsville and Marshfield, I would recommend that the road around by the Insane Asylum be used.

The road from the Yellow river bridge, running West one-half mile, between the Town of Lincoln and the town of Rock, is at present being macadamized, and traffic on this road will be for a period of ten days be entirely suspended.

The main road between Grand Rapids and Babcock, via Cranmoor Station, is entirely closed up on account of a new bridge being under construction, across Cranberry Creek so anyone desiring to pass between Babcock and Grand Rapids must take the road leading out by Gaynor's and Arpin's marshes, which road lays further West than the main road.

Hoping, Mr. Editor, that you will give your readers this information, I am

Yours truly,
Louis Amundson,
County Highway Commissioner.

PEACE PLAN TANGLE

AMERICAN ENVOYS OPPOSE MEDI-ATORS' PLAN OF DICTATOR NAMING ANYONE.

HOPE FOR A COMPROMISE

Snag in Peace Plan Merely Over Method of Succession to Mexican Presidency—Carranza Plans Reply to United States.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 11.—Mexican peace negotiations have taken a new turn. A strong indication was given that the Washington government would try to arrange a pacification agreement satisfactory to General Carranza and his advisers through the selection as provisional president of Mexico of one of the chief leaders in the constitutional party.

This indication became apparent at a two-hour session between the mediators and the American delegates.
The United States is unwilling to extend recognition to a new provisional president if named according to the method prescribed by the Mexican delegates, which is that General Huerta would appoint as minister of foreign affairs the man who is agreed on in the mediation conference to head the new government.

The Washington administration contends that if General Huerta is permitted to name the foreign minister, who, by constitutional succession,
would be elevated to the presidency, even though the selection be made through mediation, such an act would be construed as recognition of the Huerta government.

On this issue the mediating envoys came to a flat disagreement at the day's conference, held for consideration of the exact method by which the new provisional government in Mexico should be created.

For more than two hours the mediators and American delegates argued in vain, and it was apparent when the conference ended that what had been considered a matter of detail suddenly developed an snag.

Although the three South American mediators argued strongly from the Mexican viewpoint, there was reason to believe that the Mexican delegates would not insist on this arrangement if they found the United States determined against it.

Washington, June 11.—Every indication in Washington points to some form of participation by the constitutionalists of Mexico in the mediation conference at Niagara Falls tending toward the settlement of international differences affecting the Huerta government as well as internal troubles of Mexico. It was expected the definite position of Carranza, who has communicated to his local agents and sent on to Niagara Falls before many hours.

The subject of amunition from the United States for the constitutionalists continued an issue of official concern. The cabinet deliberations resulted in a direct order from Secretary Rodfield to hold up a cargo of ammunition en route to Galveston aboard to Morgan Hill and El Sud for transshipment to Tampico.

The Ward Hill Latta, from New York with a cargo of amunition for Carranza, is due at Tampico today.
Huerta has suspended the blockade of the port and his gunboats having returned toward Puerto Mexico, some officials expressed the opinion that its cargo would not be interfered with.

Saltillo, Coahuila, June 11.—General Carranza's prospective reply to the latest communication from the South American mediators is being thoroughly discussed by him and his advisers.
What the purport of the reply will be has not been indicated at Carranza's headquarters, but there is a strong feeling among leaders that the plan of Quadrupole will be adhered to rigidly.

U. S. SEEKS NO WAR, WILSON

President Tells Graduates of Annapolis That Mission of America Is That of Service.

Annapolis, Md., June 8.—President Wilson on Friday told 154 graduates of the Naval academy, many of whom leave shortly for Mexican waters, that the mission of the United States is one of service to humanity, not of aggression. He spoke at the annual commencement exercises, and after the annual address delivered the diplomas to the young midshipmen. He declared the duty of the United States is to serve the world.

Speaking of the Vera Cruz situation, the president reverently declared that "I pray God the boys there will not have to fight any war." He added that the real test of their will to be their impression on the Mexicans.

Fire Razes Lumber Camps.

Marquette, Mich., June 11.—Forest fires have again broken out near this city, started supposedly by sparks from a locomotive. The fires have destroyed about three hundred camps, two camps destroyed.

40,000 Miners Resume Work.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 11.—Many of the 40,000 bituminous coal miners who have been idle pending adjustment of the wage scale for the ensuing year, returned to work following the signing of the new working contracts.

Aaka Wilson's Aid in Strike.

Washington, June 10.—A joint resolution asking President Wilson to appoint a commission of five specialists to settle the Colorado coal strike was introduced in congress by Representative Keating and Senator Owen.

Heat Kills Three in Chicago.

Chicago, June 10.—Three are dead and many were prostrated in the second day of Chicago's heat wave. The government weather bureau predicted a still further rise. The maximum temperature was 93 degrees.

Ritchie Signs for Bout.

New York, June 10.—Willie Ritchie, world's champion lightweight pugilist, signed articles of agreement here for a 20-round bout with Freddie Welsh, the English champion for the world's lightweight title in London July 4.

Moyer Trial Set for July 6.

Houghton, Mich., June 8.—The opening of the trial of President Charles Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners on a charge of conspiracy growing out of the recent strike of copper miners was set for July 6.

3 KILLED IN A STORM

SIX HURT IN CYCLONE WHICH DESTROYS IOWA TOWN.

Electrical Storm Does Great Damage to Northern Indiana—Losses Will Reach $100,000.

Madison City, Ind., June 9.—Three persons were killed and six injured when a cyclone which partially demolished the town of Sanborn, near here, and caused considerable damage in the territory surrounding that place according to advices received here.
Telegraph and telephone communication with Sanborn was destroyed by the storm and only meager details have been received here.

Automobiles loaded with food and medical supplies and clothing were dispatched to Sanborn. According to reports received here, ten residences, four business buildings, two grain elevators and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul roundhouse were razed.
Scores of other buildings in the town and in the surrounding country were damaged.

Mrs. B. L. Fisk and P. W. Xotuna, sixteen, were killed when their home was demolished. Patrick Doherty was missing today and it was believed his body was buried in the debris.
Among the severely injured were J.
B. Long and Mrs. G. W. Bonner, both of whom were struck by falling wreckage.

Laporte, Ind., June 9.—The electrical storm which passed over northern Indiana did great damage. The losses are the heaviest in the rural districts where a number of barns and farmhouses were struck by lightning and burned to the ground. The Fine Lake summer residence of C. M.
Hyde, Chicago, architect, containing many valuable curios and elaborately furnished, was struck by lightning and destroyed. Insurance men say the losses in the northern Indiana tier of counties may reach $100,000.

MILLIONAIRE IS FOUND DEAD

Francis A. Ogden, Madison, Wis., Succumbs Suddenly in Texas—
Left Fortune of $6,000,000.

Houston, Tex., June 11.—The coroner investigated the death of Francis A. Ogden, said to have been a multimillionaire from Madison, Wis., who died suddenly in a cheap rooming house here on Tuesday. Ogden, who was eighty-two years old, was very eccentric and it was not until an examination and it was not until an examination of some papers found in his pockets had been made that it was discovered that he left a fortune estimated at $6,000,000. According to information here, Ogden's estate consists of a large real estate interest in Wisconsin, a large stock interest in Chicago, houses and lots in Houston and other Texas cities, farm lands in Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and Texas.

Indiana Police Chief Hurt.

Newcastle, Ind., June 8.—Chief of Police Williams is reported fatally injured and Sheriff Bouslog and Chester M. De Witt are slightly injured as the result of the overturning of an automobile driven by Bouslog.

Seventy-Five Saved From Steamer.

New London, Conn., June 8.—Seventy-five passengers, including a number of women and children, were rescued from the Steamer Northland, which was driven ashore on Bartlett's reef, by the tug Tascu.

No Hope for Stevenson.

Chicago, June 9.—Adlai Stevenson, former vice-president of the United States, remains in a critical condition at the Presbyterian hospital. Physicians admitted there was little hope of recovery.

Man Killed in Auto Crash.

Rochester, N. Y., June 9.—Harry Baker was killed and Bertha Kester, twenty-one years old, was terribly injured when Baker's automobile turned turtle when the steering gear broke on Friday.

Britons Greet Colonel Roosevelt.

Plymouth, England, June 8.—The mayor of Plymouth and a party of distinguished persons went on board the Olympic on her arrival from New York, to greet Theodore Roosevelt on behalf of the city.

Sentence of I. W. W. Leader Upheld.

Trenton, N. J., June 8.—The supreme court affirmed the conviction of Patrick Quinlan, I. W. W. leader, charged with advocating hostilities during strike. Quinlan was sentenced to prison.

TRAVELERS END ANNUAL MEETING

Wisconsin Grand Council of U. C.
T. Will Hold Convention.

C. G. RUMPF IS ELECTED HEAD

Appleton Man Is Chosen Grand Councilor of Body—Other Officers Named—Next Session to Eau Claire.

Madison.—Following are the new officers of the Wisconsin grand council of United Commercial Travelers, elected at the convention which closed in Marshfield:

Grand counselor—Charles G. Rumpf of Appleton, formerly of Marshfield.
Grand past counselor—E. U. F. Loether, Eau Claire.
Grand junior counselor—W. F. Raetz, Manitowish.
Grand secretary—Thomas A. Wensink, Milwaukee.
Grand treasurer—John Callaway, Lacrosse.
Grand conductor—A. E. Banderob, Oshkosh.
Grand sentinel—George B. Campbell, Marshfield.

C. B. Evans of Janesville was reappointed grand chaplain by Grand Counselor Rumpf.

Eau Claire captured the 1915 convention. Watertown was in the field, but was not represented. The closing event of the convention was the jollification at the fair grounds, during which the U. C. T. ball teams from Appleton and Eau Claire played a lively game, Appleton winning, 6 to 3.

An elaborate banquet was served to 250 couples last night at White City auditorium by the Boy Scouts after the annual ball.

Heavy rains continue to create danger along the railroads and on farms in central and northern Wisconsin.
The flood damage is increasing.

Dairymen Make Many Tests.

Nearly four hundred and fifty cows, owned by 77 breeders in 28 counties of Wisconsin, are being tested to determine their milk and butter fat producing capabilities. According to official figures from the department of agriculture, the University of Wisconsin, this is the largest number of cows ever under test at one time in the state.

Each of the five dairy breeds popular with Wisconsin farmers is represented in the tests, forty-six of the herds being Guernsey, eighteen Holstein, eight Jersey, one Ayrshire and one Brown Swiss.

Two of the greatest dairy counties of the state, Waukesha and Fond du Lac—lead in the number of herds and cows under test. Waukesha county is represented in the records with nineteen herds or 119 cows, and Fond du Lac has eight herds or sixty-four cows under semi-official tests. Jefferson county is a close third with six herds or thirty cows.

Accountancy Law Is Valid.

That a person who has not been a resident of Wisconsin at least six years prior to the passage of the Wisconsin public accountancy law, and who is licensed as a certified public accountant is held in an opinion by Attorney General Owens to John R.
Tanner, president of the state board of accountancy.

J. T. Drought on behalf of a client appeared before the board and objected on the ground that this feature of the law violated the provision of the constitution that citizens of each state shall be entitled to all the privileges and immunities of the citizens of the several states.

In the opinion of District Attorney
B. P. Gorman of Marathon county, Attorney General Owens holds that where a building occupied as a saloon is burned the town board has no authority to allow the saloonkeeper to have his place to another without a new license.

To Dr. H. C. Bumpus, business manager of the university, the attorney general gives an opinion that Dean H.
L. Russell may rent a house which he owns to the university to be used by the department of entomology. It is held that Dean Russell would not make the contract as a private citizen.

Wisconsin Pensions Granted.

The following Wisconsin pensions were granted: Elizabeth A. Coad, Min-noka Point; Emily Piro, Wausau; Anna Schrock, New London; Phoe-be C. Turner, Viola; Sarah A. Gifford, Durand; Rachel Hollenbeck, Auroraville; Jennie A. Kendall, Milwaukee; and Margaret Sperley, Sun Prairie, $12
each; Edith C. Mueller, Milwaukee, $20 per month.

Grasshoppers In Badger State.

Grasshoppers are appearing in alarming numbers, in several sections of our central Wisconsin counties, and immediate efforts should be put forth to check their destruction of our crops.

This warning is issued by the entomology department of the University of Wisconsin. Prof. J. G. Band-era, head of the department, says the insects are most effectively applied before the hoppers produce their wings for flight.

Wisconsin Incorporations.

Articles of incorporation were filed in the office of Secretary of State Donald as follows:

Marquette & May company, Milwaukee, capital, $125,000; incorporators,
S. H. Markham, Karl Klauer.
Deuster Wine company, Green Bay; capital, $50,000; incorporators, James L. Deuster, F. J. Dendoever, Frank Korsnar, A. J. Winkle.
Oldenburg, Mueller, Thiemann, incorporated; Milwaukee, capital, $9-000; incorporators, Charles E. Oldenburg, Emil Mueller, Conrad Thiemann.

Fair Buildings to Be Rebuilt.

The Wisconsin state fair board met in Milwaukee to inspect the wreckage at the state fair grounds and to plan ways of carrying on the fair without rebuilding a storm. Scarcely of funds were expected to cause some trouble.
President O. G. Rewey and Secretary J. C. McKenzie have been here to look over the grounds.

The loss was roughly estimated at $75,000, the large stock pavilion being the principal loss.

Druggists of State to Meet.

The official program for the Thirty-fourth annual convention of the Wisconsin Pharmaceutical association to be held June 16, 17, 18 and 19 at Delavan Lake, Wis., at which time the nineteenth annual entertainment of the Wisconsin Pharmaceutical Travelers' association will take place, has just been completed.

The first session of the W. P. A. at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, will be devoted to reports of officers and committees, appointment of committees and new business. The afternoon session at 2 o'clock will hear the address of President Louis H. Kresslin. Welcome of W. P. T. A., by President Julius Kauders, Ladies' auxiliary announcement by Mrs. William Thompson, president; reports of legislative committee by George W. Mele of School of Pharmacy by George H. Kesten, of U. S. P. committee by E. E. Williams, and of executive committee on new members.

A band concert will be given on the Highland lawn at 8:30 o'clock, and at 8 o'clock a traveling men's entertainment, followed by a dancing party, will be attended by the delegates.

At 9 o'clock Wednesday morning,
the following reports will be given:
Committee on trade interests, by E. B.
Heimstreet; committee on adulteration, Prof. R. Fisher; committee on national legislation, S. A. Eckstein; historical committee, Prof. E. Kremers; committee on propaganda, E.
G. Rauber; druggists' national home,
George H. Kesten, E. B. Heimstreet.

A band concert on the lawn, and a reception and card party at 10:30 o'clock, will follow, for the ladies, in the hotel parlors. A baseball game will occur at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and a musical entertainment, followed by dancing, will begin at 8 o'clock.

At 9 o'clock Thursday morning, after the regular business and after report on fire insurance by William Kaiser and E. B. Heimstreet, there will be election of officers and delegates and state board members. A meeting of the Ladies' auxiliary will be held at 10 o'clock in the parlors of the hotel. The annual meeting of the Travelers' association will take place at the same time.

Another band concert will take place at 10:30 o'clock and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon there will be athletic contests on Highland lawn. At night the Ladies' auxiliary will give an entertainment followed by dancing.

The selection of the place for the next annual meeting will be determined and the installation of officers will take place at the Saturday morning session.

There will be athletic sports and a band concert in the afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, terminating the four days' gathering. Upwards of 150 prizes will be awarded, not only in athletic and social events to both men and women, but also for best papers, and prescriptions submitted. The convention promises to be the most successful yet held by the affiliated organizations.

State to Get Farm Fund.

Governor McGovern gave formal assent of the state of Wisconsin to the Smith-Lever act which provides for co-operative agricultural extension work between the states and the United States department of agriculture.
The assent authorizes that receive instantly the money to be received due to the state before adjournment.

The law makes available for the next nine fiscal years $23,120,000 of federal funds for instruction and demonstrations in agriculture and home economics. To obtain this total sum states must appropriate for like purposes a total of $18,900,000, making a total of $42,020,000, to be expended during the nine years. Thereafter the federal government is to appropriate $4,580,000 annually, and the states must appropriate $4,100,000 annually, making a total of $18,900,000.

Wisconsin's share for the fiscal year 1914-15 is $10,000, and it is to place the state in position to receive the amount from the federal government that Governor McGovern took the action.

Plan Honor Convict Camp.

Convict labor in building state roads is to be used in Wisconsin soon under the direction of the state board of convicts. Two camps of prisoners are to be placed at work in an experimental way within the next month, one at Waupun and one at Taycheedah, near the woman's industrial home.

The plan of the board is to put the prisoners wholly upon their honor.
Each company will contain about 20
and no guard will be placed over them.
The superintendent of the prison will be charged with the engineering aspects of the work and the foreman to have general direction of the men.

The work at Waupun is to be upon what is known as the Waupun-Chester road, a bad piece of highway where it is proposed to build a modern concrete road. At Taycheedah the prisoners are to be employed in doing the preliminary work, such as grading and getting the roadbed ready.

Grocers to Attend Meet.

Headed by C. J. Dexter, president of the Wisconsin Wholesale Grocers' association, among whom Milwaukee will be represented by probably a half-dozen jobbers, twenty or more of the prominent wholesale grocers will leave for Minneapolis June 15, where the annual convention of the Wisconsin association will be held. The Wisconsin contingent will remain over for the national convention of the wholesale grocers which convenes in the Flour city June 16.

Wisconsin Patents.

Thomas E. Barnum, Milwaukee, transformer; Alvin J. Bassett, Milwaukee, gas producer; Charles A. Brimmer, Spring Green, milk sheet and record holder; Edward L. Combes, Milwaukee, attachment for tables and other supports; Enos C. Frish and E.
C. Anderson, South Milwaukee, knob;
William J. Kestel, Manitowish, rotary Krause, now a resident of this city, was present at the wedding. They have lived here since 1869 and have two sons and two daughters.

Sawano.—The Northeastern Wisconsin Firemen's convention will be held at Gillett on June 15. The following departments will take part in the contests of the tournament: Shebano, Tigerton, Marion, Clintonville, Oconto Falls and Gillett.

Grand Rapids.—The body of John Jackson, an Indian, was found floating at the mouth of the Fourteen Mile creek, just below the city, by a party of boys fishing. The Indian indian accidental drowning. Jackson was single, about thirty-five years old, and a Pottawatomie from Arpin. He had been missing two weeks.

Wisconsin I. O. O. F. Elects.

Two Milwaukeeans were elected officers of the grand lodge of the Wisconsin I. O. O. F., in session in La Crosse.

They were Richard Hoe, grand secretary, and William George Thwaites, grand treasurer.
Other officers are: David Schreiner, Lancaster, grand master; Paul W. Mahoney, La Crosse, deputy grand master; G. Stanley Joslin, Belleville, grand chaplain.
Manitowish was selected for the 1915
grand lodge convention.

WISCONSIN NEWS TERSELY TOLD

La Crosse.—As a result of stepping on a garden rake a week ago, Alfred Schrank, five years old, is dead.

Merrill.—Rev. C. L. Nisbet has been installed as pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city.

Shawano.—Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Schroeder, Polka city have just celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding.

Oshkosh.—A silver cup is being offered by the Oshkosh Recorder for the grower of the best corn in Trempealeau county.

Baraboo.—The annual meeting of the Sauk County Holstein Cattle Breeders' association will be held on June 14 at Baraboo.

Neenah.—Felix Wolkowich, sixteen years old, fell off a bridge while fishing and was drowned before a rescue could be made.

Neenah.—The biggest fish catch made in Lake Winnebago this season has been 188. This record breaking catch was made by a party of seven local fishermen.

Neenah.—After being sentenced to the state prison for 18 months, August Lubeky complained of rheumatism until given the freedom of the jail, then he made his escape.

Appleton.—Mrs. Dora Wellhouse, who was found guilty of running her home for immoral purposes, following the closing of the red-light district, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment.

Ashland.—J. D. Brownell, head of the English department of Northland college two years, has been elected president of the college. President M. J. Fenenga resigned to go to the Pacific coast.

La Crosse.—The annual meeting of the Western Guernsey Breeders' association will be held in West Salem June 13. It is expected the meeting will be attended by hundreds of cattlemen throughout the West.

Janesville.—Fifty dollars and costs is the fine that Judge Maxfield is assessing automobile drivers who exceed the speed limit, and one dollar and costs for the bicycle riders who travel on the walks. Without warning the police started a crusade and the motorcycle officer began rounding them up.

Madison.—Formal announcement of his candidacy for United States senator was made by Gov. Francis E. McGovern. He is standing upon his record as governor of the state, for downward revision of the tariff and for a reorganization of the methods of distribution of food products. The latter is his most important issue.

Janesville.—An aged man, accompanied by his son, came back to his old home to select his last resting place in Oak Hill cemetery. With W. P. Shearer, president of the Cemetery association, he picked out a $40 burial lot and presented a $75 check in payment, receiving $35 in change.
Mr. Shearer is out the $35, for the check has been declared bad.

Sheboygan.—His miraculous escape from injury, to say nothing from instant death, in an accident few years ago, caused Rev. Father Charles Gerhard Myers, who was ordained to the priesthood at St. Franciscus June 1, and read his first mass in the St. Peter Claver church here, to study for the ministry. While working in his father's machine shop a machine under which he was working, weighing over a ton, accidentally fell, but in some manner his fall was stopped within a few inches of him.

Marquette.—Nettie St. Clair, aged twenty-two, a professional aeronaut, was dashed to death in the presence of several thousand people at Lakeside. She had ascended a distance of 800 feet. As she was over the water it is presumed she unbuckled the safety belt that held her to the parachute so that when she landed the water. While doing this she seemingly lost her hold. As the water was shallow the impact caused almost instant death.

Sheboygan.—That the two young men who robbed a store in Manitowish worked a similar game here and escaped to Milwaukee is the belief of the local police, and the Milwaukee police have been given a description of them. The robbery was committed in broad daylight. Shortly before noon one of the strangers entered the office of the Singer Sewing Machine company and purchased a bottle of oil, tendering a $20 bill in payment, that he might see where the money was kept. An hour later, when the bookkeeper was alone in the office, the other stranger came and inquired for a crate and was taken to the basement.

Madison.—A confederate entered the store and robbed the safe of $15. The robbery was not discovered until the men had time to leave the city.

Superior.—Much improved in health and, it is believed, on the road to recovery, Judge Frank A. Ross of the Eleventh district circuit court has returned from St. Paul, where for three months he has been recovering from the effects of a stroke of paralysis.

Amberst.—Rev. John P. Joeklin-sen, a member of the Wisconsin Methodist conference, and a former pastor here, is just completing a course at Union Theological seminary, New York city, and has accepted the pastorship of Lidgebrook Congregational church of Spokane, Wash.

Beloit.—Henry Albright was dug from under four feet of gravel at the base of a bank 30 feet high. He was unconscious. Albright was working in the sand banks when he was buried. The fast work of his crew saved his life. He was under the sand ten minutes.

Shawano.—Mr. and Mrs. G. Garbrecht celebrated their golden wedding anniversary here. They were married in Germany, and Herman Krause

A Far Sighted Man

Never puts off till the last minute, things that he knows must be done. How about your far sightedness? Can't you see where you will have to do some fixing up around the place before long, some repairs to make that will require some lumber? Then, why put it off? Why not come in and let us tell you the cost of the stuff you'll need next time you're in town? But whenever you buy, be sure and see us first, even if you have to drive out of your way to get here. It will pay you in dollars and cents to remember this.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS FOR LAYING WATER MAIN AND SEWER PIPE ON ELEVENTH STREET FROM OAK STREET TO AVON STREET.

Notice is hereby given that the board of public works of Grand Rapids, Wis., are ready to receive sealed bids for the furnishing of all labor and services and all materials, implements, tools, etc., except sewer pipe and water pipe, which is to be furnished by the city, on the street, necessary to complete and construct a 12 inch sewer on said Eleventh Street between Oak and Avon Streets a distance of about 350 feet.

Also a 6 inch water main together with hydrant connections to be laid in the same ditch with said sewer pipe, all of which work is to be done in accordance with plans and specifications for the same which are now on file in the office of the City Engineer in the library building in said city of Grand Rapids.

Sealed bids will be received by the board of public works up to and including July 1, 1914 at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, all bids to be enclosed in an envelope properly sealed and endorsed as follows:

Proposals for furnishing material, labor, etc., for sewer and water mains on Eleventh Street, Grand Rapids, Wis., and the bidder's name and address and the same addressed to Burton L. Brown, City Clerk, Grand Rapids, Wisconsin.

A certified check of 10 per cent of the amount of the bid to be made payable to Burton L. Brown, City Clerk of the City of Grand Rapids, Wisconsin, as evidence of good faith of the bidder.

If the bid is not accepted check will be returned.

A bond will be required of the successful bidder in a sum equal to the amount of the bid.

Contract for the work will be drawn without expense to the bidder by the City Attorney and will provide in substance that the bidder must furnish all material, tools, implements, etc., except sewer pipe and water pipe, which will be furnished by the city on the street and all labor and services necessary to do said work according to plans and specifications herein before referred to and to the satisfaction of the City Engineer.

Payments will be made on the estimates of the City Engineer from time to time up to 80 per cent of the amount of material furnished and labor and services performed at the time of the estimate until work is finally completed and accepted by the City Engineer when the balance will be paid.

The city reserves the right to reject any and all bids and the right to buy the sewer pipe and water pipe.

Dated this 9th day of June 1914.

Suffrage Meeting.

The ladies of Grand Rapids were entertained at the home of Mrs. F. MacKinnon on Tuesday and there was a large crowd of ladies in attendance.

Mrs. I. P. Walter gave a talk on the suffrage question and the meeting was a most successful one.

BIRON.

Francis Biron is kept quite busy now-a-days waiting on customers. He has most anything that you can call for. Mr. Biron is surely doing a good business for this little town.

The Grand Rapids Foundry team and the Biron ball team played Sunday afternoon in our new park. Foundry 1 and Biron 20. Three cheers for our boys, for this is only the second game played.

Elmer Babcock had about forty of the boys and kids on the ball grounds Sunday evening and every thing so that they will be ready for business. The young ball team says that they are now just starting out for practice and their manager, Elmer Babcock, says that everything will be on the square.

Mr. Gelbach is quite busy now days with the work in our berg. He is also leveling the place for our new ball park. There will be something doing in our berg this summer.

A. L. Akey was out for the first time Sunday morning fishing. He was gone but a few minutes and came back with a 5 pound pickerel and a bass.

John Posley takes his ride in our berg quite often of late. Well, that is all John has got to do for to pass the time with Alfred Dusen in your city a few times the past week for a few hours.

Little Luella Demars stayed in our berg the past week with a lot of her little friends.

Mrs. J. T. Herron has got about forty boarders all the time of late and could have lots more if she had place for them to sleep. It goes to show that Mrs. Herron is a good housewife.

Our school closed the past week for this season.

Mrs. Wm. Harroun was at Nekeosha the past week visiting friends and relatives. The mill started again Monday morning after a few days shut-down on account of high water. There was not much damage done.
